"To prove at last my main intent Needs no expense of argument."

* * * *

Mr. Coolidge shows more devotion to the feathered songsters than we had heretofore suspected him of when he journeys all the way to Florida to lay the corner stone of a bird bath, and then turns right around and comes straight back. The only bird that could make us take that long, dusty trip is the swallow.

* * * *

We positively disagree with Prof. Einstein when he says that "the local n-legs are all placed parallel." We saw two on an Street flapper yesterday that were placed just like this ( ).

* * * *

There is, of course, much to be said in favor of the Einstein theory of parallel legs when they are parallel, but not every woman can be a Pauline Hall.

* * * *

We do not desire to make a personal issue of this with Doc Einstein, but to us, in an off-hand way, "deduction of field equations from the Hamiltonian principle goes on no simple and completely unambiguous path" looks suspiciously like taking a dirty crack at Secretary Mellon.

* * * *

The First Lord of the British Admiralty says that the American cruiser program is no concern of England, and take it from Hiram Johnson, it isn't!

* * * *

* * * *

In as wholesome a show of devotion to the principles of orderly government as the House of Representatives has made in a generation the Administration is sustained, and the $24,000,000 dry raid on the Treasury will be fought out in conference, where, let us hope, it will die. Congratulations are in order for the 240 members of all parties who put their country ahead of the Antisaloon League.

* * * *

Virginia sheep who strayed into the Hoover fold in the late unpleasantness are to be permitted to come back in accordance with the plans and specifications of Mother Goose:

"Leave them alone,
And they'll come home,
Wagging their tails behind them."

* * * *

BACK ON THE FIRST PAGE

Senator Johnson, of California, yesterday was quite in his old-time League of Nations form. Where have you been all this time, Hiram?

* * * *

Mr. Hoover probably doesn't feel as elated over the fact that he catches a sailfish as we do over the fact that the only time we ever went sailfishing we didn't. Coming out of a reverie—for sailfishing is tedious work, when you aren't catching 'em—we suddenly discovered that we had absent-mindedly wrapped our line around our forefinger. If a sailfish had ever grabbed that bait we'd be dictating this column to a stenographer.

* * * *

Southern farmers organize the National Chamber of Agriculture. All you've got to do now, boys, is to pick out a fine site in Washington and put up a white marble palace.

* * * *

But if the Mayor of Miami forbids all gambling down there, how can anybody invest in any more Everglades building lots?

* * * *

* * * *

We trust that Prof. Einstein's theory that n-legs are all placed parallel will not get him in an infringement suit by Flo Ziegfeld.

* * * *

Railroad train out in Ohio goes three miles with the engineer dead at the throttle, but as there was no wreck nobody blamed it on him.

* * * *

Washington scientist disputes the Einstein theory that light is the fastest thing that travels, and we're inclined to agree with him every time we think of the speed with which Senator Fess got on the Hoover band-wagon.

* * * *

The League of Nations doesn't want Uncle Sam's dope on the opium traffic.

* * * *

At the rate at which we're sliding into the League the first thing we know Geneva will be objecting to prohibition enforcement.

* * * *

The trouble about Mr. Guggenheim's plan for an airport in the United States every ten miles is that we haven't got enough aviators to fall into 'em.

* * * *

It is encouraging to note that under the new system of publicity when Mr. Hoover catches a sailfish the war correspondents on the Miami front don't get into an argument as to whether it was a barracuda or a tarpon.

CHEST LEADERS WARN OF BOGUS FUND SEEKERS

Solicitors Must Display Proper Credentials, Givers Are Told.

TOTAL SUM RECEIVED REACHES $685,198.49

Chairman Poole Appeals for Larger Gifts, Distributed in Payments.

Coincident with the announcement that a total of $685,198.49 had been subscribed with yesterday's contributions in the Community Chest drive, officials issued a warning to the public to beware of imposters.

Reports received at chest headquarters said several persons had been defrauded by persons who represented themselves as chest solicitors, and headquarters announces that unless a solicitor can produce satisfactory credentials the nearest police station should be notified.

A total of $66,669 was reported yesterday by the special gifts committee which, added to the previous total of $538,617 reported by this organization, brought the figures to $605,901. The metropolitan unit reported contributions of $46,617.38 for the day, according to audited figures submitted by Auditor Andrew Landrus, of the Community Chest. This, added to $32,680.11 previously reported, gave a total of $79,297.49. Added to the special gifts committee total, the full amount raised to date is $685,198.49.

Poole Urges Larger Gifts.

At today's meeting at the Mayflower, the speakers will be George Hamilton, who will discuss the work of the Boy Scouts, and Mrs. Whitman Cross, who will talk on the work of the Instructive Visiting Nurses Society.

John Poole, chairman of the campaign, yesterday urged the workers to try for larger contributions. "I do not believe the people are thoroughly awake to the fact that they are giving for one year to 57 agencies," Mr. Poole said. "If they are once made thoroughly aware of this fact, I am sure the general average of gifts will increase. We do not want cash.

"We prefer larger gifts, distributed over the four quarterly payments. Both the givers and the chest are thus benefited."

It was pointed out that the workers are giving not only their time and efforts, but also heavy givers in proportion to their means, and that in addition to giving their time, these workers, by means of contribution boxes placed on the luncheon tables, actually pay for their own lunches.

Great Enthusiasm Encountered.

While not reporting any large amounts yesterday the group solicitation told of great enthusiasm among the various stores and industries of the city. Several stores have issued challenges to "match their 100 per cent gifts" and this challenge is being accepted by others with the statement that they will make "more than any 100 per cent."

Dr. Cloyd M. Marvin, president of Geroge Washington University, yesterday applied for 500 pledge cards with which he promised to solicit the 500 employes of the university.

"The Community Chest is a wonderful thing," Dr. Marvin said, "not alone from the manner in which it meets a financial situation, but also for its effect on community life. Catholic and Protestant, Jew and Gentile, colored and white, the citizens of Washington are being knit together with a com-

JOHN D., SR., BACKS FIGHT ON STEWART

Statement Places Magnate With Son in Proxy Fight to Oust Oil Man.

ACTION TAKEN HELD DUTY

New York, Jan. 31 (United Press). — John D. Rockefeller, sr., tonight expressed his entire approval of the course of his son, John D. Rockefeller, jr., in his efforts to unseat Col. Robert W. Stewart as head of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

He issued a statement — the first time he has spoken on a business or financial question in several years — saying that his son "could not do otherwise" than challenge the position of Col. Stewart.

Rockefeller, sr., is now in Florida and the statement was issued through his representative here. Rockefeller, jr., who now is in Egypt, is engaged in a sharp contest with Col. Stewart for control of the Standard Oil of Indiana, the younger Rockefeller charging that Stewart's activities in connection with the Continental Trading Company oil dealings, as revealed in the Senate's oil investigation, were improper.

"The press has several times reported a statement from Colonel Robert W. Stewart to the effect that Mr. John D. Rockefeller, sr., would be pleased by the reelection of Col. Stewart as a director of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana," the statement said. "Mr Rockefeller, sr., has been informed that many people in the West have been misled by this report.

"For this reason Mr. Rockefeller, sr., thinks it necessary to make a statement.

"Mr. Rockefeller, sr., owns no stock in the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. He

MORE CRUISERS NATION'S NEED, JOHNSON URGES

AMERICA VICTIMIZED AT PARLEY, HE AVERS

"Flimflammed" by British, Californian Says; Attacks Hysterical Pacifists.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Opponents of the cruiser bill, in and out of the Senate, were made the target of a sustained and withering attack by Senator Hiram Johnson yesterday. The Pacific Coast senator directed his fire at those senators who are using the Kellogg antiwar treaty and hoped-for naval disarmament as a reason for voting against the bill. But he did not overlook the pacifists and the internationalists.

In the course of his speech, which lasted nearly two hours, the senator from California raised the following questions, which are certain to invoke widespread discussion for months both at home and abroad:

His Three Main Issues.

First—Has Great Britain violated the spirit of the Washington Arms Conference and were the American representatives outmaneuvered, duped and even tricked into agreements which they did not intend?

Second—Does the chief danger to American national security come from pacifists and internationalists within our own midst rather than from governments abroad?

Third—Have the leading proponents of the Kellogg pact unwittingly nullified their professed faith in the pact by proposing amendments to the present bill to insure new rules for the next war?

Would Ignore Others' Needs.

These were incidental issues raised by Senator Johnson, whose main plea was for an American cruiser-building program for American needs without regard to the naval needs of any other power. But they aroused particular interest.

Senator Johnson pointed out, for example, that the proposed amendment for freedom of the seas or codification of maritime rules for the next war, sponsored by Senators Borah and Walsh, of Montana presumed, as a matter of course, that another war was coming, and therefore provided a paradoxical anticlimax to the peace guarantee contained in the Kellogg pact.

The same pens which have "written war out of the world for all time to come" now want to write the rules for the next war, Johnson said.

Declaring that he was willing to see 456 amendments along that line adopted, if senators so desired, Johnson professed inability to understand how freedom of the seas could apply at all if the Kellogg pact was to be observed.

It would simply mean, the senator continued, that the nation violating the Kellogg pact and going to war was to be protected with new rules whereby all the nations could trade with her and "make money" by dealing with her, despite her position as pact-violator.

Johnson sought to show the absurdity of making rules to protect neutrals in the next war when there would be no neutrality under the Kellogg pact.

Must Rely on Strength

Asserting, however, that neither the Kellogg pact nor any other pact nor any agreement for freedom of the seas would have any effect if a nation actually went to war, Senator Johnson declared that the only protection which America could really rely upon would be its naval strength on the seas.

"When national life is at stake there is no thought of freedom of the seas," Johnson said. "When the British got into the World War they disregarded the rights of every other nation whenever those rights interfered with her plans. When we got into the war we disregarded the rights of every other nation on the face of the earth which interfered with our purposes.

"There's just one way to get freedom of the seas and protect our commerce and that way is for our country to be strong enough to enforce its will in-

DRY FUND VOTE IN HOUSE BACKS MELLON'S VIEW

Bill Asking $24,000,000 for Enforcement Is Sent to Conference.

MOVE TO KEEP ITEM ON FLOOR IS BEATEN

(Associated Press.)

The first test of strength in the House on the proposal to add $24,000,000 to the prohibition enforcement fund resulted yesterday in a victory for those who have inclined to the views of Secretary Mellon that the money should not be appropriated without a definite plan of allocation.

By a vote of 240 to 141, the House rejected a motion designed to prevent the deficiency supply measure, to which the huge dry law enforcement item was added by the Senate last week, from going to conference. A few minutes later, without a record ballot, it overrode the opposition of those clamoring for immediate approval of the item and sent the bill to conference.

Before Joint Committee.

As a result of this balloting the measure now will be placed in the hands of a conference committee on which the House and Senate will have equal representation. It is believed by some House members that in view of the large vote by which the Senate approved the proposal the Senate conferees will insist upon its retention. Whether this is done, it is regarded as probable that other votes will be necessary in at least one of the two houses before the question finally is disposed of.

The amendment specifically would provide for expenditure of the money under direction of the President.

Party Lines Split.

The House vote yesterday saw a division of party lines and also found a split in that heretofore has been regarded as the wet and dry camps in the House. The ballot was taken late in the day after several hours of debate in which the membership participated freely.

Two days ago an attempt to send the measure to conference resulted in a mix-up in parliamentary procedure and adjournment was taken to solve the parliamentary situation. The problem was turned over to the rules committee which group approved a resolution to provide for sending the bill to conference and it was this resolution which was approved by a vivavoce vote after those anxious to block such action had lost out on the record ballot.

The motion designed to keep the bill from conference found 194 Republicans lined up with 45 Democrats and 1 Socialist, Berger, of Wisconsin, in opposition. The move was supported by a combination of 10 Republicans, 129 Democrats and the 2 Farmer-Labor members, Carss and Kvale, of Minnesota.

In addition five Republicans and three Democrats were paired against the

ROVER AND COLLINS TO GIVE JURY DATA

Captain May Face Board, or Possible Trial by Courts.

PALMIST TO APPEAR SOON, REPORT SAYS

To Make Known Her Hiding Place to Blanton; Three Quizzes Under Way.

A showdown is coming early next week in the case of Police Capt. Guy E. Burlingame, against whom sensational charges have been made by Mrs. Helen Blalock, a palmist. Either the District Commissioners will move to discipline the accused officer or the district attorney will take the case before the grand jury.

Such a program, it was learned at the District Building yesterday, was agreed upon at a conference between Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty and Corporation Counsel W. W. Britt, on the one hand and District Attorney Leo A. Rover and his assistant, W. H. Collins, on the other.

Rover and Collins, it is understood, will be marking time, waiting for the Commissioners to decide what they are going to do about Burlingame. On Monday there will be another conference at the courthouse, and a final course of action will be decided upon.

Inquiry by Commissioners.

In the meantime, the Commissioners will conduct an investigation of their own into the charges made against Burlingame by Mrs. Blalock. They decided to do this at a conference yesterday.

The belief is strong that Mrs. Blalock, who has been missing for nearly a month, will soon make her whereabouts known to Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas.

When the palmist visited Blanton in Texas early last month and swore out her damaging affidavit against Burlingame, she promised that she would communicate with him later and let him know where she was.

In her affidavit she said she was afraid Burlingame would kill her if she came to Washington. However, it is believed that she would agree to come here if given assurances that she would be heavily guarded.

Blanton to Cooperate.

Rover and Collins insist that they are ignorant of the woman's whereabouts, but it is known that they are confident that she will eventually get in touch with Blanton. And Blanton has promised that he will cooperate with them.

For two hours yesterday the District Commissioners discussed the case of Capt. Burlingame, and in the end decided to conduct an independent investigation into the charges made against him by Mrs. Blalock.

What is to be done about Burlingame—whether he is to continue as captain of the Second Precinct, be suspended or face the trial board—will depend upon the result of this investigation.

Thus, there are now three agencies making inquiries into the sensational case, the others being the Gibson subcommittee and the district attorney's office.

Presumably, if the District Commissioners decide to suspend Burlingame and order him before the trial board, the district attorney's office will hold up action unless Mrs. Blalock appears on the scene and demands action.

However, if the Commissioners decide to the contrary Rover and Collins will take the case before the grand jury and let that body decide whether or Elinor Smith Tells of Dismay After Shooting Flare; Sets New Mark.

VIOLA GENTRY HAS CRASH

New York, Jan. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Miss Elinor Smith, 17-year-old girl flier who landed at Mitchel Field, Long Island, early today with a new women's endurance record of 13 hours 16 minutes and 45 seconds to her credit, spent the remainder of the day in bed at the Freeport, Long Island, home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smith, recuperating from loss of sleep, hunger and the bitter cold through which she flew. Among the mass of congratulatory telegrams that poured in on her were messages from Miss Bobby Trout, California aviatrix and former holder of the duration record, Lady Heath and Miss Marjorie Stinson, well-known women fliers. The New York World News Service presents herewith Miss Smith's own story of her record-breaking feat:

Well, the record is back in New York and I'm proud of that. But Miss Trout—she's the California girl who held it until last night, or rather this morning—certainly is a good loser and a real sport. I suppose someone will go out and beat my mark before long but the more the merrier. Maybe, we can stir up enough interest to have a separate set of records created for wom-

LOUISIANA SLAYERS TO BE HANGED TODAY

Mrs. LeBouef and Dreher Collapse on Realizing All Hope Is Gone.

SLEW WOMAN'S HUSBAND

Franklin, La., Jan. 31 (U.P.).—With all hope vanished and every legal avenue closed to the attorneys who had won three stays of execution, Mrs. Ada Bonner LeBouef and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, after collapsing in their cells today, realized tonight they must die on the gallows tomorrow afternoon.

The former lovers will be hanged for the murder eighteen months ago of Mrs. LeBouef's husband, James.

They had hopes of winning another postponement of the hanging until today when three separate moves in courts at New Orleans were denied. The attorneys who had fought through the courts in Franklin, New Orleans and Washington announced they had given up the fight.

Word of their decision was brought to Mrs. LeBouef and Dr. Dreher by Sheriff Charles Pecot. The woman fell to her cot in a state of collapse and later became hysterical.

The doctor, clasping his hands over his face tossed on his bed and moaned "Oh, God. Oh, God."

Until this word arrived at the Franklin Jail the couple had their hopes bolstered through the thought that their attorneys could win a fourth postponement of the double execution.

Gov. Huey P. Long has refused repeatedly to intervene, and attorneys

Mayer to Be Envoy, Jewish Paper Says

Film Executive Has Quit Post to Go to Turkey, Morning Journal States.

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The Jewish Morning Journal will say tomorrow it has learned that President-elect Hoover has chosen Louis B. Mayer, vice president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Film Corporation, as Ambassador to Turkey and that Mr. Mayer has accepted the post and resigned from the motion picture company.

Mr. Mayer, the newspaper will say, is an old friend of Mr. Hoover and a member of the California State Republican committee. By his appointment the President-elect has followed the precedent observed by Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson in naming a Jew as American Ambassador to Turkey.

Mr. Mayer, born in Kovno, July 5, 1885, the son of Jacob and Sarah Mayer, received his education in the schools of St. John, N. B. He spent his early manhood in Boston, Mass., where he married Margaret Shenburg in 1903.

Young Scientist Confutes Einstein on Speed of Light

Its Passage Is Not Limit of Velocity, Declares Glen H. Draper.

Exception to one of the fundamentals of the widely published "universal law" of Prof. Albert Einstein has been taken by a young scientist of the United States Naval Observatory, who is still in his twenties.

Glen H. Draper, who lives at 125 Strickler street, Clarendon, Va., is the scientist. His theory, which definitely refutes certain generally accepted points in the Einstein proposition, is that the speed of light is not the limit of velocity and that the velocity varies with relation to the speed and direction of the source, the medium through which it travels and the speed and direction of the observer.

Einstein's theory postulated the premise that the speed of light is not only the limit of velocity, but that it remains constant without regard to any outside influence.

This theory, Draper said yesterday, was unacceptable to him even while he was in college, because it failed to explain and seemed to contradict certain obvious phenomena, such as refraction of light, and that it seemed to violate the law of cause and effect.

"If the velocity of light is the highest attainable," the young scientist said, "it is infinite velocity. Now, infinite velocity means to me speed which can't be stopped.

"But, obviously, the speed of light can not only be stopped, but it can be reversed. Any one can prove that by simply holding a mirror in the

Papal Nuncio Is Fired on In Spanish Palace Grounds

Bullets Supposed to Be Meant for "Someone Else;" Four Shots Go Wild—Assassination Attempt Follows Recent Revolt, Which Was Reported Quelled.

London (by telephone from Madrid), Jan. 31 (A.P.).—An unsuccessful attempt was made tonight to assassinate the diplomatic representative of the Pope while he was walking in the grounds of the royal palace at Madrid. The assailant escaped after firing four shots, which went wild. It was supposed that he mistook the priest for some one else.

Bordeaux, France, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Reports that the Spanish revolutionary plot, reported quelled on Tuesday, had ramifications in the navy seemed confirmed by news reaching here today from the frontier of the arrest of Naval Lieut. Angel Rizo on charges of being implicated in the movement. The arrest was made on board the cruiser Don Blas Lezo in the harbor of Cartagena.

Previous reports had indicated that the revolt was primarily one of artillery officers dissatisfied with conditions in the army.

The "diplomatic representative", of the Pope, reported fired on at Madrid, would be the papal nuncio, Mgr. Federico Tedeschini, who was appointed to the Spanish post in March, 1921. He has been on extremely friendly terms with the royal family, which might account for his presence within the grounds of the Spanish royal palace.

Spain was already under rigid censorship because of the revolt which broke out in Ciudad Real two days ago, but which had been reported crushed.

Although the message did not say for whom it was believed the shots were intended, it is recalled that in 1925 while King Alfonso and his queen were visiting in Barcelona, a series of bombs were discovered in the vicinity of the royal party, at least one of which exploded. Their return to Madrid was delayed in consequence and finally made without announcement.

The king yesterday was at Seville, but was reported as planning to return to the capital to receive the report of Premier Primo de Rivera on the recent revolt and the measures taken to restore peace.

not Burlingame has done anything wrong.

In the past two days Burlingame has led his men on several raids. At once place he seized sixteen quarts of liquor. Yesterday he broke the silence he had maintained since he appeared before the Gibson subcommittee Tuesday by saying that his relations with Mrs. Blalock had been "open and above board." When the proper time comes, he added, he will make a statement that will explain everything.

Burlingame to Explain.

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty called his colleagues, Commissioners Sidney P. Taliaferro and William B. Ladue, into conference yesterday after he had received the mass of documents from Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas.

This evidence, the same as that given to District Attorney Leo A. Rover and the newspapers, consists of photostatic copies of checks, receipts and love letters.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride also was at the conference and went over the documents with the Commissioners. While no decision has been made, Bride probably will be assigned to handle the District end of the investigation.

Bars Comment on "Ring."

This morning at 10 o'clock the Commissioners will meet in Dougherty's office and discuss the case again.

The telegram sent to Representative Blanton on January 12 by Representative Ernest W. Gibson, and which was made public by the Texan two days ago, had a bombshell effect among police officials.

In the telegram Gibson said that he thought Mrs. Blalock's story might help to break up "a ring in control of police affairs." Gibson admitted yesterday that he sent the telegram, but would make no comment on it.

The furniture in Mrs. Blalock's Seventh street palmistry establishment, it was learned yesterday, has been taken away in the last week, but who ordered it moved is a mystery.

Mrs. Blalock's professional name is "Madame Zanza," and she is said to have done a very profitable business, principally among colored persons.

Capitol Employe Fined On Charge of Assault

Blake Bartlett, 31 years old, an electrician, employed at the Capitol, was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Gus A. Schuldt, in Police Court, on charges of assault and intoxication.

Patrolman Samuel J. Holladay complained that Bartlett struck him when arrested on a charge of intoxication on Wednesday. A charge of carrying a dangerous weapon, a paring knife, was also filed against Bartlett, but disposition was deferred pending investigation of the defendant's story that he was taking the knife to his home, 2526 Seventeenth street northwest, for kitchen use. The patrolman declared Bartlett attempted to use the knife when arrested.

Man Held After Sending Police Out on 'Fake' Call

Kenneth Robert Moffett, 31 years old, of 1448 Park road northwest, was arrested by police last night and charged with disorderly conduct after he is alleged to have sent police on a "fake" telephone call to an apartment at 1457 Park road northwest.

Police from headquarters who investigated reported that Moffett had been asked to leave an apartment at 1457, where he had been attending a party, and upon departing called the police and reported that there had been a shooting. He was being held at an early hour this morning on $25 bond.

Woman Democratic Aid Suffers From Poison

Mrs. Mildred Crowe, 35 years old, assistant treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, was at Emergency Hospital last night suffering from effects of poison, and alleged efforts to strangle herself.

Dr. I. Rutkoski, of Emergency Hospital staff, treated the woman at her home, 1325 Park road northwest, yesterday afternoon. He reported that he found her strangling herself with a scarf, and very ill from the poison. He sent her to Gallinger Hospital, and later she was removed to Emergency.

January Breaks All Fire-Alarm Records

All records for the number of fire alarms received by the fire board at the District Building during any one month were broken during January, when 830 alarms were answered.

The previous high record—807 in January, 1928—was broken yesterday morning at 7:09 o'clock, when box 6119 was turned in for a blazing automobile in an alley between Twelfth, Thirteenth, E and F streets northeast. This alarm was followed during the course of the day by 22 others.

Writ of Error Is Issued In Rum Case Life Term

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The supreme court late today granted a writ of error for Mrs. Emma Mae Miller, Lansing housewife serving a life term in the Detroit House of Correction on a fourth liquor conviction. The writ permits counsel for Mrs. Miller to appeal her sentence to the high court. She will not be released on bond.

Mrs. Miller's counsel alleged fifty-four errors in the conduct of the case, both on the final conviction and at the trial under the habitual criminal act. Most of the errors were directed at Judge Charles B. Collingwood, who admitted a special jury panel and revoked the probation terms of two witnesses who failed to identify Mrs. Miller on the stand.

Briggs Company Leases Half of Main Ford Plant

Detroit, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Approximately half of the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor Co., has been taken over under a 5-year lease by the Briggs Manufacturing Co., it was announced today. The total floor space to be taken over by the Briggs Co., which manufactures automobiles bodies, will be 1,650,000 square feet.

The Highland Park Plant, original parent plant of the Ford Motor Co., in recent months has been devoted largely to assembly work rather than basic production.

COOLIDGE TO SPEAK IN FLORIDA TODAY

RETURN HERE TOMORROW

Aboard the President's Special, En Route to Mountain Lake, Fla., Jan. 31 (U.P.).—The President and Mrs. Coolidge were on their way tonight to make their first formal visit to Florida, where both President-elect Hoover and Alfred E. Smith, defeated Democratic candidate, are visiting.

This is the President's first trip into the South since election and probably his last journey before he retires.

Mr. Coolidge is to make the dedicatory address at the Edward Bok bird sanctuary at Mountain Lake tomorrow afternoon.

On their trip a year ago to Havana, the Coolidges passed through Florida, but this will be their first formal visit.

At the conclusion of the dedicatory ceremonies, the President and the First Lady will inspect the carillon of 61 bells, one of the 30 such singing towers in the country. They then will be guests at tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bok, where they will rest before boarding their train for Washington tomorrow night.

Arriving at Mountain Lake tomorrow afternoon a short time before the ceremonies scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock (E. S. T.), the presidential party will depart about six hours later for Washington.

The President is expected to reach the White House early Saturday night.

His party includes Everett Sanders, his personal secretary; Col. Osmun Latrobe, military aid; Capt. Wilson Brown, naval aid; Col. James F. Coupal, White House physician; E. C. Geiser, of the presidential secretarial staff, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Williams, of Boston.

The party was one of the smallest to accompany Mr. Coolidge since he became President. Many newspaper correspondents and photographers who usually travel on the presidential train are now at Miami Beach with President-elect Hoover.

Probate of Will Asked On Vestris Victim's Estate

Petition for probate of the will of Mrs. Mabel M. Mills, one of the passengers on the steamship Vestris, which sank on November 12, was filed in District Supreme Court yesterday by the American Security & Trust Co. Accompanying the petition were four affidavits to the effect that Mrs. Mills was not included among those reported rescued.

The petition valued the estate, consisting of personal property, at $225,709.45. Surviving her are Jay Y. Smith, a brother, of Argentina, South America; Lady Mary Cooper, a sister, of Hursley Park, Winchester, England, and Mrs. Ruby A. Rossback, a sister, of Los Angeles, Calif. Three nephews and a niece also survive.

Boy Slayer to Join Father in Prison

Mother and Two Sisters of Murderer's Son Charged With Aiding Killer.

Prestonburg, Ky., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A 14-year-old boy today faced a 21-year penitentiary sentence on a murder charge. His father and brother are serving sentences in connection with other murders and his mother and two sisters are charged with murder.

The boy, Bennie Hall, was sentenced yesterday in Floyd County Circuit Court for the murder of Ralph Mullins, 35, January 2. His mother, Mrs. Dink Hall, 50; a sister, Nellie Hall, 16, and another sister, Mamie Hall, 19, are at liberty under bonds of $5,000 each, awaiting trial in connection with the death of Mullins.

According to testimony, ill feeling had existed between the Mullins and Hall families. Young Hall, it was alleged, struck Mrs. Mullins on the head with a pistol and shot her husband when he emerged from the house with a gun. It was charged the other members of the Hall family joined in the attack.

Man Is Kicked by Horse And Seriously Injured

John Hannon, 55 years old, of 306 Sixth street northwest, suffered possible internal injuries when he was kicked in the groin by one of three horses which he was leading by a halter at Four-and-a-half street and Maine avenue northwest last night.

Hannon was removed in an ambulance to Casualty Hospital and treated by Dr. Louis Jimal. His condition was undetermined last night.

Plane, Off Course, Down in Mountains

Morgantown, W. Va., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—An airplane, believed to have been a Cleveland-Pittsburgh airplane which had flown far off its course, was reported to have crashed near here late tonight. State police left for the scene to investigate.

Bettis Field, at Pittsburgh, reported that Pilot Eugene Cecil, scheduled to arrive early in the evening from Cleveland, was missing, and the belief was expressed that he had strayed off his route in the darkness.

The plane was reported down in an isolated district in the mountains and, although not far from Morgantown, it was difficult to reach because of snow-covered dirt roads. State police said they did not know when to expect a report. The crash was reported by a woman, phoning from a farmhouse. She said two boys saw a plane and then heard a crash.

HOOVER BEING URGED TO PROLONG HOLIDAY

CABINET SLATE FRAMED

By CARLISLE BARGERON
(Staff Correspondent of The Post.)

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 31.—President-elect Hoover is believed to be weakening in his original intention to return to Washington about February 15. It is still his desire to do this, as he advised senators and members of the House before he left Washington he would do, but close friends and advisers are arguing against it.

One is known to have pointed to the recent hullabaloo over his meeting former Gov. Smith as an example of how embarrassing it is for two candidates to be in the same city, much more two Presidents. As to whether this adviser's logic is sound is another matter.

President Coolidge and Mr. Hoover only recently were in Washington for a period of two weeks and there were no indications that the least bit of friction occurred. In fact, Mr. Hoover made frequent visits to the White House for the purpose, it was made known, of maintaining the continuity of the Coolidge and forthcoming Hoover regimes.

There was an apparent cordiality in spite of the well-known fact that Mr Hoover in a very tactful way settled several things during his stay that had a bearing on the present Congress.

Some Incidents Cited.

One was that there would be an extra session, which meant no further efforts for farm relief at the present session, and another, to mention two, was the removal of the question of a prohibition investigation from the Senate. But since he has been down here there have been happenings that give weight to the argument being made to him that perhaps things might not be so smooth should he return two weeks in advance of his inauguration.

The Britten incident was one. Britten had a conference with Mr. Hoover when he was there, and when the naval fight grew warm he made use of Hoover's name in an effort to bolster up the cause of the cruiser bill.

The indications are now that things will be pretty warm in Congress from now on, even after the disposition of the cruiser and prohibition controversies. For innumerable reasons, Mr Hoover would particularly not want to be drawn into this matter one

If he remains down here it will be difficult for proponents of this or the proponents of that, to call upon him and draw him into anything.

On the other hand, he would have to have, it is believed, some of the senators and members of the House down, as well as others, with whom he must talk before he assumes office. It was the desire to make the long trip unnecessary that he originally planned to return well in advance of his inauguration.

Cabinet Slated, Belief.

Barring the members of the present Cabinet and with the one possible exception of Henry M. Robinson banker, lawyer and close friend of California, Mr. Hoover has not had what might be called a single Cabinet conference since he returned from South America. Several political observers have expressed the conviction that the Cabinet slate has been definitely made up, and that all that remains is for Mr. Hoover to announce it—that may be so.

It is a reasonable conclusion in fact, that he has his mind fairly made up, and if this is true, it is not unlikely that it was made up before he spent his two weeks in Washington. He got very little wholesome advice there, nothing but a lot of names, some 200 of them, in fact.

Now, excepting members of the present Cabinet, Mr. Hoover must it would seem, confer with those whom he has in mind either here or in Washington before he assumes office. So far as Robinson is concerned, speculation concerning him may be dismissed. He is not to be in the Cabinet at the outset, at least.

There is no need for a conference with Secretary Mellon or with Col. William J. Donovan, who now, it may be said, rather definitely will be attorney general. However, Donovan is expected to come down. Neither would a conference necessarily have to be had with Postmaster General New, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine or Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, assuming they are to remain.

Hoover Gets Sailfish; Assistant Hooks Three

Long Key, Fla., Jan. 31 (U.P.).—President-elect Hoover's hope to catch a sailfish while on his Florida vacation was fulfilled today. Word came ashore tonight that he had caught a 45-pound specimen, and also hooked a barracuda, another of Florida's fighting fish.

Hoover's prowess as a fisherman, however, was somewhat dimmed by the success of two other members of his entourage.

Lawrence Rickey, his assistant whom he left behind at Belle Isle, brought in three sailfish, varying in weight between 60 and 75 pounds. Chairman Work, of the national committee, who was fishing with Rickey, landed two sailfish.

Hit, She Says, by Mate With Phone Receiver

Mrs. Ethel Holland Casteel, 3547 Eleventh street northwest, filed suit in the District Supreme Court yesterday for absolute divorce from her husband, Harry A. Casteel, of New York City. The suit was based on accusations of infidelity and cruelty.

Within a few months after their marriage, on February 26, 1927, the wife declared, her husband began to treat her cruelly and beat her. She said she left him on July 3, 1928, after he had hit her with a telephone receiver. Attorney William B. Wright appeared for the petitioner.

PRISON TERMS GIVEN IN NIGHT CLUB CASES

JARS PROSECUTION PLANS

New York, Jan. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Six night club defendants, who had either been convicted or had pleaded guilty of maintaining nuisances in violation of the prohibition act, were sentenced with record-breaking severity by United States Judge Edwin Thomas today.

Although Judge Thomas, brought to this district from Connecticut to dispose of the indictments against owners and employes of Broadway resorts raided last June under orders of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, insisted at first that "I will not change these sentences today, tomorrow or next week," he later revised this statement.

Imposition of the sentences, usually a routine affair, was marked by a series of sensations. Special Assistant United States Attorney General Leslie Salter, sent here from Washington, charged that entries in the books of the Don Royal club showed payments of graft to police and that the owners were permitted to operate through political influence.

Salter then told of weekly items in the club's books listed as "Ice-P $10" and "Ice-P $20." Another item read "Ice-P Special Mac H. A. C. $50." These cryptic symbols represented payment for police protection, Salter charged.

William Riseley, counsel for Marks, told the judge there were 20,000 speakeasies in New York and that it had not been the practice to impose prison sentences upon those who pleaded guilty.

"I am not governed by the past," said Judge Thomas. "Perhaps the fact that sentences have been light is responsible for the presence of 20,000 speak-easies in New York."

Judge Thomas then sentenced the four men to five months imprisonment each. Schwartz and Mayer, described as proprietors of the club, also were fined $500 each.

These sentences, the most severe yet imposed upon defendants in the more exclusive Broadway resorts, drew immediate protests from defense counsel. Judge Thomas rapped for silence.

However, within a few hours he announced he was reconsidering the sentences and would probably revise them downward. This reversal came after a secret conference attended by Assistant Attorneys General Morrison and Salter, Judge Thomas and six lawyers for night club defendants. It was rumored it was called because Judge Thomas' severity had upset the plans of the Federal attorneys, who were reported to have negotiated with night club lawyers for guilty pleas. The Federal prosecutors were reported to have offered night club lawyers to let their clients off with fines if they would plead guilty to the nuisance indictments.

Fire Menaces Dormitory.

Chestertown, Md., Jan. 31 (Special).—Reid Hall, the woman's dormitory of Washington College, and a block of suburban residences in the northern section of town were menaced by a grass fire this afternoon. The blaze started from a piece of burning paper blown from a chimney. The local fire company extinguished the flames.

Kin of Imprisoned Gambler Denies Getting Weekly Aid

Step-Father of Ralph Holland Says Eviction of Latter's Wife and Six Small Children Is Proof Share From Benefit Show Alone Was Received.

Jacob P. Nesius, stepfather of Ralph Holland, one of the four men recently convicted as gamblers and serving a three-year sentence each at the District Jail, last night declared the families of the four men have received no financial aid other than that provided them as a result of the benefit performance staged at the Gayety Theater Monday night. Nesius denied emphatically the increasing rumors "that the families of the four men have received weekly payments of money from "big gamblers" as a result of the prisoners' "refusing to squeal."

"You don't think my stepdaughter and her six small children, two of whom are ill with the influenza, would live in a house where the plaster is falling down or would have been evicted for nonpayment of rent had they been receiving the $50 a week they were said to be getting from gamblers?" Nesius asked.

It was the need of Holland's family that motivated the benefit performance held at the Gayety Theater, Joe Freeman, one of the sponsors of the benefit, said last night. Freeman, local sports promoter, said he had scheduled a wrestling show for last Monday night, the time the benefit performance was held, but gladly agreed to aid in staging the benefit when he heard of the plight of the Holland family.

Nesius said his stepdaughter had made several appeals for aid to local charities, but before these appeals were answered, the mother and her six children, all 8 years old or under, were evicted from their home at 751 Thirteenth street southeast. It was while Mrs. Holland and her children were sitting in the cold, on a mattress in front of their home, that Freeman's attention was called to their plight.

Freeman said he gave what immediate aid he could and then helped in plans for the staging of the benefit show, funds from which were turned over to the families of all four of the prisoners.

M. W. ODELL GUILTY ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Jury Deliberates Six and Half Hours on Case Pending Eleven Months.

SECOND PRISONER FREED

Morris W. Odell, of 1416 Sixteenth street northwest, was found guilty by a jury in Police Court late yesterday of all accusations in a five-count charge of violating the prohibition law. John W. Davis, colored, a codefendant in the trial, was acquitted.

The trial of Odell and Davis lasted four days and was called after more than a dozen postponements were granted in the case. The charges were filed in Police Court nearly 11 months ago and came to trial after complaints were made of delays by temperance organizations, it was stated.

After deliberating six and a half hours, the jury reported its findings to Judge John P. McMahon. Odell was convicted of selling, manufacturing, possessing equipment for the manufacture, maintaining a nuisance and second offense of possession of liquor by the jurors.

Odell and Davis were arrested in a raid at the Sixteenth street address by the police vice squad, commanded by Sergt. O. J. Letterman. A police informer, retained by Patrolman William Lawson, of the Seventh Precinct, testified he made a purchase of liquor at the address and swore to a search warrant. Lawson testified that he "covered" the informer before he entered the house to make the purchase and after he had emerged.

Harry T. Whelan, defense counsel, contended that there was no sale made to the informer and attacked the testimony of Lawson. The prosecution was conducted by Assistant District Attorney David A. Hart.

It was a raid on the Odell house last August that brought Marion F. Lee, police informer, to grief. Lee swore he entered the house and purchased liquor from Odell's wife, in obtaining a search warrant before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage. At a hearing before Turnage, it was proven that Mrs. Odell was at Piney Point, Md., at the time Lee swore he bought liquor. Lee was arrested and indicted for perjury. He is scheduled to be tried on the charge before Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in the District Supreme Court next week.

Lee also faces a trial of a grand larceny charge, on which he was arrested by Detective S. F. Gravelly, of the Third Precinct, before he turned "stool pigeon."

Odell probably will be sentenced on February 9. He is now at liberty on bond.

Train Goes 3 Miles With Engineer Dead

Fireman Makes Discovery When Crossing Is Is Passed.

Bryan, Ohio, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A through freight train on the Cincinnati and Northern line traveled for more than 3 miles between Bryan and Ney today with a dead engineer at the throttle.

Harvey A. Freyermuth, 56, of Van Wert, a veteran train pilot, received his orders here today apparently in good health.

He threw open the throttle and the freight pulled out toward Ney, 6 miles away. About 2 miles from Bryan Freyermuth died from an apoplectic stroke. But his body remained so firm in its position that the fireman, L. J. Hirsch, of Van Wert, was deceived.

Then Hirsch noted the train passed a crossing and that Freyermuth did not sound the whistle. He tapped the engineer on the shoulder and the body slumped forward. Hirsch then took the throttle.

Check Payment Stopped; $25,000 Damages Asked

Damages of $25,000 for alleged slander were asked against Morris Kraft, of 1925 Fourteenth street northwest, yesterday in a suit filed in the District Supreme Court by Herman A. Frazer, automobile repair shop proprietor, of 1339 R street northwest.

Frazer declared Kraft gave him a check for $21.25 in payment for automobile repairs and then went to a bank and stopped payment. Frazer says that when he went to the bank he was embarrassed and humiliated in the presence of others when a clerk loudly told him payment had been stopped on the check because it had been reported lost. Attorneys F. Regis Noel and John D. Sadler appeared for the plaintiff.

American Is Freed By Chinese Bandits

The Rev. Edward Young Well and Safe, Says Bishop's Cablegram.

Philadelphia Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A cablegram received here tonight stated that the Rev Edward Young, an American missionary, kidnaped and held for ransom by Chinese bandits near Nananfu, Kiangsi Province, had been released and was well and safe.

The cablegram signed by Bishop O'Shea, of the Catholic Mission at Kanchow to which Father Young was attached, was received by the very Rev S. Maune, provincial of the Priests of the Congregation of the Mission. It was dated Kanchow, Kiangsi, China, and read: "Father Young released; well and safe."

Father Maune said he did not know whether the young missionary had been released voluntarily or whether any part of the bandits' ransom demand had been met. The bishop said the kidnapers had demanded $10,000.

Two Women Visitors Are Hurt by Autos

Two women visitors to Washington were injured yesterday when they were struck by automobiles on snow-covered streets. One of them, Mrs. Bessie M. Moorehead, 32 years old, of Philadelphia, is believed to be in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital, where she was taken. The other, Mrs. Helen M. Garrett, of Westchester, Pa., was taken to Casualty Hospital, where she was found to be suffering from a compound fracture of a leg.

Joseph Warren, colored, 24 years old, of 1633 Thirty-fourth street northeast, said by police to have been operating the automobile which struck Mrs. Moorehead, at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

ACCUSED GOVERNOR PLEADS NOT GUILTY

TRIAL IS SET FOR FEB. 11

Oklahoma City, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Declining to seek the advantage of technicalities, Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, through his counsel pleaded not guilty today before the senate court of impeachment on charges preferred by the House of Representatives, and the date of his trial was set for February 11. It previously had been announced that demurrers to the House charges would be presented to the Senate court.

After the brief hearing today, however, Johnston revealed that he had opposed this plan of his counsel and insisted that the eleven charges be heard on their merits. By common consent, the charges were consolidated, although Johnston was not scheduled to plead to three of them until February 5, and the trial was set.

There was little change today in the trend of investigation attendant to the impeachment proceedings. The bulk of testimony before the House investigating committee, which still is inquiring into various departments under the supervision of the executive office, concerned alleged irregularities in the state highway and fish and game commissions.

Governor's Statement.

"This case has reached a stage where the issues are bigger than my own personal welfare," said Johnston in a statement explaining why his attorneys had not demurred to the charges. "The people themselves are entitled to look behind the closed doors of the committee which brought forward these charges. Not only the senate but the people of this State are entitled to full information on the motives and methods of the actors on both sides.

"I want mine to be known and I intend some of these masquerading inquisitors shall make theirs known."

In another statement the suspended governor propounded a panacea against further impeachment cases against Oklahoma governors. One of its chief ingredients was recommendation of a constitutional amendment shortening gubernatorial terms from four to two years.

Oklahoma's last three elected governors have been impeached, although J. C. Walton is the only one yet who was removed from office. If the two-year term were in effect, the suspended governor explained, the chief executive would be forced to render an accounting of his administration to the people for that time, and each two years would become a standard of the campaign, together with such issues as the two years had caused to develop.

Seeks Return of Authority.

Restoration of authority, of which Johnston declared succeeding legislatures had shorn the Governor, was the other outstanding recommendation. He pointed out that the State has more than thirty elective officers and said the ballot should be shortened to centralize administrative authority.

Charles E. McPherren, Oklahoma City attorney, brigadier general in the Oklahoma national guard and former State senator, was quoted as saying he and his partner "own four judges" of the State Supreme Court, by Kelly P. Gibson, Tulsa investment man, in testimoney before a house subcommittee investigating the high court.

Gibson testified under protest and only after he had been threatened with contempt proceedings. He said he retained J. D. Lydick, former member of the court, and McPherren, now Lydick's law partner, in a suit before the appellate court involving about $170,000, because his attorney told him the firm had "pull" with the court.

The witness said that when he questioned McPherren about delay in the case, the attorney replied: "Gibson, we own four judges on the court and you can get a fifth if you try." There are nine members of the court and their decisions are based on a majority vote

Consideration that it is the giver's contribution for one year to 57 appeals at once is the best way to figure, chest officials say. The answer is left entirely to the individual.

Princess Illa Calls Off Wedding at Last Minute

Regensburg, Bavaria, Jan. 31 (A.P.). Bavaria's highest aristocracy has been startled by the mysterious action of Princess Illa von Thurn und Taxis in calling off at the last moment her marriage to Prince Ranier Raphael von Thurn und Taxis, a distant cousin, without apparent rhyme or reason.

Numerous illustrious guests had arrived with their retinues, and the Bishop of Regensburg was ready to officiate when the princess hurried to the head of the house of Thurn und Taxis announcing that she had reconsidered her decision and was unable to plight her troth.

The next moment she burst into hysterical sobbing and soon after left Regensburg for her estates in Czechoslovakia.

He has proceeded with deliberation and patience and with the utmost consideration for the feelings of all parties concerned. It has been an unpleasant duty for him, but one which in all good conscience he could not shirk."

The statement settled a question which has been somewhat in controversy. Sometime ago, spokesmen for the Rockefellers here said that John D. Rockefeller, sr., was in complete accord with his son in the challenge to Stewart. But immediately thereafter Stewart emphasized in an interview in New York that the most cordial relations always had existed between him and the elder Rockefeller and that he was confident that the elder Rockefeller had not deserted him.

The statement today settled definitely the position of Rockefeller, sr.

The question of control between John D. Rockefeller, jr., and Stewart will be settled at the annual stockholders meeting of the company March 7.

Experts Have to Free Girl Handcuffed in Play

Vera Cornwell, 11 years old, of 123 M street southeast, tried on a pair of handcuffs last night and rid herself of them only after a trip to police headquarters, where experts picked the lock.

The girl found the cuffs at the home of Joanna Wootten, the daughter of F. P. Wootten, a Mount Rainier Md., constable, who lives at 1137 New Jersey avenue southeast. After she put on the bracelets it was discovered that there was no key.

W. R. Wootten, the constable's brother, took the girl to the Sixth Precinct Police Station, but the keys at the station house would not unlock them. Policeman E. D. Gemey decided that experts at headquarters might solve the problem and escorted Wootten and the girl there. Experts did unlock the bracelets, but it took them a half hour.

Rescue Ship Finds Crippled Freighter

Fernlane Is Being Towed to Port—No Trace Seen of the George Cochrane.

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The Merritt-Chapman Scott Co. received a wireless today from its wrecking steamer Relief that she was alongside the disabled Norwegian motor freighter Fernlane, 1,600 miles off shore and had her in tow for Newport News, Va.

The Fernlane reported on January 24 that her rudder was gone and her stern frame broken. The Relief left Norfolk at once.

Parrsboro, N. S., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The 480-ton auxiliary schooner Quaco Queen, lumber-laden for Cuba, has been abandoned at sea in a waterlogged condition and her crew of seven are aboard the steamer Mainistee, said a radiogram received here. The radio gave no further information of the disaster.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The steamer Kyle, which has been searching the Gulf of St. Lawrence for the steamer George Cochrane, unreported since leaving Sydney, Nova Scotia, January 21 for this port, put in at Port Aux Basques last night.

Earl of Durham, Famous Sportsman, Is Dead at 74

Durham, England, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The Earl of Durham, well known as a sportsman before the war, died today after an attack of influenza in Lambton Castle, the historic home of his family. Despite his advanced age of 74 years, the earl had held the title only five months. He succeeded last September his twin brother, who had been born only a few minutes before him.

The earl, a member of the Jockey Club since 1897 as the Hon. Frederick William Lambton, was a well known rider to the hounds and raced for many years before the war, but recently had been inactive on the turf. He sat in the commons as Liberal members from South Durham from 1880 to 1885, and after a defeat reentered in 1900 as a Liberal Unionist for Southeast Durham, holding his seat for ten years.

LOUISIANA SLAYERS TO BE HANGED TODAY

announced it would be of no use to appeal to him again.

The governor, too, dispelled any hopes the attorneys might have held for an executive appeal when he said:

"I have reviewed the matter carefully and I do not intend to take any further action."

The three legal moves today were made in rapid succession. Judge Wayne G. Borah heard the first appeal in Federal district court and denied a writ of habeas corpus to stay the execution. A motion for a certificate of reasonable cause then was asked, but Judge Borah denied this also.

The attorneys then shifted their campaign to the circuit court of appeals, asking for a certificate of cause for the granting of a habeas corpus writ, but it was refused.

When the last petition was denied, Ben J. Daly, chief of defense counsel, wiped tears from his eyes and turned to his colleagues.

"It's all over, boys," he said. "We've done our best and lost."

"Don't you plan any further action?" he was asked.

"No, it would be useless," he said, and looked inquiringly at the other attorneys. The associate defense counsel agreed.

Tears loomed in the eyes of Attorney Walter Hamlin, one of the group, as he folded his brief case and departed from the circuit courtroom. Hamlin has worked night and day for the past week preparing the petitions and it appeared hard for him to admit defeat.

No Visitors Allowed.

No visitors were allowed to see the condemned lovers in their cells here today. Sheriff Pecot said that the jail matron had gone to Mrs. Lebouef's cell in an effort to calm and comfort her.

She and Dr. Dreher had practically given up hope on previous occasions during the long legal battle only to learn later their attorneys had been successful in gaining new leases on their lives. Today, however, was the first time the attorneys had admitted defeat and then the lovers realized the end was near.

Mrs. Lebouef had been in a virtual state of collapse since Wednesday night and Dr. Dreher had paced his cell nervously as the day for the final decision of the courts arrived.

"We have suffered as much as Christ on the cross," he said. "They have put the gall to our lips thrice. We have bidden farewell to our families before. Better to have been slain with a club long ere this than to have suffered like we have."

Before she collapsed, Mrs. Lebouef said she was prepared to die. The shock of the news today, however, showed she had clung to a thread of hope that she would yet be saved.

Gallows in Readiness.

The gallows in the little jailyard was in readiness today for the hanging, Sheriff Pecot announced. The hangings will take place between the hours of 12 and 3 p. m. tomorrow afternoon.

The murder of Lebouef attracted wide attention, as did the trial and the spectacular court battles that have been waged by the defense counsel.

Lebouef was murdered at a private picnic on which he was accompanied by his wife and Dr. Dreher. The victim was slain, the body cut open weighted with iron lugs and thrown into a lake.

Killing of Bandit To Win Promotion

Promise Made to Memphis Police as Inducement to Check Crime Wave.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A flurry of crime in Memphis brought orders from Chief of Police Will Lee today to his force to "shoot to kill, and the first man to bag a bandit gets promoted."

Meanwhile, a roundup was started of all vagrants and suspicious characters. Patrolmen J. B. Cummings and John F. Edgerly, suspended last night because they stood with upraised hands while two robbers held up a drug store were reinstated today by Cliff Davis, commissioner of police. Cummings and Edgerly said they were unable to draw their pistols on account of the long frock coats of the regulation police uniforms.

"If we could have grabbed our guns there would have been a different story to tell," they said.

STEAMSHIP BLAZE TAKES TWO LIVES

Five Men Critically Burned Fighting Fire on S. S. President Johnson.

WAS READY TO PUT TO SEA

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Junior engineers Stanley Horton and Benjamin Krynck today were burned to death and five men were injured in a three-hour fire in the machine shop and engineers' quarters of the reconditioned Dollar Liner President Johnson at pier 9, at Twelfth street. Checkup of the crew by Capt. Benson and Chief Officer Newcomb revealed that none was missing.

Horton's address was given as 2019 Lincoln street, Alameda, Calif. Krynck, according to the ship's books lived in New York City.

Of the five injured, four were engineer members of the crew burned fighting the fire by hand and one was a city fireman.

The President Johnson was to have sailed on her maiden world cruise via Havana, San Francisco and the Orient this afternoon, but the Dollar Line announced the sailing would be postponed until she was reconditioned probably tomorrow afternoon.

Police listed the injured of the crew as:

William Gonzales, 40, marine engineer, San Francisco, burned about the head and face; expected to recover.

John Terlin, 28, deck engineer, 3220 Twenty-fifth street, San Francisco burns; expected to recover.

Leslie Jordan, 48, 1960 Hyde street, San Francisco, chief engineer overcome by smoke, expected to recover.

A roll call of the crew is to be held later in an effort to identify the dead and determine whether any are missing.

Acting Fire Chief John Sweeney expressed the opinion that a cigarette had started the blaze.

Officials of the line, however said the cause had not been definitely determined, and that an investigation was being made.

Boston, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Firemen were compelled to don gas masks to fight a fire in the forward hold of the steamer City of Chattanooga while the ship was at her pier in Charlestown today. The blaze started in bags of jute, and caused dense clouds of smoke to pour from the hold. The fire was brought under control, with damage mostly to the cargo.

Still Venders Held Dry Law Violators

Two Men Convicted by Jury in U. S. Court Bailed Pending Appeal.

Philadelphia, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A jury in Federal Court today decided that if a still or similar paraphernalia is sold with the knowledge it is to be used for the distillation of intoxicating beverages, the seller is guilty of violating the national prohibition laws.

This was the decision in the cases of Benjamin and Philip Keisserman, brothers, owners of the National Can Co., of this city.

Charles Denby, jr., assistant United States district attorney, who prosecuted the cases, announced that it was the first case since the advent of prohibition in which the seller of a still had been convicted as a violator.

The Keisermans were charged with advertising and selling stills, and furnishing a book of instructions showing purchasers how intoxicating liquors could be manufactured. A motion was made for a new trial and the defendants were released under $500 bail each.

Purdue Student Killed, Two Injured in Crash

Lebanon, Ind., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—John Dithmer 23 years old, of Indianapolis, former Purdue University swimming star, was instantly killed and two other Purdue students were seriously injured 10 miles north of here this noon when their automobile crashed into a bridge banister.

Daniel Blackmore, 20 years old, of Bloomfield, Ind., is in a critical condition and may die of his injuries, and Herbert Holmes, 22, of Portland, Ind., junior manager of the Purdue Basket Ball Team, also was seriously injured. The accident occurred when Dithmer attempted to pass another car and struck the bridge.

Detective, Hit by Skidding Truck, Suffers Hurt Leg

Detective Sergeant Henry Madison Jett, 1528 A street southeast suffered a sprained right leg yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock as he stepped from his automobile after skidding at Second street and Maryland avenue northeast, and was struck by a five ton truck.

Hurlee Lawing, colored, 21 years old was driving the truck, according to police. He was arrested on a charge of colliding and released on $25 collateral.

Jett was taken to Emergency Hospital for examination, which disclosed the lacerated and sprained right leg. Eight stitches were taken in it.

Flight to Sick Father Ends in Zero Weather

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Flying slightly over three hours in zero weather from Garden City, L. I., on the last leg of his dash from Miami, Fla., to the bedside of his father, Ralph W. Pierce, critically ill at his home in this city, E. Vaughn Pierce, Harvard graduate student, arrived at Buffalo Airport this afternoon.

Radio Artist Entertains Kiwanians at Luncheon

The Kiwanis Club held its weekly luncheon yesterday in the Washington Hotel.

Caleb O'Connor, radio artist of station WOL, entertained the club with a humorous sketch entitled "Who's Who in Kiwanis," illustrating the method of broadcasting a program. Miss Minnie Volkman, soloist; Miss Elizabeth Swenk, accompanist, and John Gantt, announcer, assisted him. Steven Wright and Burk Spille, members of the Civitan Club, also gave several musical numbers. Edgar Morris, president, presided.

THIRD DEGREE CHARGE MADE BY NORTHCOTT

Man, on Trial for Murders, Acts as Counsel in Questioning Himself.

"SISTER" CALLED MOTHER

Riverside, Calif., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Taking the witness stand today and, as his own attorney, interrogating himself, Gordon Stewart Northcott, on trial for the slaying of three boys, told of physical mistreatment and "rough methods" at the hands of California officers.

His testimony was given after he had withdrawn Mrs. Sarah Louisa Northcott, who has been known as his "mother" from the stand. Mrs. Northcott, brought here from San Quentin prison where she is serving a life sentence for the confessed murder of young Walter Collins, had admitted under Northcott's questioning she was not his mother.

The youthful defendant testified he had been the subject of physical violence at the hands of James R. Quinn, formerly special investigator of the Riverside County sheriff's office, and Capt. William R. Bright, of the Los Angeles County homicide squad, when he was being brought by them to California after having been extradited from Canada.

Northcott absolved Deputy District Attorney Earl C. Redwine and Albert Kelly, special investigator for the Riverside District Attorney's office, who were members of the party, from any charges of mistreatment. He declared "rough methods" ceased at their approach.

"Mr. Kelly and Mr. Redwine always were very kind," he said.

Kelly and Redwine were in the courtroom. Quinn and Bright were not.

Northcott declared he told the officers to "leave me alone now."

"Did they leave you alone?" he asked himself.

"No, they did not. They questioned me continually."

"Was any physical violence used?"

"Yes. By Capt. Bright. He slapped me in the face and seemed to take delight in sticking his foot between my chains and tripping me up on the swaying train."

He said he was put to bed in an upper birth.

"Were you allowed to sleep?" he asked himself.

"No, I was not. Handcuffs were placed on my hands, my hands were chained to the berth, whenever I started to go to sleep there would be a jerk on the chains and a question would be asked, usually by Mr. Quinn—'Well, are you ready to tell what you know?'"

Mrs. Northcott, under questioning by the defendant, said she was his grandmother and named Winifred Clark as his mother. Mrs. Northcott said, however, she was the "only mother" that Gordon Stewart "ever knew."

Winifred Clark, who is in Canada, had been known as the sister of young Northcott, and the mother of Jessie and Sanford Clark. Sanford is the principal accuser of the defendant.

Mission, B. C., Jan. 31 (U.P.).—Positive denial that she is the mother of Gordon S. Northcott was made here today by Mrs. Winifred Clark, mother of Sanford Clark, chief witness for the prosecution in the Northcott murder trial at Riverside, Calif.

Mrs. Clark made the denial to a representative of the United Press after receipt of dispatches that her mother, Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott, had testified that Mrs. Clark was Northcott's mother and Mrs. Northcott his grandmother.

"Gordon Northcott is my brother," Mrs. Clark, who is acting as housekeeper for a farmer, declared.

"He was born at Bladworth, Saskatchewan, November 9, 1906, to my mother."

Mrs. Clark expressed horror at her mother's testimony.

CRUISER BILL CALLED NO BRITISH CONCERN

FAVORS ARMS REDUCTION

London, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, speaking today on disarmament, expressed confidence in the United States as a peace-loving nation and said the bill for new cruisers now before the American Senate was no concern of Great Britain's.

"I don't wish to criticize the number or size of anything America thinks necessary in the matter of cruisers, because I believe that the future peace of the world will be much safer in the hands of countries who have a generous confidence in each other than in the hands of scaremongers who try perpetually to make us believe there is grave risk of war," he said.

On the general subject of disarmament, Mr. Bridgeman remarked that Great Britain was prepared to go still further if other nations were prepared to do the same.

He said it was a fallacy that Great Britain had started a race in building 10,000-ton cruisers. He caused a laugh when he said it was not until 1924, long after the Washington conference, that any of these cruisers was laid down in Britain. "Then it was by a Socialist government," This referred to the Labor government of Ramsay MacDonald.

The head of the admiralty said the breakdown of the Geneva naval conference in 1927 was not a question of policy, but on a formula for the reduction of armaments.

"The United States thought it was necessary to have large cruisers of 10,000 tons," he said. "Our requirements went rather in the direction of numbers instead of size. We favored 6-inch guns rather than 8-inch.

"You can not make an equation between a number of cruisers carrying 8-inch guns and large cruisers with 6-inch guns. Because we could not find such an equation the conference broke down."

JOHNSON ASSAILS FOES OF CRUISERS

stead of letting the other nation enforce its will on us.

"Our colossal economic force expresses itself in overseas trade," Johnson said, "and this $10,000,000,000 overseas trade requires shipping and shipping requires adequate naval protection. America's economic success has naturally brought foreign envy," the senator asserted and he referred at one point to the day when "world activity and world drama" would inevitably be enacted upon the Pacific. The senator did not refer to the immediate future but said the "drama" of the Pacific was certain to come within a brief period, as measured by the life of nations, and he took the position that anyone not blind to the lessons of history could foresee it.

Critic of "Hysterical Women."

Senator Johnson stressed the danger to the nation lurking in the seemingly innocent "9 o'clock in the morning" and "6 o'clock in the evening" clubs, organizations of "hysterical women," pacifists and internationalists.

Now that adequate American naval defense is involved, these organizations hysterically cry that America must not build cruisers if it will offend Great Britain, said Senator Johnson.

"Where were these voices when Great Britain was building the cruisers she has built since the Washington Conference and now has?" he asked.

Declaring that the beginning of this British cruiser program was under the Labor government of Ramsay McDonald, Johnson said it now ill becomes McDonald to lecture the United States because of the American program.

The Washington Arms Conference, which has been subjected to repeated attacks in the Senate this session, was referred to by Senator Johnson.

"To use a colloquial expression," he said, "we were bamboozled in that conference. We went into it with a thrill and a credulity that always attaches to American officialdom."

Johnson said the British brought about that conference because America's naval strength was growing too strong in the matter of battleships. The British plan, the senator said, has lately been fully disclosed. It was to agree to parity with America because battleship building was too expensive and America had the lead, and to see the abolition of the submarine because that would be to the interest of British sea control. But on cruisers the British were to avoid any agreement.

Plan Followed, Claim.

That is precisely what happened at the Washington conference, Johnson asserted. Having brought about America's promise to make the great sacrifice, Great Britain then laid plans to increase her cruiser strength and nullify the parity idea, the senator said. He quoted Charles Evans Hughes, chief American delegate, as saying at the concluding session of the Washington conference, "This ends, absolutely ends, the race in competitive armaments."

After sacrificing $150,000,000 worth of the finest fighting ships, America found that her hopes had not been justified. Great Britain immediately began to build cruisers and then refused parity at the Geneva Conference because she had gained such a decided lead over the United States.

"There is something strange about our diplomacy," Johnson said. "I have great respect for those making up our diplomacy, but I would infinitely prefer it not to deal with delicate questions in which our defense is involved."

U. S. Flimflammed, Charge

In discussing the Washington Conference, a question arose as to whether subsequent events did not prove that America had been "flimflammed" as one Senator expressed it, when the final tonnage tables had been drawn up.

By using British standards of measurement in one case and American standards in another case the British appear to have gained a 20 percent tonnage increase, according to Senator Reed of Missouri. In other words, the battleship parity shows a tonnage for the United States of 525,860 as against 528,820 for Great Britain.

Senators Hale, Swanson, Walsh of Montana and others were drawn into this part of the debate. Just what happened was not made clear, and may be the subject of discussion today.

Senate Provides Extra Fund for White House

(Associated Press.)

The White House was the big gainer yesterday in the Senate additions to an appropriations bill carrying funds for independent offices of the Government, but not until the Democrats had taken the opportunity of chiding administration senators "about this departure from traditional policies of economy."

The bill, which passed the Senate with a total figure of $541,499,178, carried $10,000 in salaries for three private secretaries to the President, an addition of $50,000 for the fund to improve the White House grounds and $5,000 for an oil portrait of President Coolidge to be hung along with those of other Chief Executives after he leaves office.

motion, while one Republican and seven Democrats were paired in its support. This accounted for 397 of the authorized membership of 435. Of the remainder, Speaker Longworth voted present—he has a vote only in case of a tie—and 32 were unaccounted for. There are five vacancies.

During debate on the proposal the charge was made on the Republican side of the chamber that the move to turn $24,000,000 over to the President—and because of the short time remaining of the Coolidge administration most of the expenditure undoubtedly would have to be made by Herbert Hoover—was a political gesture to "rehabilitate Democrats in the minds of their own constituents."

Democrats, on the other hand, chided Republican drys and charged that they were in a position of refusing to trust the President-elect with "the money to carry out the noble experiment." They declared that officials of the Prohibition Enforcement Bureau had testified that they did not have sufficient funds to enforce the law.

Foch Sent Back to Bed, But His Relapse Is Slight

Paris, Jan. 31. (A.P.).—Marshal Ferdinand Foch was sent back to bed today by his physicians, but it was said at his home tonight that the setback was only slight. It was stated that he had merely caught a slight cold, the weather having been extremely changeable in the last few days. The doctors' orders were that he abandon his practice of sitting up, or walking around the house at intervals during the day.

It was explained that these were precautionary measures, and that so far as the heart and kidney trouble which put him down a fortnight ago was concerned, favorable progress continued.

U.S. OPIUM CONTROL OUTLINE REJECTED

THREATENS DRUG ACTION

Geneva, Jan. 31. (A.P.).—What was known as "The American Plan" for controlling the opium and narcotics evil was rejected today by the Opium Committee of the League of Nations. The committee decided by a vote of 7 to 4 that the plan was impossible of application.

China, Italy, France and Germany made up the minority. Their delegates advocated that the plan be included in the program for the next meeting of the committee in order to permit more exhaustive study of it in the interim.

Sir John Campbell, a Scotchman who represents India on the committee, derided the plan and protested against the "tortuous manner" in which the scheme had been brought before the committee. He said that although the project was submitted to the United States Government by C. K. Crane of Los Angeles, it really had been composed by a former Spanish member of the Secretariat of the League. He charged that the whole thing was a piece of skillfully organized propaganda.

Needs Should Be Revealed.

The plan proposed that each country should state its narcotic needs in advance and announce publicly as to where the drugs were to be manufactured and purchased.

"The scheme is no more American than I am," said Sir John Campbell. "There was nothing American in its origin and the manner in which it reached the committee can only prejudice all right thinking people against it. Its ostensible author confessed that he knew nothing about it."

The plan found a defender in Stefano Cavazzoni of Italy. He believed that the United States never would have forwarded the scheme if it deemed the plan ridiculous. He himself considered that the project was an important step in arresting the traffic in narcotics, characterizing this merchandising as "a greater crime than starting a war."

Although the plan was dropped, the committee voted that the feasibility of limiting the manufacture of narcotics should be examined later. The prevailing opinion was that the Geneva Anti-Opium Convention, to which the United States is not a party, should be given a fair trial before other schemes are adopted.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Stephen G. Porter of Pennsylvania declared last night that he is making an investigation of opium manufacturing by foreign countries, which are the chief producers in that field, and "one or more of those governments will hear from Congres in no uncertain terms" as soon as his inquiry is completed.

Discussing the rejection of the so-called "American plan" of opium and narcotics control by the League of Nations opium committee, Mr. Porter, who headed the American delegation to the Geneva opium conference in 1924, said the method rejected yesterday was an elaboration of the plan his group then proposed.

Violations Are Charged.

He declared it has been shown conclusively that one or more countries are violating the opium manufacture standards laid down by The Hague 1912 convention, which limited opium production to the world's medicinal needs and that the United States had protested against this violation without result.

Sir John Campbell, who assailed the American plan at The Hague committee meeting, Mr. Porter said, "has devoted his life to the opium-eating traffic in India, from which large revenues are derived." He added that Campbell was "repudiated by the people of India a year ago and was knighted four years ago by the British government for defeating the original American plan."

Stefano Cavazzoni, the Italian delegate on the committee, has been "America's friend throughout the controversy," Mr. Porter continued, and is "backed up by Premier Mussolini." The Pennsylvania representative said Mussolini had told him last summer that he was "determined to suppress the drug traffic."

Friends Save Dead Author From Potters Field Grave

Albert Southwick, Master of Arts, on New York Morgue's List of 168 Awaiting Pauper Burials; Was Authority on Literature.

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The list of 168 bodies scheduled to be buried tomorrow in Potter's Field on Hart's Island, includes the name of Albert Southwick, author and master of arts, but morgue officials were notified tonight that friends and relatives would claim Southwick's body before it was buried in a pauper's grave.

Curtiss Southwick, assistant to the treasurer at Presbyterian Hospital, a distant relative, notified the morgue that the body would be claimed. He said Southwick had an M. A. degree, that he was the author of "Short Studies in Literature" and other books including school and reference works, and was a member of a Quaker family that immigrated to America in 1627. He said he knew nothing of a report that Southwick was of royal blood.

When Southwick was admitted to the hospital where he died January 18, he listed as his friends and relatives Rear Admiral Phelps, U. S. N., Portsmouth, N. H., Curtiss Southwick, Lawrence J. Southwick, of the Bordentown, N. J., Military Academy, and George Sparta, of a Brooklyn department store. They were notified of his death.

U. S. Gets Millions By Oil Lease Suits

Wilbur Says $47,137,696 Has Been Paid, or Is Due to Government.

As a result of litigation involving naval oil reserves in the West, a total of $47,137,696.38 in tangible and intangible returns has been realized for the federal government, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur revealed yesterday.

By decision of the United States Supreme Court of February 28, 1927, oil leases and contracts of the Pan American Petroleum Co. on Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 1, Elk Hills, Calif., the government secured cash and properties totalling $34,891,449.62, of which amount, $24,237,241.05 was in cash; the remainder, $10,744,109.57, representing fuel oil received and improvements.

In the Teapot Dome litigation involving Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 3 in Wyoming, leased by the Mammoth Oil Co., the government has received judgments amounting to $12,156,946.66. Of the total, $3,060,312.39 is yet due the United States, being payment for the amount due from the Mammoth Oil Co. for oil from the reserve before the receivership, but not yet paid, with interest to June 1, 1928.

PLAYING POLITICS with The Nation's Blood Strain

To American Patriotic Societies and all Unhyphenated Citizens:

The time has come for mobilizing the political power of Americans as Americans in the interest of America.

The Nye Resolution No. 192 to postpone the National Origins Provision now before the Senate Immigration Committee is a proposal in the interest of people whose bodies are here but whose hearts are in Europe. It is a resolution to continue special privileges in quota apportionment for some nations and discrimination against others. It is therefore thoroughly un-American and can be accounted for only as a triumph of politics over principle.

The passage of the Nye Resolution will be a first step in the demolition of the Immigration Act of 1924. It is an attempt to scrap a square deal for all elements in the population, native and foreign born, contemplated in the law and establish as a racial elite the "foreign-born" of the 1890 Census.

This discrimination reflects on the racial stock of the people of this country who reclaimed the wilderness, fought most of its battles and made it one United Nation from sea to sea.

We challenge the sponsors of the Nye Resolution and all others who directly or indirectly seek to kill the National Origins provision (which gives quotas the best for this country and the fairest to all others) to publish the list of those organizations with foreign or hyphenated names or purposes or both which are back of the agitation against National Origins. WE CHALLENGE THEM ALSO TO PUBLISH THE STORY OF HOW so many highly patriotic and splendid citizens, both native and foreign born, have been misled as to the fundamental purpose, character and value of the National Origins provision.

As to the accuracy, National Origins figures, according to Dr. Joseph A. Hill, Chairman of the Quota Board, and assistant to the Director of the Census, are accurate within a small margin of error. (See testimony before House Immigration Committee 1927.) On the other hand, the temporary 1890 "foreign born" basis suggested as a substitute for National Origins does not reflect "with any accuracy" the proportions of nationalities that now exist in the country. (Testimony before Senate Immigration Committee 1928.) In other words, critics of National Origins, because of its small margin of error, wish to substitute something which is grossly inaccurate. Obviously their zeal for accuracy is insincere.

Let us therefore have done with this annual and outworn farce over the alleged impracticability and inaccuracy of National Origins. There is nothing the matter with this basis except that certain foreign blocs do not like it and certain gentle men would be politically convenienced if it were quietly strangled.

Postponement of National Origins is simply "the half loaf" which anti-restrictionists will accept temporarily if they can not get repeal. The Country is aroused on the subject of restriction. A vote for Senate Resolution 192 is a vote against National Origins and a vote against National Origins is a vote against restriction—and that is something the people of this country are now in no mood to tolerate.

We urge all patriotic citizens therefore to address the Senate Immigration Committee accordingly.

DRY PLOT IS DENIED BY OHIO TREASURER

ADMITS RECEIVING $250

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley took the witness stand today in his trial in Federal court for attempted bribery and conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and denied he had any criminal connection with an alleged plot to "tip off" Cincinnati breweries of impending Federal inspections.

Buckley declared the plot, which the Government claims was designed to warn the breweries to get rid of their illicit beer, was suggested to him last October by John F. Eckhart, assistant Federal prohibition administrator for the Ohio-Indiana district.

Eckhart is the man to whom Buckley is alleged to have offered $300 a month for advance information of Federal inspection, for which the breweries, in turn were to pay $5 for each half barrel of illicit beer produced.

Contradicts Eckhart Testimony

Contradicting Eckhart's testimony that the State treasurer proposed the scheme, Buckley said he first learned of it from Eckhart and declined to become involved.

Buckley admitted he introduced two Cincinnati attorneys named as coconspirators, to Eckhart, and that he received $250 from them. But this money, he explained was a contribution to his campaign fund, for he was running for reelection. One of the attorneys, John L. Schrimper, and Joseph Sperber, brewmaster for the Jackson Brewing Co., of Cincinnati, were indicted with Buckley and pleaded guilty. The other attorney, Adolph A. Gruber, escaped indictment by testifying before the grand jury.

Schrimper and Gruber went to his office on October 8 last, Buckley testified. He said they told him four half-barrels of beer, intended for the American Legion convention at San Antonio had been seized at the Jackson Brewing Co., in Cincinnati, and that inasmuch as two Cincinnati judges were involved, they did not want any undesirable publicity.

Promised to See Fess, He Says.

"They told me," Buckley said, "they would ask Harry D. Silver, then Gov. Myers Y. Cooper's campaign manager, and Senator Simeon D. Fess to see William N. Woodruff, acting prohibition administrator. I protested that they did not mean to see Senator Fess and they replied that they would have Fess, secretary, Edward Martin, appeal to Woodruff.

Buckley said he arranged the meeting with Eckhart in his office and that the attorneys told the assistant administrator the same story they told him.

After Eckhart left, Buckley testified, he talked with the two attorneys and accepted their proffer of a campaign contribution to pay "postage."

7 Engineers of Capital Will Aid World Parley

Seven Washington engineers will cooperate with the American committee of the World Engineering Congress to stimulate interest in the congress to be held this fall in Tokyo.

These men will compose what will be known as the Washington committee. They are L. W. Wallace, L. D. Bliss, Elwood Mead, of the Department of Interior; William M. Corse, N. H. Heck, commander of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey; Rear Admiral C. W. Dyson, and R. W Crum, of the Highway Research Board. President-elect Hoover is honorary chairman of the American committee, while Dr. Elmer A. Speery, inventor, is the active chairman.

Commercial Plane Falls On Ice of Lake Michigan

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 31 (A.P.)—Ernest Stafford, Chicago commercial air pilot, crashed into the ice on Lake Michigan, half a mile from shore today.

His plane broke the three-inch ice layer and almost went through, but he escaped unhurt, except for a plunge in the water. The wings of the plane prevented it from going under. The cause of the crash was unexplained.

Elinor Smith Tells of Thrill Setting New Flight Record

So Cold in Air That "Hot" Drinks Were Frozen in Vacuum Bottles.

en fliers the way they have for women athletes. Then we won't have to compete with the men and only get credit for "unofficial records" of our own.

I was sorry to hear about Miss Gentry's accident, but glad she didn't get hurt. She'll fix up her plane and try again, I know, for she held the record until Miss Trout went out and took it away from her.

It was pretty cold and rough up there but my plane and motor behaved beautifully throughout the flight. * * * Everybody said after I landed that I seemed to be flying terribly fast but I had about five hours gas left when I came down so I couldn't have been wasting it. They kept blinking the lights on the field—had been at intervals all night—and I thought something must be wrong; that they wanted me to land. So I did, but not until I knew I had stuck it out and added an hour to the record!

The altimeter went bad in the beginning so I had to guess how high I was flying. About 11 o'clock last night the lights on the instrument board began to fade and in half an hour they were gone entirely. I tried using my flash light to read the dials but had to take my gloves off to work it and almost froze my hand until I found out that by getting in the beam from the WEAF beacon at Bellmore I could read them during the momentary flash. That helped a lot.

It was too cold to bother with the coffee, beef tea or water I had along and besides I wasn't hungry. Anyway, when I got home they found out the "hot" drinks had frozen in the vacuum bottles so I guess it was just as well I left them alone. My flying suit kept me warm enough except about midnight when it seemed to get a lot colder all at once. After that it warmed up and things weren't so bad but when I was hauled out after landing I was so stiff I couldn't walk. My right arm is still sore, from flying so long in rough air, I guess, although the Bird biplane I was using handled so easily even with a heavy load that I didn't notice any unusual effort. It certainly is a "sweet" ship.

I'd never done any real night flying before and the experience was wonderful.

Feared Ship Was Afire.

About midnight something white streaked by under my wing—another plane. I learned later it was Lieut. "Jimmy" Doolittle. He played around a while with his Vought Corsair, and then landed in Mitchel. I watched him go down, for I'd never landed at night and I decided the smartest thing I could do was follow his example when I got ready to land. It worked fine, but I suppose the next time I try to land at night I'll bounce all over the sky.

I had a Very pistol, and had agreed to fire a signal light with it when I wanted to come down. It was so heavy and my hands were so cold I was afraid I'd drop it out of the ship, so when I got ready to shoot I kicked rudder and skidded the tail of the plane out of the way just as if I were dropping a parachute jumper. Otherwise, I was afraid I might set the ship on fire Well, that pistol certainly gave me an awful jolt when it went off and the flare lit things up so I was sure the plane was burning, and had visions of side-slipping down in an effort to put out the flames or land before they got to me. But it was a false alarm.

The only time I got sleepy was at the end of eight hours' flying Then I started singing—nobody who hears me sing has any trouble staying awake—and that was that. I'd have done the Charleston if I could have managed it, but I figured singing was the next best cure for drowsiness. I had a dreadful headache the last few hours, but I think that was due to the wind beating on top of my helmet all the time. My face mask worked fine, but my eyes watered a lot at first and got my goggles wet. Outside of that everything was fine."

Viola Gentry Has Crash.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Jan. 31 (A. P.)—Miss Viola Gentry, former holder of the women's solo endurance flight record, cracked up her new Swallow plane in the dreaded "Fonck's Gully," today but escaped without injury to herself in a test hop preparatory to making another try for the record.

Just before 2 o'clock she started down the famous transatlantic runway in her open cockpit biplane and got into the air shortly before reaching the gully between Roosevelt and Curtis Fields where Rene Fonck's transatlantic plane crashed and burned with the loss of two lives three years ago.

As she was passing over the gully, however, her plane lurched in the strong upward air currents, that spout from the gully. She lost control and the plane crashed at the foot of the gully, tearing off the landing gear, damaging the under wing and breaking the propellor.

Miss Gentry has sufficient presence of mind to cut her ignition switch when she saw a crash was inevitable and so saved herself from the fate of Capt. Fonck's men who were trapped in a burning fuselage.

Airports 10 Miles Apart Advocated

Guggenheim Declares Land Needed Is Insignificant; Says Safety Is Near.

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Asserting that aviators so far have been asked to do what birds would not consider doing—fly over territory where they could not land safely whenever need arose—Harry F. Guggenheim today advocated airports within ten miles of each other in every direction all over the country.

"The amount of land which this would require," said Guggenheim, in a statement he issued as president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the promotion of aeronautics, "is insignificant in comparsion with the area devoted to the railroads or roads of the country."

He said that a total area of 50,050 square miles used by roads and railroads, whereas airports ten miles apart would use only 1,544 square miles, or about 3 per cent of the larger figure.

Such a system of landing fields, Guggenheim saw as one of the two final steps in making the airplane universally popular. The other factor which he believed was holding back safe and universal flying is loss of control due to the breaking of the airflow over the wings of an plane at low speed. The solution of this problem he described as imminent "if it has not already been solved."

Job Favors Denied By Mrs. M'Cormick

(Associated Press.)

Ruth Hanna McCormick declared yesterday that all the points made against her in a statement by Lottie Holman O'Neill, of Downers Grove, Ill., were incorrect "except the statement that I am Mark Hanna's daughter."

Mrs. McCormick issued a prepared statement in response to the charge by Mrs O'Neill that she was dictating appointments "at the expense of Illinois women."

"I have been resting in Battle Creek, Mich., for ten days and naturally was surprised on my return to my Washington office this morning when Mrs O'Neill's Springfield interview was called to my attention by the newspaper men," the representative-elect said "Mrs. O'Neill has been misinformed, it seems. I have not been familiar with the developments in Illinois State politics since Gov. Emmerson's inaugural, and obviously the assertion that I have been 'dictating appointments by telephone from Washington' is incorrect. I have not been here and as a matter of fact I have been taking a vacation and have no information about recent developments at Springfield.

THE HOUSE STOPS A RAID.

Once more the House of Representatives has demonstrated that it possesses more common sense and moral courage than is possessed by the Senate. By a vote of 240 to 141 the House strikes out of the deficiency bill the $24,000,000 appropriation which the Senate proposed to force upon the executive department for the ostensible purpose of enforcing the prohibition law.

The Senate would not have favored this amendment if a majority of its members had possessed moral courage. Secretary Mellon insisted that the enforcement authority did not need this money and would not know what to do with it. He warned Congress against the unwisdom of placing huge sums in the hands of officials to be expended in their discretion. He stated that further inquiry would have to be made before the enforcement bureau could be in a position to know where the expenditure of more money would promote better enforcement. But senators seeking to curry favor with the dry elements in various States, and fearful of the whip of the Antisaloon League, combined with avowed wets who hoped to prove that no amount of money could make prohibition effective, and thus made up a majority to pass the amendment in spite of Mr. Mellon's warning. No greater prostitution of legislative power was ever exercised than that exercised by the Senate in attempting to raid the Treasury for the purpose of serving political ambitions.

The debate in the House took a political turn, of course. Southern Democrats supported the amendment, and were twitted by the Republican majority for attempting to rehabilitate themselves with the dry voters of the South, after having supported a wet candidate for the Presidency. The only answer the Democrats could make was that the Republicans were not at heart in favor of prohibition enforcement. The fact that the administration opposed the appropriation was sufficient to stiffen the backs of most of the Republicans in their opposition to the amendment. They were joined by a few genuine Democratic wets, who could see no virtue in voting money to enforce a law which they do not think is enforceable.

With all the mixed motives of the House, the fact remains that its action prevents Congress from committing the shameful act of misusing public money. If the amendment had survived in the bill it would have met its death at the hands of the President. With the Treasury facing a deficit unless extraordinary prudence is exercised during these last days of the Seventieth Congress, President Coolidge certainly would have prevented the squandering of $24,000,000. It would have been incumbent upon him, also, to prevent the imposition of a political trick upon President Hoover, by which the new President would have been charged later on with insincerity in dealing with the liquor problem by failing to enforce the law after having been provided with practically unlimited funds. But the House majority did not shuffle upon the President the duty of stopping the misuse of public money.

The House has done its plain duty, courageously and with common sense. Its action will be thoroughly understood and appreciated by the country. The majority of the people of the United States support the prohibition law, but they are not such fools as to be taken in by the trick of politicians who would misuse public money, if they could, to serve their individual political ends.

EINSTEIN SPEAKING.

Radio users know that reception invariably is broken at crucial moments. A man may endure the most hideous noises for half an hour, waiting anxiously for the announcer's voice so that he can log what appears to be a new station. The noise ceases, and the voice of the announcer is heard, when—bang! a blast of static intervenes. By the time it has been dispersed, the announcement has been completed and the identity of the station is forever lost, unless the listener is physically able to endure another half hour of the bedlam that passes as music.

A somewhat similar disappointment attended perusal of Prof. Einstein's new work made public yesterday. Under the title "Zur inheitlichen Feldtheorie" the famous German scientist is said to have reduced the theories of mechanics and of electricity to a single law. For months the world, scientific and lay, had been awaiting the moment of publication, its interest heightened by preliminary accounts asserting that the new theory would lead to such wonderful achievements as self-sustaining airplanes and trips to the moon. Small wonder, then, that the public turned to the reproduction of the thesis and read avidly the words:

> The v-components of the s-th leg of the n-leg will accordingly be labeled as subscript s raised to the power v, while the appertaining fixed lower determinants will be labeled as subscript s h subscript v.

The public read on, its interest rising to fever heat: "As tensor according to wish with upper index sigma." "Gothic T ' ' sigma . . all over delta x (end of fraction) + . . . + Gothic T ' ' alpha . . lambda superscript sigma subscript alpha tau." And so on to the final words, "Gothic T ' ' sigma . . oblique sigma," and then this cold douche:

> (Owing to delays in translation in Berlin and cable transmission the remainder of Dr. Einstein's thesis had not been received when this edition went to press.)

The radio, at its worst, is no more disappointing than this. What is Prof. Einstein trying to put over? Is he singing, or swearing? Or have the types contracted the radio mania and tried to give an imitation of static? Db3?xpwhee!stptptpt*gr-r-r woof!

COMPETITION IN COTTON.

Troubles of the cotton industry absorbed the attention of the ways and means committee Wednesday. Representatives of the growers, textile manufacturers of both New England and the South, and textile workers made a unanimous plea for a higher tariff on cotton and cotton goods. Mayor Landers of Lawrence, Mass., drew pictures of widespread unemployment and migration from factory towns because of inadequate duties on cloth.

Conditions in the textile industry are far from being satisfactory, but there is a still stronger argument for revision of the present tariff affecting cotton. The industry is rapidly expanding in Africa, and the United States will have more serious competition than ever before. A study of the projects undertaken in British and Belgian territory of Africa by Prof. A. Demangeon, economist of the University of Paris, resulted in a prediction that America will find a formidable rival in the world cotton market in the very near future. Railroads are being built in several directions from the heart of Africa to the sea, and these two nations expect to develop a cotton-growing area comparable to our Southern States.

Cotton produced in Egypt at the rate of $200,000,000 worth each year has been an important factor in the world supply for a long time. Already the Sudan is producing a crop with a value of $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 per year. The Belgian Congo expects to increase its production from 7,000 tons a few years ago to 30,000 tons by 1930. The new railroad facilities will give an easy outlet by which this cotton may reach the world market. Even if protection be afforded through tariff revision, the market for the large cotton exports of this country may be affected.

The situation may be further aggravated by the growing use of a cotton substitute which has been developed in Europe. The weed from which the substitute fiber is obtained is much hardier than the cotton plant and can be grown in unfertile soil and under adverse climatic conditions. A process of treating the plant chemically in such a way that its fiber may be used in the ordinary cotton spinning machinery has been invented in England. Indications are that a commercial crop will be produced in Essex this year, which may result in rapid expansion of the artificial cotton industry. In view of these facts the cotton and cotton goods schedules should have the most careful attention of Congress before the new tariff rates are fixed.

OVERCROWDED FEDERAL JAILS.

A serious situation has been brought to the attention of Congress in the report of the House committee on Federal penal and reformatory institutions. The investigation makes plain that the Government is not much ahead of the States in providing adequate and suitable quarters for its prisoners.

"Leavenworth penitentiary now has within its walls more than twice the number of prisoners it is able to accommodate," the report reads. "The normal capacity of the Atlanta penitentiary is 1,712, and upon the day the committee visited it there were 3,107 prisoners in the institution. In both of these institutions there exists the vicious practice of 'double up,' or placing two prisoners in single cells. Men are sleeping in dark, ill-ventilated basements and corridors, improvised dormitories are in use, the kitchen and mess facilities are overloaded to more than twice their proper capacity." The only institution at which the committee found sufficient facilities and proper care was the Federal institution for women at Alderson, W. Va.

Immediate need for construction of two penitentiaries and a hospital for the criminally insane was emphasized in the recommendations. Congress is also urged to complete, as soon as possible, the reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, and to construct a narcotic institution and Federal jails and workhouses to take care of short-term prisoners. The urgent need for a prison to house District of Columbia criminals, who are now being sent to Federal institutions, is also suggested.

It should not be necessary to remind Congress that the Government has not done its full duty in locking criminals up. There should be some effort at turning out rehabilitated citizens, instead of hardened criminals taught in the "crime schools" of the penitentiaries. The investigators found that in many instances the sick are not separated from the well, nor the vicious criminals from young men serving for first offenses. This condition is particularly noticeable in county and local jails, where prisoners are boarded for lack of adequate Federal institutions.

Federal judges informed the investigators that a comprehensive parole system would allow 5,000 prisoners to be released on probation. But since only 92 of the judicial districts have probation officers these prisoners remain confined in overcrowded jails and prisons. When it is considered that the prison population totals 19,000 the need for remedial action is still more apparent.

HEPZIBAH CHURCH.

Filled generally to overflowing with tales of the misdeeds of humanity and with stories of its accomplishments and the progress of affairs, there is little enough room in the newspapers of the country for happenings that only upon second consideration appear to have unusual significance. A day or so ago, for example, there appeared an item concerning the congregation of Hepzibah Baptist Church, of Clarksburg, W. Va., which recently adopted a resolution pledging the members to refrain from "tattling and gossiping" and to "try to treat each member as a brother even to the extent of bearing one another's burdens in the spirit of Christian fellowship and love."

How better could the Christian spirit be expressed? It will not be easy for the congregation of Hepzibah Church to carry out its resolution. Temptations to tattle or gossip will continually present themselves. The tendency to shirk the duty of helping a neighbor is always evident. Self-interest is not easy to forget, and all too frequently one's own interests can be advanced most easily at the sacrifice of another's. Nevertheless, these church members of Clarksburg have set down upon paper, and subscribed to, a document inherently Christian, that should serve through the years to smooth the spiritual and material pathway of all concerned. That, in itself, is a considerable achievement.

How fortunate it would be if other congregations were to seize upon this resolution for their guidance! What a fine thing it would be if the world were to foreswear tattling and gossiping, and pledge itself to treat all men as brethren! The Hepzibah Baptists have struck a note that deserves wide commendation and emulation. The story of their resolution deserves to be blazoned over the whole country.

ANTI-PAN-AMERICANISM

By HUGO HARTENSTEIN,
President American Chamber of Commerce of Cuba.

From time immemorial the United States, through its executives and other representative citizens, has endeavored to foster a greater spirit of fraternity, good will and mutual understanding with Pan-American countries, and while some progress has undoubtedly been made, it may not be claimed that these attempts have been crowned with the success warranted by such laudable aims. Due largely to the lack of coordination and cooperation on the part of our Congress, suitable legislation has not been enacted from time to time, which could have cemented the bonds of friendship and good will engendered by our national messengers.

As a specific case in point we may cite a few of the experiences with a country which is almost universally considered the barometer of feeling in so far as the sentiment of Latin-American countries towards the United States is concerned. In a very laudable spirit of generosity, we ceded Cuba to the Cubans at the termination of the Spanish-American War with no restrictive proviso other than that contained in the so-called Platt amendment, and the way was paved for a decided betterment in our relations with Latin Americans in Cuba and consequently with the citizens of other Latin-American countries. Subsequently we entered into a commercial treaty with Cuba.

In 1903 it became evident that a mails convention between the two countries which would accommodate the requirements of closer political and commercial ties was imperative, and this convention was concerted in the fall of that same year.

It was the intent undoubtedly to prepare for a reciprocal exchange through the enactment of the mails convention of 1903, but most unfortunately, a clause in the tariff act of July 28, 1866, prevented a complete reciprocity in the operation of this convention, since Cuba's only mailable product, cigars, could not, under the existing statutes, be entered into the ports of the United States through the medium of the mails.

The Cuban government, from time to time, has brought this inequality to the attention of our Government, but no attempt has been made by our legislators, even at the urgent request of the Executive, to enact corrective legislation.

Prior to the termination of the temporary operative period of the parcel post convention, special representations were made by our postal authorities and subsequently by the President of the United States personally, urging the continuance of the parcels exchange, through a modus vivendi, during an additional term, thereby allowing sufficient time for congressional action which would afford relief to the Cuban exporters. The time extension was promptly granted by the Cuban government, and yet when this time extension had elapsed on March 1, 1928, no remedial law had been enacted by our Congress, hence the abrogation of the parcel post convention became effective as of that date.

The operations of the parcel post convention between Cuba and the United States had barely terminated when the remarkable opportunity for trade expansion was seized by a number of European nations, and in little more than a year's time parcel post exchange has developed actively between Cuba and England, France, Germany, &c., and we are rapidly losing a valuable mail order market due entirely to the inertia of our Congress.

Of what avail are the "good will" tours of our executives, of our foremost citizens, of our Col. Lindbergh and of our President-elect Hoover, if, despite the voluminous recommendations for developments of Latin-American good will and for the expansion of trade, we fail to adapt even the most elementary procedure to conserve the benefits accruing to us as a nation through the personal sacrifice and endeavors of our "good will" messengers?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Local Normal Graduates.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The article in The Post of January 30 concerning Washington school teachers and signed "A Washingtonian" is before me. The teachers of the District do not fear competition but resent the fact that the clause now being discussed in the Senate committee, limiting the appointment of Washington normal school graduates to 25 per cent and the other 75 per cent of appointments to be filled by competitive examinations opened to the entire United States was passed by the House without due consideration of the employes of the public school system or citizens of the District.

At the present time the District teachers are at an unfair disadvantage, inasmuch as they have had only a two-year course at the normal school. Very recently the course was increased to three years. We would certainly appreciate having a four-year normal course. When the District normal students are given the same advantages as those of other communities, then this matter of "new blood" should have full consideration, and the taxpayers of the District should be given the opportunity of at least expressing themselves.

The situation in Washington is unique. Teaching is practically the only occupation open to young women of the District. The Government departments are political institutions and the choice secretarial positions are in connection with the Capitol. These are generally, and quite properly, filled by constituents of the members of Congress. No other city in the United States is such a magnet to people of all sections. The competition as to positions in the school system is bound, therefore, to be great, yet given the same qualifications, we do not fear it. However, it is only natural that the citizens of the District, who are heavily taxed to help support the normal school, should expect a fair percentage of the graduates to be appointed without examination. What community does not encourage home production, even though it may advocate a healthy competition from the outside? Are the citizens of the District, already denied the right to take part in the Government, both local and national, to be further denied the privilege of fairly enjoying the benefits derived from their taxes? Let us have competition; yes; but let us play fair. This clause should be dropped from the present bill.

EDNA L. CRUMP.

Church Union.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is truly gratifying to see that the churches are approaching a union. The division into denominations has always hampered in some degree church work, especially in heathen countries. According to the news in the papers the Methodists and Presbyterians are approaching a union. Their essential belief is the same, the main difference between the two denominations being in the conduct of the service, and in church government.

The Presbyterians have always been more democratic in church government than the Methodists, the congregation selecting the minister, and controlling in all matters of church government. Of late years deference has been paid to the wishes of the congregation of the larger churches in the selection of the minister by the Methodists, but that has not always been so.

All these differences might readily be adjusted and union perfected. It frequently happens that each denomination will have a church in the same block, while one church building would accommodate both congregations. Thus two churches with all the expenses are maintained where one would suffice. Church unity will bring added church effectiveness in the matter of spreading the gospel. May the day speedily come when denominationalism will be a thing of the past.

ARTHUR MANDERSON.

Interest on Soldiers' Loans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been a reader of the Washington Post for 28 years. My object in writing to you is to have the cooperation of Washington's largest morning newspaper help in a little matter of justice to the ex-service man. Congress passed a law giving the ex-service man paid-up insurance to be paid from the time it became a law, also allowing him to draw against his paid-up policy. Naturally this would seem a fair arrangement, but as it works out it is just the opposite. The majority of men who borrow on their insurance are under the impression that it will have the same borrowing value ten years from now that it has today. Ninety-nine out of every hundred men who have had their checks cashed with me do not realize that they have to pay the government compound interest on the money they have borrowed until the 20 years are up.

Most of them imagine that they only have to pay 2 per cent interest on the money that they borrow, and not the Federal loan rate of interest, which this year is 7 per cent. Is it fair to the soldiers for the Government to charge them 7 per cent for the use of money, where it can be borrowed from a bank for 6 per cent?

I would like to show the ex-soldier exactly what he will get in 20 years if he draws for 4 or 5 years more. You can easily see what will be coming to him if he draws from the Government the first year $100 at 7 per cent interest. In 20 years the Government would get back $200 or more interest.

Is this fair to the soldier who has $1,500 coming to him, who draws every year for about 7 years against his money, to have compound interest charged against him and practically eat up this entire amount by the time it matures?

If a man wants to borrow $50 on his paid-up insurance, they tell him he must borrow the full amount or nothing, and if he has a $250 loan value on his insurance, he will borrow $250, and his chances of paying it back are very slim. If they would let him borrow only $50 he might pay it back in a year, but if $250 he just lets it drag, and makes another brorowing the next year, and in about 6 or 7 years the interest will about eat up the amount that he can draw from the Government.

LEWIS L. LEVY.

Our Opinion of a Giant Depends on Whether He Serves Us or Threatens Us.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN volunteers were enrolled for the Civil War, regiments in the North elected their colonels. In many instances, the man who had the most money to spend for whisky got the most votes and became the leader.

But the privates recognized their own folly, and at least one Illinois regiment refused to march with the colonel it had elected. The privates believed in self-government and majority rule in time of peace, but when their lives were at stake they demanded a competent leader.

During the World War, also, democracy was shelved by common consent and the people clamored for a dictator who could save them.

The rule of the able is the only sane rule, and this truth is recognized by the people in time of emergency.

The only reason the people demand the right to rule themselves is because able men in times past have exploited them.

They know a government by the people is wasteful, cumbersome and inefficient, and they would prefer government by superior men if they could find leaders wholly unselfish.

These United States have just emerged from a predatory age in which the shrewdest and strongest got great fortunes at the expense of the people and spent their gains like Oriental potentates.

Because the big men were selfish, greedy and heartless, the people were suspicious, resentful and afraid. They demanded a greater voice in government; they clamored for laws to thwart and curb the rich.

That age is finished. Mr. Ford does not regard his profits as personal gain, but as a trust fund still belonging to the public. Mr. Rockefeller finds ways to use his millions for the public good. Scores of rich men, having won the game, find no joy in selfishness and use their fortunes to benefit the world.

The strongest survive, and the people will not hinder them if they will use their power unselfishly.

The new era of service, ridiculed by the cynics, promises the one solution of the world's problems.

The strong nations may rule by common consent when they are willing to rule for the good of all instead of exploiting the weak and ignorant for the gain of a favored class.

Now as always the people desire a leader. Give them one they can trust and they are content.

The able may build and govern unhindered when they learn how childish and foolish greed and selfishness are.

The people resent and covet the fortune of a rich idler who makes a vain and silly show of his wealth. They respect and trust a rich man who labors as they do and uses his profits to build or to benefit mankind.

The dog's strength is admired while he guards the sheep; it is dreaded only when he begins to kill them.

PRESS COMMENT.

Can You Blame Him?

The Heavies.

Atlanta Constitution: The way in which men are coming back to suspenders it looks as if they anticipate silver dollars will again be current.

Democracy.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Democracy—Spending $23,000,000 enforcing a law that half the people don't want enforced; making everybody pay for it.

Neglected California.

Boston Transcript: President Hoover is advertising Florida. Now where is the go-getter who can secure England's convalescent king to advertise Southern California?

Thank Goodness.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: Well, there are blessings still to be recognized, if we are open minded. They haven't yet promoted a marathon for steel riveters.

A Shameful Condition.

Atchison Daily Globe: During the World War, President-elect Hoover rushed into Belgium to feed the starving mothers and children of that little kingdom. But the other day, Mr. Hoover rushed to an island adjacent to Florida to get away from the starving office seekers of this country. The dignified President-elect in a frantic race to get away from the office seekers was a sight somewhat funny, of course. Yet there is a tragic phase to the fact that greedy politicians of the United States make it necessary for the President-elect to seek isolation to avoid them. It is really a shameful condition, and one tending to cheapen this form of government in the eyes of men prone to be a bit cynical.

Hardly Retaliation.

New York World: Senor Ferrara, the Cuban Ambassador to the United States, is reported in Washington dispatches as saying that if the proposed higher tariff on sugar should prove injurious to his country, it might retaliate by repealing the so-called Platt amendment. Cuba's revocation of its acceptance of this amendment, which authorizes the United States to intervene in the island if this is necessary to maintain political stability, would hardly be regarded in this country as an act of retaliation. The advantages of this agreement are preponderantly on the side of Cuba. It is really a kind of insurance against revolution for the government which happens to be in power, and no government is likely to be so rash as to kick this powerful prop from beneath it.

Horses and Men.

Philadelphia Record: Better to be a horse in the service of the city than an inmate of the Holmesburg prison.

The city is concerned about the welfare of its horses.

It allows each of them $292 a year for food.

It employs nine veterinarians to look after their health.

Prisoners are not deemed worthy of as much consideration.

Their food allowance is $73 a year each.

The 1,743 prisoners at Holmesburg have the part-time services of one physician. The nine "vets" who look after th city's horses have but 1,575 patients among them.

Medical care figures out about $6.35 per horse and $1.60 per prisoner.

Skidding First.

Ohio State Journal: Now the psychologists are talking about eliminating fear, but they've got to get skidding first if the campaign is going to embrace middle-aged men of sedentary pursuits who drive their own cars, from choice of course.

AUTO SHOW CROWDS SETTING NEW MARK

HALL CONSTANTLY FILLED

On the basis of attendance records already compiled it was estimated last night that by the time the ninth annual automobile show at the Washington Auditorium is brought to a close at 11 o'clock tomorrow evening more than 80,000 persons will have seen the exhibit. This is well in excess of the record establishing attendance of last year which is approached by the throngs that have already filled the big hall with the show still two days to run.

As upon previous days the crowd yesterday and last night was notable for its cosmopolitan composition, society, officialdom and the diplomatic colony again being generously represented while many other walks of life sent their usual quota of automobile enthusiasts to look over the 150 latest models of 36 different makes which are on display.

Attendance Swelled.

It was stated by Rudolph Jose, chairman of the show committee of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, that the attendance at the present show has been noticeably swelled by the fact that many organizations of various kinds and schools have attended the exposition in a body. However, he continued, a check of attendance figures reveals that "individual" attendance this year was emphatically greater than last, also. The combination of these two factors accounts, it is shown, for 1929's "remarkable showing" from an attendance point of view.

The show is entering upon its closing phases with evidence of the same crowd enthusiasm which marked the opening, it was asserted yesterday by Edward M. Wallace, president of the Automotive Trade Association. He added that rather than causing a diminution of interest the latter days of the exposition have seen it itensified to a marked degree. The association head added that the exhibiting dealers were unanimous on this point, agreeing also that the show is notable for the number of orders for cars that have already been secured, not to speak of the prospects which the show has developed.

Invitation to Association.

It was announced yesterday by the show committee that an invitation has been extended by the Washington Automotive Trade Association to the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce to attend the show in a body. For the last several years business men of the Maryland capital have been coming to the local exhibition as a group at the invitation of the association.

The final radio program sponsored by the association in behalf of the automobile show will be broadcast over station WMAL this evening. Mr. Wallace will speak on "The Meaning of the 1929 Car."

Dr. Walsh Commences Russian Lecture Series

Dr Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., regent of the Georgetown University school of foreign service, last night began a series of public lectures on the Russian revolution and the Soviet state, which will be continued every Thursday evening until April.

In his opening lecture Dr. Walsh reviewed the historic causes leading up to the abdication of the czar and the coming of the Bolsheviks.

Dr. William F. Notz, dean of the school of foreign service, presided at the lecture which was attended by an audience that filled Gaston Hall at Georgetown College.

...makes baking easier...

It's next week—attend every day and become familiar with new and better methods of preparing delicious foods. After being present at this free school, you will realize beyond all question of doubt that baking failures CAN be eliminated entirely. See every demonstration conducted by the world famed domestic scientist
MRS. FRANCES T. NORTHCROSS
She appreciates the proven fact that the vast majority of baking failures are the result of improper leavening action—and, for that reason, employs the highest quality and most dependable leavener obtainable—
CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER
It possesses full strength—to the very last spoonful. Every particle has supreme leavening power. Bakings that you now consider difficult become a joy to create—because they are no trouble to make with Calumet. Calumet improves bakings in flavor and quality—makes them more delicious than you ever imagined they could be—and more healthful, too, because bakings leavened with Calumet are thoroughly leavened. This means perfect digestion—health. Calumet contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the U. S. Food Authorities.
DOUBLE ACTING CALUMET MAKES BAKING EASIER

GIRL, FLIER PURSUED, MARRIED TO CRIPPLE

MYSTERY IN CEREMONY

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Miss Ruth McConnell, 26-year-old art and music student, and Kenneth B. Coulter, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., were married here this afternoon by the Rev. Dr. Edwin W. Dunlavy, pastor of Roberts Park M. E. Church.

The mystery-cloaked romance of the couple appeared to approach a climax here late today when Dr. Dunlavy drove to the McConnell home.

Preparations for the wedding continued throughout the day, although members of the household refused to make any announcement regarding the plans.

Dr. Dunlavy was in the McConnell home about an hour. He departed by way of the rear door and took a circuitous route to his automobile, which was parked four doors away.

A representative of the Associated Press overtook the minister and rode for about a mile with him.

"There isn't a story in this," Dr. Dunlavy declared. "However, I will prepare a statement later for the newspapers."

Miss McConnell last December fled from Rochester, N. Y., to San Francisco by train. She was followed by Dr. D. O. Meeker, in an airplane. At that time the young woman's father said she had been in ill health and that Meeker, as a friend of the family, was commissioned to see that she came to no harm.

Miss McConnell answered a telephone call at noon. There was nothing to give out, she said.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN, JR., AND HIS BRIDE

Los Angeles, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—William Jennings Bryan, jr., son of the late Commoner, and Mrs. Ellen Bent Ballinger, were married here yesterday and left shortly afterward by automobile on a three weeks' honeymoon. But a few intimate friends attended the informal ceremony held at the home of the bride's father, Arthur S. Bent. Mr. Bryan, who is 39 and the father of three daughters, was divorced two years ago. Mrs. Bryan, two years younger than her husband, was divorced eight years ago and has one son.

Couple, Wed 30 Years, Welcome 20th Child

Bushnell, Ill., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Rounding out their thirtieth year of married life, Mr. and Mrs. William Kane, today welcomed their twentieth child.

Thirteen of their 20 children are living, and reside in and near Bushnell. Mrs. Kane is 45 and her husband a few years older.

RITES FOR MRS. DASHIELL.

Funeral Services to Be Held at Home of Father in Chaney, Md.

Mrs. Dashiell is survived by her husband, B. Francis Dashiell, a radio specialist in the United States Weather Bureau; four sisters, Mrs. S. J. Teller, of Hartford, Conn.; Miss Viola Drury, Calvert County; Miss Blanche and Miss Mabel Drury, of this city, and two brothers, Orville Drury, of Calvert County, and D. H. Roland Drury, of Washington.

BURIAL RITES TODAY FOR CAPT. F. BEALL

SERVICES AT RESIDENCE

Funeral services for Capt. Fred Beall, 91 years old, Confederate veteran and retired attorney, who died Wednesday at his home, 1123 Buchanan street northwest, will be held at 9 o'clock this morning at the residence. The Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Broode, assisted by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Duffey, will conduct the services. Burial will oe in the Confederate section of the Arlington National Cemetery at 10:30 o'clock.

Among the honorary pallbearers will be senators and representatives from Mississippi, officers of the Mississippi Society of Washington, representatives of the District Bar Association and members of Camp No. 171, United Confederate Veterans. The list also includes Charles M. Stedman, Dean W. A. Wilbur, Daniel C. Roper, Paul Johnson, R. L. Davidson, Dr. J. T. Curry and Dr. Malcolm Gibbs.

The active pallbearers will be Robert G. Hand, George W. Potter, William R. King, Laverne Lackey, Harvey Long, Richard Gwathmey and Louis F. Powell.

Capt. Beall was born in Georgia, July 10, 1837, and came to Washington from West Point, Miss., in 1893. He engaged in the practice of law, and retired from active work in 1924.

He assisted in the organization of the Mississippi Society of Washington in 1895; was the second president of the society, and served several additional terms in that office. He was elected honorary president of the society for life several years ago. He also was one of the founders of the Southern Society. He was active in local Confederate organizations, and served as commander of Camp No. 171, United Confederate Veterans. He was elected honorary commander for life in 1923. He was a member of the Temple Baptist Church.

Surviving him are three daughters, Miss Emma Beall and Miss Zoe Beall, of this city, and Mrs. W. P. Pope, of Columbus, Miss.

CAME HERE 30 YEARS AGO

John M. Biddle, 63 years old, prominent in social and financial circles here for many years, was found dead in bed early yesterday morning at his home, 2129 S street northwest. Death was attributed to heart disease.

Mr. Biddle served at one time as manager of the Metropolitan Club and also of the Racquet Club. He was a member of the Chevy Chase, Alibi, Metropolitan and Racquet Clubs.

Born at Elizabeth, N. J., Mr. Biddle came to Washington 30 years ago. He was a son of the late Gen. James Biddle, U. S. A., and was distantly related to the Biddles of Philadelphia.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Ethel Murphy Biddle; a son, Samuel Biddle, a student at the Choate School in Connecticut; a brother, Col. David Biddle, of Fort Sam Houston, Tex., who is en route to Washington, and a sister, Mrs. Nellie Shipman, of New York, a noted landscape artist.

The funeral arrangements will be completed on the arrival of relatives. Services will be held Monday at the residence.

PRINCE PLEDGES AID FOR COAL DIGGERS

Poverty in Newcastle District Touches Wales as He Visits Villages.

PRAISES RELIEF WORK

Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales tonight left the desolate and poverty-stricken mining district after a three days' visit deeply touched by the conditions seen and determined to find a method of relief.

In these three days he has traveled about 200 miles through the worst parts of the northern coal fields, making exhaustive inquiries from every possible angle. The mining villages, never things of beauty, were most dismal at this wintry season.

Twice today he promised to do everything possible to remedy the situation. To the mayor of Durham he said:

"I have been deeply touched by what I have seen—the bravery, the patience and the hope of all these poor people. It is very difficult to know what to do to solve this most pressing problem. I am sure, however, things will be righted, but I am afraid it must take time. The people I met couldn't have been nicer to me personally. It was wonderful."

Relief Work Praised.

To Mrs. Teasdale, secretary of the unemployment committee at Bishop, Auckland, he said:

"It is some consolation to see the good work being done for miners everywhere I've been. I can not tell you what I have felt as I have gone through some of these mining areas. I can see that distress is very acute and I will do whatever I can for the people."

The prince was especially affected by one aspect of the problem quite new to him. At West Auckland and other places the pits, having little prospect of ever paying their way again, were dismantled. He visited many homes in such places and tried to give a word of cheer to the villagers, whose only hope is to abandon their homes and search elsewhere for employment.

The idea of the prince making his investigations quietly was found to be impossible. Everywhere whole villages were on the alert and the news spread the moment the prince reached the vicinity. He was thus followed everywhere by crowds of unemployed miners and their families.

The prince met the people easily and simply. Today, for instance, he entered a cottage and found a woman applying black lead to her fire grate. He offered his hand. "Oh, no sir," she protested. "My hands are too dirty."

Grasps Grimy Hand.

"Never mind that," laughed the prince, "it comes from good honest toil." He then grasped her grimy hand to the delight of the woman and bystanders.

At Spennymoor he called at the house of an old soldier, Phillip Brown. His wife showed the prince her husband's war souvenirs, among them one of the cigarette boxes which Princess Mary sent to the men in the trenches. "Ah," said the prince, "I have one similar to that but it has a bullet hole through it."

The prince, who has been fighting a cold, looked worn and tired tonight as he took the train for Grantham. He will spend the week end hunting.

Walker Attacked By Welfare Head

Retiring New York Official Also Denounces Tammany Hall Candidates.

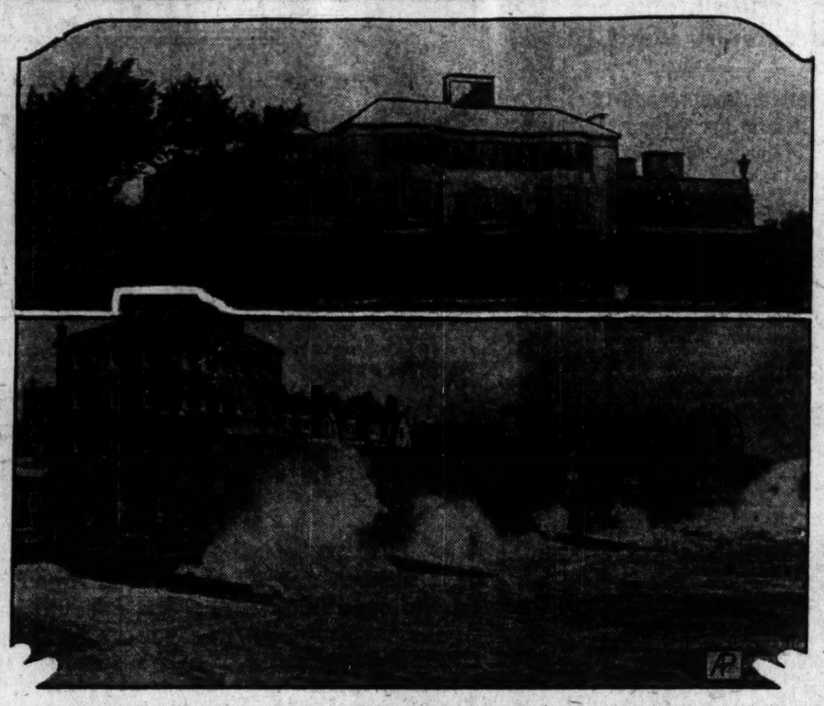
New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Announcing he would retire tonight after 20 years in public service, Bird S. Coler, commissioner of the department of welfare, today denounced Tammany Hall and Mayor Walker.

In the twelve years he served as head of the welfare department, he said only four of seventeen men sent him by the Democratic political organization for appointment as deputy commissioner knew anything about their duties.

He accused Mayor Walker of being inaccessible, declaring he had but four conferences with the mayor in the last three and a half years.

Coler's remarks were made at a testimonial dinner given by private welfare organizations.

BOGNOR, WHERE KING GEORGE WILL CONVALESCE



Above is Craigwell House, at Bognor, where King George of England will go to recover from his present illness. The spot was selected because of its invigorating sea air. Below, sea front at Bognor.

London, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Plans for removing King George from his sick chamber in Buckingham Palace to Craigwell House on the Sussex shore went ahead rapidly today. Queen Mary visited Craigwell and it was announced this evening that if the weather continues good the king would start on Thursday of next week. He will travel by automobile.

Lord Dawson of Penn, the king's physician, visited the palace twice today but issued no bulletin. It was stated that the royal patient continued to improve steadily.

Sir Derek Keppel, master of the king's household, is already virtually in residence at Craigwell getting everything in readiness for the reception of the royal family.

On her visit to Bognor today the queen went over these arrangements and approved them. She also selected another house in the community, a place called "Rotherly," to serve as a guest house while the court is in Sussex.

What the Elementary Schools of Washington Are Doing Educationally

XII—HYGIENE.

Aims and Purposes.

The purpose of the work in hygiene in the Washington public schools is to develop the children into healthy, thrifty and happy citizens, through the stimulation of a "health conscience" that shall persist in their home and community life.

The work in hygiene has its beginning in the preschool activity initiated this year by our parent-teacher associations. The formal course extends from the kindergarten through the ninth grade. The work covers a carefully graded course in health training and instruction, supplemented by a comprehensive text in physiology. Particular emphasis is placed on the proper care of the teeth, of the digestive process, of the sense organs, and of the nervous system, and special stress is laid upon the teaching of the evil effects of the use of tobacco, narcotics and alcohol.

Methods of Instruction.

The methods are comprehensive and practical. Special cards are prepared containing records of physical defects of their causes, and of the time lost in attedance because of illness. These records are checked at the close of each school year in the various grades. The chief medical inspector with capable nurses as assistants, handles the special problems that arise in the prosecution of the health program. Physicians are assigned to schools for special examination of children, and free medical and dental clinics are established where parents may receive advice and physical defects can be corrected. Many weight classes are formed, where overweight or underweight children may be carefully instructed as to healthful methods of weight correction. Lunches are served in the classroom at various periods, and open-air schools are conducted in different localities. Health habit charts are kept, and daily inspection of the class is maintained by the teacher.

Time.

The time allotted to the teaching of this subject is increasing steadily because of the intimate interrelation with all the school experiences of the pupils. In order to give outward emphasis to this health experience of the children reasonable time is periodically devoted to the making of posters, slogans and the production of health plays. The apportionment of the course involves a special assignment of 30 minutes a week in the textbook and 15 minutes a week daily for health exercises or games.

Results.

The salutary results achieved are more evident each year. The pupils show a steady improvement in health habits and a growing pride in cleanliness of person and environment. It is particularly gratifying to note that the knowledge of the evil effects of tobacco, narcotics and alcohol acquired by the pupils is finding wholesome application in the life of the community. The scientific fact that sound health is the basis of clear thinking has given motivation to this work in hygiene among the children, and as teachers we are visualizing a healthier, more efficient and a happier generation rising to correct some of the most insidious evils of our modern life.

Girl Aided by Firemen Almost Out of Danger

Perry, Kans., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Two Topeka firemen who for twelve days nursed the spark of life in 7-year-old Margaret Brown by the constant administration of oxygen were relieved from duty today when their little patient, suffering from a lung infection, was pronounced almost out of danger.

For the first time in thirteen nights Margaret slept without the aid of oxygen and her physicians, said this morning her condition was good.

The child asked for her dolls and also talked about school and her playmates.

Without the oxygen and blood transfusions from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, the physicians said Margaret could not have survived the crisis.

HOUSEWIVES INVITED TO COOKING SCHOOLS

COURSE IS ENTIRELY FREE

The big thing for you to remember about The Post Free Cooking School, to be conducted next week by Mrs. Francis T. Northcross, noted cookery adviser, is this: It is going to be your cooking school, and you have the opportunity to make it doubly interesting and profitable. Every woman in Washington and vicinity is invited by The Post not only to attend all sessions at the Ambassador Theater, beginning next Tuesday afternoon and running through Friday, but to make preparations for getting the most out of Mrs. Northcross' talks and demonstrations.

The hour for starting the sessions being fixed at 2 o'clock sharp, with the doors of the Ambassador Theater opening at 1 o'clock, will make it possible for women readers to arrange their affairs in advance for a two-hour period of discussion and relaxation without interfering with home duties.

You may look forward to the cooking school as a worthwhile convention of housewives, instead of an amusing circus of trick performances. As a wife and mother, you will be entitled to have your housekeeping problems receive practical light from a lecturer of mature experience. That is just what we have in store for you—only more. The fascinating personality of Mrs Northcross is combined with a refreshing humor to make the sessions more than educational, by the introduction of many unusual dishes, which Mrs. Northcross has gained from her experiences with audiences throughout the country.

Questions encountered by Mrs. Northcross from the minds of wives and mothers are vital to the modern standards in which all are so much interested. Perhaps your problem is colorful equipment to add charm to your kitchen. Perhaps it is concerned with some worn-out appliance sapping your strength and time and costing more money to use than is fair to your household budget. Your question may involve features you should demand in a new range or a new refrigerator to prevent extravagant spoilage of foods Mrs. Northcross, enjoying a Nation-wide contact with latest appliances, will be able to advise you with the practical knowledge of an expert.

Often there are questions as to dining room appointments in silver, china and linens to be brought up to your standard, but your particular trouble may be child feeding, or possibly diets for yourself or family. The presentation of food values for children as well as for those who believe they are too fat or too lean are greatly appreciated features of these programs.

Taking your household problems to Mrs. Northcross is what we mean by making the cooking school your school, so that when the sessions are over you will feel they have been helpful and enjoyable.

So we urge that you avail yourself of this fine opportunity next week, Tuesday through Friday afternoon, at the Ambassador Theater, beginning at 2 o'clock, to present your questions on blanks you will find provided for the purpose, and make each afternoon an interesting and profitable relief from housekeeping routine.

Martial Law in Parts Of Nicaragua Decreed

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The chamber of deputies today adopted a resolution establishing martial law in the three northern departments of Nicaragua, where outlaw bands have been active. Three American Marines recently were killed in this district in a clash with the outlaws.

The resolution already has been adopted by the senate, but must go back to that body again for consideration of several amendments.

CAPITAL SCIENTIST CONFUTES EINSTEIN

The theory which Draper has proposed is that the speed of light is constant with respect to the center of the mass of the source, but that it varies with relation to the speed and direction of the source, the medium through which it passes, and the speed and direction of the observer.

In illustrating his theory, Draper used the relative speeds of the light ray and the Beta ray of radium.

"Light travels at a speed of about 186,000 feet per second," he said, "while the Beta rays travel about two-thirds that rate, or 124,000 feet per second. Einstein says that if a light ray and a Beta ray pass, the velocity at the moment of passing remains the same regardless of whether the two rays are traveling in the same or opposite directions.

Speed Is Relative.

"I submit that the velocity at the moment of passing is relative to the speed and direction of the two rays. It is just like the case of a man rowing a boat in a stream. His velocity up or down stream would be in relation to the speed of the current."

Draper defines light as "the transverse vibrations inherent in quanta and inseparable from quanta." Quanta he defines as "helixoidal carriers of energy, having the property of perfect elasticity, a property identical with the property of perfect elasticity commonly attributed to ether. This carrier of energy is neither mass nor energy in the generally accepted sense of those terms. It is the bridge or adhesive between them."

Drapr is a graduate of the University of Utah, where he took his A. B. degree in 1923. He has been employed at the Naval Observatory about two years. Capt. C. S. Freeman, U. S. N., superintendent of the Observatory, has become interested in his theory and is now attempting to engage the interest of prominent scientists of the nation. Some minor details of the theory may yet be incorrect, Draper admitted, but added that there has not yet been any experimental evidence to prove that any part of it is faulty.

WITNESS SAYS JUDGE TALKED TO AID AIMEE

ANOTHER AVERS THREAT

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 31. (A.P.).—The inquiry of a State legislative committee into the $2,500 check given Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy by Aimee Semple McPherson became deeply enmeshed in the Angelus Temple leader's kidnaping episode today. The inquiry is to determine whether impeachment proceedings are to be filed against the jurist.

Three of five witnesses appearing at the morning session testified to funds expended, threats made and advices offered in connection with the mysterious seaside cottage at Carmel, Calif., the evangelist is accused of having visited with her temple radio man, Kenneth G. Ormiston, when she claimed she was held a captive in the desert by two abductors.

Robert W. Bryden, a Pasadena merchant, testified that while he was a member of the county grand jury which two years ago investigated Mrs. McPherson's kidnaping, Judge Hardy warned him to "lay off the Aimee case."

Bryden's testimony was preceded by that of a private detective, James W. Buchanan, who said Judge Hardy, Arthur Veitch, Mrs. McPherson's attorney, and Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother, had employed him to investigate the cottage at Carmel.

Buchanan said Mrs. Kennedy paid him $250 and that either she or Judge Hardy paid the final bills. What he learned at the cottage was not disclosed, but eight reports were made either to Judge Hardy or Veitch, Buchanan said.

Walter Moore, a former Santa Barbara newspaper man, who once stated that he believed he saw Armiston and Mrs. McPherson riding in an automobile near Carmel, said that Judge Hardy had come to him with the advice that a witness upon whose testimony any person was wrongfully convicted of a crime was liable for damages in a civil action.

Moore later testified before the grand jury that he was not certain of the identity of the woman he saw in the car and later flatly denied that he had seen Mrs. McPherson.

Two other witnesses, Miss Mae Waldron, Mrs. McPherson's personal secretary, and Lois Ayres, a clerk in the temple, took the witness stand momentarily and corroborated previous evidence given by their employer.

Chairman Walter Little, of the investigating committee, late today ordered Mrs. McPherson to appear before the committee at Sacramento on February 21. Chairman Little declined to comment on reports that the action indicated recommendation of impeachment proceedings against Judge Hardy.

Survivor in Suicide Pact Seriously Ill

Elder of Two Brothers Is in Critical Condition, Despite Rescue.

John E. Dorsey, 45 years old, of 65 M street northwest, is still in a critical condition at Casualty Hospital after his attempt to end his life in his apartment Wednesday night, when his brother, Lawrence R. Dorsey, 42 years old, of the same address, died of gas poisoning.

The fire rescue squad worked for two hours on the survivor of the suicide pact before reviving him. Both left notes to a sister in Evansville, Ind., and Dr. W. G. Duddenhausen, 519 South Third street, Evansville.

It is believed that the younger brother had been dead for at least a day when found, and attending physicians have expressed surprise at the other's survival. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt yesterday issued a certificate of suicide in the death of Lawrence Dorsey.

Bride-to-Be Hurt When Hit by Auto

Miss Mary Adams Is Badly Injured; Wedding Was Set for Monday.

Miss Mary L. Adams, 25 years old, of 1444 W street northwest, who was to have been married next Monday to George Simpson, of Alexandria, Va., sports writer on the Washington Times, was seriously injured yesterday morning when an automobile struck her as she was waiting to board a street car at Fourteenth and W streets northwest.

She was taken to Emergency Hospital in a passing automobile, and treated for shock, lacerations about face and head, and a possible skull fracture. She is in a serious condition, but is expected to recover.

Police arrested Joseph Ottenberg, bakery owner, 3521 Sixteenth street northwest, said to be the driver of the automobile. He was released under $300 bond. The wedding has been postponed until Miss Adams recovers.

Suffered With Pimples Over Face Five Years. Cuticura Healed.

"The skin on my face became very rough and itchy. Later pimples broke out almost all over my face and burned and itched, causing me to scratch. They were hard, large and red and festered, and when I scratched them it made them very sore. I suffered with them for about five years, losing some sleep at night.

"A friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Irene Shuman, R. 1, Box 73, Hoboken, Ga.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

SEARCH FOR GIRL, 10, IS PRESSED IN SNOW

NEWSPAPER SACK CLEW

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Over a terrain marked in places by historic mountains, where redmen laid away their dead tribesmen, there tramped today a band of white men searching for the body of Edith May Dierdorf. Edith, 10 years old, has been missing from her home in West Terre Haute since Sunday.

Edith is believed to have been kidnaped and murdered. A bloodstained sack in which she had been carrying newspapers was found Monday beneath a highway bridge 40 miles south of here. A grocer has told tha the child purchased chewing gum in his store last Sunday and then climbed into an automobile with a man who apparently was waiting for her.

The drifted snow was kicked aside today by hundreds of searchers who believed that somewhere, in a thicket perhaps, would be found Edith's body. Overhead two airplanes circled about while men in the cockpits stared through binoculars, seeking a spot on the landscape that might aid the searchers on the ground.

The air also carried radio appeals, requesting all who could to assist the search.

In the vicinity of Terre Haute city police and sheriff's deputies tramped through Vigo County. They were augmented by many persons, spurred by rewards totaling $1,000.

In Sullivan County which lies immediately south of Vigo, another band of searchers plodded across the hills and through the valleys of the coal lands.

The closest survey was made along Busseron Creek. It was beneath a bridge over this creek that the news sack was found. If Edith was killed, as officers now believe, her body might have been thrown into this creek.

Boy, 14, in Far Off Hankow, To Get Washington Post Pin

The far-flung circulation of The Washington Post was attested to yesterday when the editor of The Junior Post, the boys' and girls' section of The Washington Sunday Post, received a letter from Lum Young, 14, of Hankow, China, applying for membership in the Writers' Club of The Junior Post.

In his letter Lum Young inclosed a cartoon for publication in The Junior Post and expressed a desire to write to Washington boys and girls and offered to exchange postage stamps with young philatelists of this Capital.

"I am in China, the center of Asia," wrote the lad. "I am able to tell any one about the habits in China and other things. I am very much interested in postage stamps and post cards, butterflies, coins and seeds."

The young resident of distant China pledged himself to send a contribution to The Junior Post each week. He declared he read The Junior Post regularly when it reached Hankow after its long journey from Washington.

Lum Young's cartoon will be printed in The Junior Post of February 10 and the membership pin in the Junior Writers' Club will be sent to him in the Orient.

Consumers to Fight Ruling on Deposits

Power Commission Has Become Servant of Utilities, Riegel Declares.

Dissatisfied with the decision of the public utilites commission approving requirement of deposits with utilities by consumers to guarantee payment of bills, the Washington Consumers Guild, through E. C. Riegel, director, yesterday reiterated its determination to take the question into court.

Furthermore, Riegel made known, the guild intends to oppose the reappointment of the present commission members and also of Ralph B. Flaherty, people's counsel. Harrison Brand, jr., commission member, now is serving under a recess appointment, a confirmation of which is up to the Senate. John W. Childress, chairman, is to serve until June 30, when his term also expires.

"The public utilities commission," Riegel said in a statement made public yesterday, "has assumed the odium that heretofore attached only to the utilities." The commission, he said, was the servant of the utilities corporations.

Veterans to Hold Smoker Tomorrow

Foreign War Unit Expects 600 at Annual Rally in Masonic Temple.

The District Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold its annual smoker tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Northeast Masonic Temple, Eighth and F streets northeast.

More than 600 persons are expected to attend the rally. Capt. Frank Lockhead, department commander, is scheduled to give the only address of the evening. This will be followed by an entertainment program. A Dutch luncheon will bring the smoker to a close.

The committee includes Abram Grudd, chairman; Joseph F. Beattie, J. L. Clerc, Clarence J. Lawless, Chester M. Reich, Frank R. Heise, Harvey L. Miller and William J. Harrington.

Radio to Give Bok Carillon Bells Today

Bird Sanctuary in Florida Will Be Dedicated by Coolidge—Choir of 500 to Sing—Comic Song on WMAL at 10.

President Calvin Coolidge will dedicate the Mountain Lake Sanctuary Singing Tower, built by Edward W. Bok, at Mountain Lake, Fla., at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon. The program will be broadcast by WRC and a nation-wide hookup of stations in cooperation with WRUF, operated by the University of Florida, at Gainesville.

The Singing Tower is so designated because of the 62-bell carillon, which was imported from Europe especially for it. The tower is 200 feet high, and it is said the bells may be heard from 3 to 7 miles. Anton Brees, the Belgian bellmaster, who has been heard via the radio in this country on several occasions, will play the carillon during the program today.

In addition to the speeches, a choir of 500 voices and a recital on the sanctuary bells will be heard. The complete program follows:

"The Glory of God in Nature," Ludwig von Beethoven, sung by the United Singing Societies of Polk County, Fla., under the direction of Dr. Henry W. B. Barnes.

Dedicatory address, by Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States. Address of welcome to the President, by Doyle E. Carlton, governor of Florida. "Hallelujah" from Handel's "Messiah," by the United Singing Societies of Polk County.

Recital, the sanctuary bells, by Anton Brees, as follows: "Onward Christian Soldiers," "Jesus, I Live to Thee," "Spring Song" and "Consolation," by Mendelssohn; "Minuet in G," by Beethoven; "Annie Laurie," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," "Way Down Upon the Suwanee River," "Dixie," "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," by Saint-Saens; "God's Hand" and "Our United States."

Station WRC will probably broadcast only one hour of this program, but listeners desiring to hear the complete bell recital may do so by tuning station WRUF, operating on 1,470 kilocycles, 204 meters, with 5,000 watts power, if it is possible to receive this station during the daytime hours.

Two popular favorites will be sung by the Cities Service Cavaliers during the Cities Service Hour at 8 o'clock tonight through station WRC. These are "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie" and "Baffin's Bay."

An interesting feature of the concert tonight will be an oboe solo, "Song of India," by Rimsky-Korsakow, and a woodwind number, "Pastorale," by Sibelius.

Director Rosario Bourdon will conduct a selection from Friml's "Firefly" and Chopin's "Military Polonaise."

Gus and Loule, of the Schradertown Garage, which came into radio existence along with the Schraderton Brass Band of accomplished "plumbers, carpenters and hay tossers," will be on the air for their second chapter of home-town adventures at 9:30 o'clock from WRC.

Dr. Walter Damrosch will again direct the RCA Educational Hour this morning, the latter half of which will be broadcast through WRC at 11:30 o'clock, as follows: Scene i: the country, from "Symphonie Fantastique," Berlioz; airs from "American Fantasy," Herbert, and "Marche Militaire," Schubert.

Station WMAL will broadcast a luncheon concert at 12:15 o'clock today, Washington's Community Chest will be the subject of a talk by William C. Sullivan at 7:30 o'clock, followed by a musical program by the Lovette Choral Society.

The "Then and Now" program for 9:30 o'clock tonight includes "Sweethearts," from Romberg's operetta, "Maytime;" "Sweetheart of All My Dreams," "That Old Gang of Mine," "Wedding Bells Are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine," "Avalon," "Down in Avalon Town," "Sittin' in a Corner" and "In a Little Dream House."

"The Teacher and the Tack," a comic song, is one of the features of the United Choral Singers' program at 10 o'clock tonight. The greater part of the program will be light and tuneful, opening with Cellier's "Tally Ho," and continuing with "Evening," "In a China Shop" and Herbert's "Al Fresco."

"The Long Day Closes," "Japanese Love Song" and the waltz song from "Faust" are also scheduled.

WMAL'S program will close with a half hour of dance music by the Thirty Minute Men.

Bran Hughes and his orchestra will be on at 7 o'clock from Station WJSV followed by a request program. Clarence Walker, tenor, will give a short recital at 8:30 o'clock. A group of old songs has been prepared for 8:45 o'clock, followed by Two Black Humming Birds, Emil Jolson, tenor, and the Gondoliers. Bill Thompson's old-time fiddler champions will close the broadcast.

Station WOL will present a Community Chest speaker at 6:20 o'clock, followed by the Mirth and Melody period and "Amos 'n' Andy." The Club Chantecler ensemble will be heard from 10 o'clock until midnight.

Features to Inaugurate RMA Hour

Frank Moulan, Comedian, to Be Heard Wednesday in Premier Novelties—Meaning of "S O S" Explained—Time Talk.

The first special program of the Radio Manufacturers Association will go on the air next Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, and will be given over a network of ten stations.

The honor of inaugurating the RMA programs goes to the Sylvania Co., of Emporium, Pa., whose president, B. G Erskine, is chairman of the broadcasting committee of the Radio Manufacturers Association and one of its directors. Chairman Erskine is in charge of arrangements for the RMA programs which will follow weekly from various manufacturers, a series of eight weekly programs, at different times and on different chains, already having been arranged, with more expected to follow.

For the inaugural program, the Sylvania Co. has arranged special features. In addition to the nationally known voices of the Sylvania Foresters Quartet, the RMA premiere will present a novelty ensemble. Besides a new orchestra, Sylvania also has engaged Frank Moulan, long a star comedian of the legitimate stage and one of the noteworthy comics of radio. Moulan will give some of his most famous song skits notably "A Little Bug Will Get You Some Day" and "Applesauce," both delightful whimsicalities.

The program will not be heard locally, but may be picked up over WJZ KDKA, WBAL or WLW.

Several letters have been received in the Navy Department from civilians requesting information as to the meaning of the international distress signal "SOS." Various meanings have been attributed to these letters, such as "Save Our Souls," "Save Our Ship" and "Save Oh Save." But when originally adopted at the international radiotelegraph conference, held in London in 1912, according to Capt. S. C. Hooper, U. S. N., director of naval communications, the letters did not, nor do they now, represent words. It is believed that the signal "S O S" was adopted only because of the simple Morse characteristics—a combination of dots and dashes that the least experienced radioman should instantly recognize.

Previous to the ratification and coming into force of the international radiotelegraph convention, signed at London in 1912, the signal of distress was "CQD."

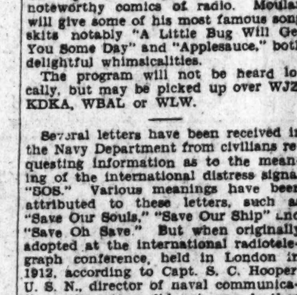
I. K. Clapp, of the General Radio Co., will speak at the meeting of the Washington section of the Institute of Radio Engineers to be held in the Continental Hotel at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening, February 14, following an informal dinner.

Mr. Clapp's subject will be "A Convenient Method for Referring Secondary Standards to a Standard Time Interval." From 1914 to 1916 he was connected with the Marconi Wireless Co. Mr. Clapp was later an instructor in electrical communications at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, then he joined the engineering department of the General Radio Co. in Cambridge, Mass.

WORK'S BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

TODAY'S DEAL.



THE QUESTIONS.

What should the bidding of this hand be at Auction and Contract?

What should the play be to the first two tricks?

THE ANSWERS.

At Auction, the bidding would be: South one Club, West one Spade, North one No Trump, East pass, South pass or two Clubs, West pass, North two No Trumps (if South bids two Clubs).

At Contract, South would bid one Club, West one Spade, North three No Trumps; so in both games North would be the Declarer, the contract No Trump.

The play to the first two tricks should be:

Trick 1. East, Five of Spades; South, the Nine; West, the King; and North, the Six.

Trick 2. West, King of Hearts; North, the Five; East, the Four, and South, the Ace.

At the end of trick 1, West sees that North has the Spade suit thoroughly in hand and, realizing that it is hopeless to continue it, appreciates that his best chance to save game is to rob the Dummy hand of its Ace of Hearts so that it will not have an entry to run the long Clubs. There probably is only one way to accomplish this, viz: by leading the King of Hearts. The lead doubtless will sacrifice a Heart trick, but the gambit will save four Club tricks.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Miss McDonald: Won't you tell us why young people today are not taught to save money for marriage?

I am married now only a short while (five months). I "went" with "only girls" for about two years and I sure did love her with my very heart and soul. I was at all times wrapped up with sweet thoughts of her, and I am sure she loved me with the same feeling. But then there were the difficulties in getting married and in our case it was just that I never had been taught to save.

I did not have any money to speak of—just $300 and a job. And one that did not pay so much, either. After a long talk one evening we decided to take that desparate chance. And we did, and we furnished up a home and it seemed as if our troubles were all over. But after working a couple of months I was laid off. That was a sad blow for the two of us. But we both agreed to make the best of it.

I lost seven weeks' work, and that sure is a whole lot under such circumstances. In those seven weeks I learned a lesson that I never was taught, and that is to save. You can rest assured now that as I work there sure will be more saving. My dearest wife is going all through this hardship with not even a murmur.

It is something that she was never used to. But she stays right with the ship. We will find a way out of all our troubles, you can rest assured of that. We started with too small a capital but were just determined to win out. Neither one of us ever knows what hardships were till now, and it was worth going through. We have not regretted it at any time. My only regret is that we didn't get married sooner. But as it is, we are thankful that we are married today, and will be forever.

We are very happy now that the hardest part is over, and we will go through this life singing a song together. After all, life is not so long. So why not everybody try and make the best of it? But why aren't young folks taught from childhood to save and put by for future happiness? PAUL.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

FEBRUARY 1.

FAME comparable to that of Mary Roberts Rinehart, Gene Stratton-Porter or Fannie Hurst of our day, was achieved in another period by Kate L. Bosher, American novelist, born this day, 1865.

Her novels are distinguished by clever humor and fine sentiment. Her most popular works include "Mary Cary," "Miss Gibbie Gault," "The Man in the Lonely Land" and "The House of Happiness."

The great Leschetitzky's most brilliant pupil, Annette Essipoff, the Russian pianist, was born this day, 1851, in St. Petersburg. She began her career in that city in 1874 and made triumphant tours all over Europe. In 1876 she visited the United States. She and Leschetitzky were married in 1880, but soon were divorced. From 1893 to 1908 she devoted herself to teaching in the St. Petersburg Conservatory.

Jane Regny INTERPRETS the MODE

"Souris," a slimly fashioned coat of large ribbed gray velvet, with trimming of opossum fur; and "Polo," an attractive and practical reversible coat, which can be worn as a beige coat trimmed in multi-colored tweed, or vice versa. (Both courtesy of Yvonne Davidson, Paris.)

New York, January 31, 1929.

WHY, oh why, do not American women take kindly to the most gracious of all feminine accessories, the fan?

A fan affords the most graceful way in the world to occupy your hands. How often do women smokers light a cigarette just for an excuse to do something with their hands?

And it is not only a graceful way to occupy your hands, but a lovely way to display them. One often wonders if Spanish women, who have the most beautiful hands and feet in the world, sponsor the fan to enhance the loveliness of the hands or take care of their hands and enhance their beauty because of the fan!

Are American Women Afraid.

Is it possible that American women are afraid they will not handle the fan gracefully? Truly, there is a huge difference between handling a fan gracefully and handling a golf club properly, but American women are as famous all over the world for their adaptability as they are for their beauty. And, although it might take generations of habitude for a European woman to handle a fan gracefully, an American woman would need only a little practice, if she made up her mind to it.

At the theater, in cafes, at dinner at the opera, one sees lovely ladies enjoying conscious superiority over not only all masculinity, but all unfanned feminity as well. Fans to match the material of the party frock, in tulle, lace, satin and futuristically shaped lame are the ne plus ultra of the mode of this season.

Oh horrors and frustration! Oh tears and fright and nerves and headaches.

Secret de Beaute.

For you find that simply because you didn't have sense enough to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the leaflet telling you how to do simple sewing, you can't make that modern little ridiculously simple change in your frock, which would make it wearable.

You see how simple it is? For this week's illustrated leaflet is really a course in dressmaking—a lot of little facts, which will give you just the clue to successful home dressmaking you have been looking for all your life.

* * * *

Valentine parties are coming—better think about that costume of yours now so you won't be all annoyed and fussed up the night of the party!

* * * *

Truly the name Yvonne Davidson is synonymous with smartness as you can see in the smartly practical garments I have sketched for you today. At the left is a reversible coat of coarsely woven beige tweed on one side, and on the other a fancy beige tweed with threads of red, green, yellow and brown. Each way it is worn, you see, it has cuffs and turned over collar of the other material.

For oily skin? For, of course, an oily nose means oily skin.

Nothing more complicated than an astringent morning and night, and an astringent furthermore that is very simple, such as witch hazel. But not just for one or two weeks, but for several months.

And then, a chamois skin, which you can ask for at any drug store under that name, with which to wipe your nose during the day, and especially before you powder it.

Fashions for Southern wear are indications of the coming spring and summer. And it is fairly evident that it will be definitely a season of brighter colors, with yellow the predominating sports color, bright red for both daytime and evening, and blues and greens.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

VALUE OF FRESH AIR IN CROWDED OFFICES.

P. WRITES: Will you please write on the value of fresh air in offices. I work in a large office with close to a hundred people in a big room and there is no way to ventilate except by opening the windows. You would think I was committing murder when I open a window, and it doesn't stay open more than half a minute. I walk a few miles and when I come to the office the air almost knocks me over.

REPLY.

You need not fear identification, for there are thousands of people like you working in hundreds of offices.

The temperature of an office should be kept at or near 68 degrees. The humidity should be somewhere around 50 and the air in all parts of the room should be at about the same temperature. The supply of fresh air should be introduced at about the same temperature and the inlets and outlets should be so located that every part of the room should be drained of its foul air and supplied with fresh air.

Unless these requirements are met the occupants of the office are unduly subject to colds and that means money loss to the firm; they are uncomfortable, and that means less work and more money loss; or they are mentally dull, and that means inaccuracy and inefficiency, and that means still more money loss. All of which is easy to write, but it leaves some things unsaid.

In the first place, uniform temperature at all times is not good for the occupants of the room. Better and more work is done if the temperature runs up and down somewhat. When the windows are thrown open and the air is blown for a few minutes, there follows a period in which every mind is on the alert and everybody works full steam ahead.

Another difficulty is the difference in people. Some are good heat makers. They are not comfortable when the air is warm. Some are poor heat makers and they are not comfortable when the air is cool. In a crowded room some desks are near stoves, warm air intakes or warm walls, and some are near cold windows or cold walls. Some are in the line of cold air currents along the floor. Others are placed where the floor is warm.

These are real difficulties presenting real problems. They can be solved. Many crowded offices are comfortable. Just how yours can be made so some one who studies the situation and who knows his job can say.

BABY HAS BATH FRIGHT.

L. N. writes: How can I help my baby overcome fright when giving him his bath? He is 6 weeks old and very strong. I do not handle him roughly; the water is always the same as body temperature, and the room is warm.

REPLY.

This is a matter of training. Some one has frightened this child in some way in connection with its bath, and this fright sticks in its memory.

Watson's "Psychological Care of Infant and Child" has some chapters on training children out of fright and other bad emotional habits.

ORGANS THAT CLEANSE BODY.

A. M. writes: Do the lungs have anything to do with purification of the blood, or does the liver alone do this work?

REPLY.

The lungs get rid of the gaseous impurities, such as carbonic acid, essence of onions and some whisky and other aromatics.

The liver is a very important blood purifying organ, perhaps more so than any other, but it does not have the field to itself. The kidneys have important cleaning work to do, the skin lends a hand, the intestines assist, and the spleen lends a hand on occasions.

ITCH AFTER A BATH.

D. S. writes: Taking baths has become a dread to me because of an itch which immediately follows and which lasts for about fifteen minutes. This irritation is not localized.

REPLY.

Bath itch.

"Window Shopping"

Jersey Coat and Silk Frock.

One of the pleasant combinations for Southern wear consists of a frock of silk in a pastel shade, which looks well with sunburn, and a short coat of jersey which has a cravat fastening. The frock is sleeveless, of course.

New Berets.

Gay little berets to carry South are made of a lacelike jersey, which is new and exceedingly chic.

For the Beach.

Much in Little.

Two slim clothes brushes, one hard and the other soft, come in a smart little pigskin case and take up surprisingly little room.

White Pique.

The popularity of white pique is not confined to the adults this season, but fashions some of the smartest frocks for the very young girl.

Silk Coat and Frock.

The young girl of 12 or so will look her best in a frock of yellow crepe de chine, with a tie and cardigan made of necktie silk in black, white and yellow.

"Salt of the Earth."

III. Mining for Salt.

THERE are many sayings about salt. For instance, we say, "I wouldn't give a pinch of salt for that," meaning that the thing we are speaking about is worth very little. You will not find that saying in Gallas, or other lands where salt is scarce and expensive.

Mining salt underground.

And Arabs say, "There is salt between us," meaning that they are loyal friends. In Persia a man may say that another is "not true to salt," meaning that the other has failed in loyalty.

Perhaps the most widely known phrase about salt is "salt of the earth." When that is used, it means that something is of such value that we can not do without it.

Another good point about the phrase is that salt is really found in the earth. We have already spoken about hills of salt and fields of salt. There are also salt mines, deep under the surface.

In eastern England a bed of salt was located when a deep hole was drilled for water. This bed is at an average depth of about 1,000 feet, and covers a stretch of 30 square miles.

An interesting method of obtaining salt from underground is used in England. Water is let down through an iron pipe. At the bottom it mixes with the rock-salt. Then it is pumped back again as "brine," or salt water. The brine is poured into iron pans which are placed over coal fires or over escaping steam. When the brine boils, the water passes off as steam. Fine salt for table use, is thus obtained. If the brine is made hot, but not boiled, the water will evaporate, but the salt which is left will be coarse.

Perhaps the most famous salt mines of the world are those in Galicia, a land lying north of Austria. The beds of rock salt spread over a wide area, and there are underground streets and electric cars. Thirty miles of tracks for trolley cars have been laid at the underground salt mines of Galicia.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SLIPPING.

Says mother to me with a smile on her face
"What a tedious old thing you've become!
You no longer dance with good nature or grace.
When others are gay you are dumb.
You prefer to sit home with a book on your knee
Rather drowsily thumbing the page
Than dress up and go out to dinners with me.
I believe you've grown rusty with age."

"It must be the weather, my dear," I reply,
"'Tis true that I do as you've told,
I could go to dances I'm sure if I'd try,
But I shiver so much in the cold.
You say that I'm dumb when the others are gay,
In the jests I no longer engage,
must be dyspepsia that makes me that way,
. am sure that it can't be old age.

"Perhaps there is something gone wrong with my feet.
I've noticed they hurt me of late,
It is painful to dance and to walk on the street,
I suspect it is something I ate.
You accuse me of caring no more for the stage
And your charges are perfectly true,
But I'm sure it is not the result of old age
It's the after-effect of the flu."

MANY STOCKS SOAR IN NEW BULL DRIVE

Rail Shares, Coppers and Chemicals Lead the Market Upward.

CALL FUNDS 7 PER CENT

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—With a sudden shift of favor from the utilities to the rails, and abetted by an unexpected ease in money rates, the bulls regained complete control of the stock market today after several days of marked irregularity. Nearly two score issues, in which rails, coppers and chemicals were prominent, were bid up to record highs for extended periods.

The market opened strong on the announcement that the Bank of England had left its rediscount rate unchanged, apparently leaving the way open for further imports of gold from London. Call money held at 7 per cent all day.

The rate touched 8 per cent yesterday and was expected to equal if not exceed that figure today, and the unexpected easiness was interpreted as indicating that use had been made of the $7,500,000 in gold received from London this week. A distinctly favorable development was an ease in time money, which was quoted at 7½ per cent for all maturities.

Unconcerned Over Loans.

Wall street showed little concern over the brokers' loan compilation this week as a further increase was expected as a result of the heavy new financing, rather than speculative activity, which has been marked by liquidation in recent sessions. The Federal Reserve rediscount rate was left unchanged as expected.

The increase in brokers' loans, announced after the close, of $116,000,000, however, exceeded expectations by a wide margin. The New York banks came to the support of the call money market for the first time since the year end, increasing their loans by about $80,000,000. The brokerage loan total has been increased during the past three weeks by nearly $250,000,000, reaching a new high record at $5,556,000,000, an increase of about 45 per cent in the past year.

In its monthly bulletin the New York Reserve Bank for the first time called attention to the sharp increases in the account of brokers loans "for others," warning that this situation makes the future of the call money market rather precarious, as such funds have been attracted to the market by unusual conditions, and are subject to sudden withdrawal when conditions change.

The day's news genrer lly was regarded as bullish, including a 50 cent extra dividend by Packard, institution of 1 per cent quarterly stock dividends by Studebaker, heavy buying of copper, giving rise to talk of a further increase in red metal prices, and a large increase in freight car loadings for the week ended January 19 over the previous week and the like week a year ago.

Dupont Day's High Flier.

Dupont was the day's high flier, reflecting the 40 per cent increase in earnings for 1928. The old stock mounted 70 points, and the new stock, created by a 3½-for-1 split-up, 20 points, both to record highs.

Buying of the rails was stimulated by formation of the new Van Sweringen holding company, unconfirmed reports that the Baltimore & Ohio at its meeting yesterday drew up a petition to the I. C. C. to acquire certain other roads, the excellent December net operating income reports, averaging over 60 per cent ahead of December, 1927, and the tendency of the banks to favor rail stock collateral against loans.

Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Erie, St. Louis Southwestern, New York Central, Atchison, Rock Island, and New Haven mounted from about 4 to 8 points, and several others gained 2 points and more, about a dozen recording the highest prices in years.

Utilities Under Pressure.

The Utilities encountered considerable profit taking on their striking advances of recent sessions. American Power & Light, American Water Works and Electric Power & Light lost 2 to 5 points. Pacific Gas, however, mounted about 4 points to a new top.

Motor Products jumped 14 points, but lost half of it. Allied Chemical, American Can, Kennecott Copper, Greene Cananea, Simmons, Western Union, Wright Aero, Johns Manville and National Cash Register mounted about 4 to 7 points. General Motors, Studebaker, U. S. Steel and Bethlehem sold 2 and 3 points higher. Columbia Carbon sold up about 11 points.

Commodity markets were irregular, grains encountering moderate selling pressure, while cotton improved about 60 cents a bale on higher Liverpool cables.

In the foreign exchanges, sterling was steady, with the demand rate slightly higher, and the Spanish peseta rallied slightly, crossing 16 cents, while other European currencies were inclined to heaviness.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—After declining early under further liquidation the cotton market rallied today on trade buying and covering. May, which sold off to 19.62 under early pressure, advanced to 19.80 and closed at 19.79. The general market closed firm at net advances of 8 to 17 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 6 points in response to steadier showing of Liverpool and the market for Egyptian cotton at Alexandria. The demand was limited, however. The initial advance met a renewal of liquidation from Wall street, Southern and local sources, which soon turned prices easier. Notwithstanding Liverpool's showing, apprehension of further troubles in Lancashire may have increased the disposition of old longs to liquidate their holdings. There was also comment on reports of labor troubles in one of the textile sections of Germany.

Prices made new low ground for the present movement, selling off to 19.60 for March and 18.93 for new October contracts, or about 7 to 9 points net lower. Offerings, however, tapered off enough to suggest that liquidation had pretty well run its course around these figures. There also appeared to be more trade demand. This started some covering by recent sellers, and the market was firmer during the afternoon. March sold up to 19.79 and the new October contracts to 19.17 in the late trading. Closing prices were within a point or two of the best.

The afternoon rally was accomplished by talk of a firmer technical position as result of the recent liquidation. Part of the buying was believed to represent expectations of a reaction from the decline of about 80 points from the high prices touched during the middle of the month. New crop months, which had been easy yesterday, were relatively steady today. May sold about 20 points over the new October contract at the close, compared with a difference of 71 points at the close of yesterday.

Liverpool cables reported continental buying with trade calling and covering in the market there. The market for Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria was about 5 to 10 points net higher. Exports for the day were 61,761 and 5,623,729 for the season. Port receipts, 38,409. United States port stocks, 2,252,301.

CONVERTIBLE BONDS IN STRONG DEMAND

New Alleghany Corporation 5s, Traded in First Time, Attract Buyers.

HIGH-GRADE RAILS FIRM

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Alleghany Corporation convertible 5s, trade in for the first time, attracted a flood of buying orders in today's bond market and quickly sold at a premium of from 7 to 10½ points. Other convertibles were strong, particularly the utilities, although the general tone of the market was weak. Sales totaled $11,213,000 compared to $9,839,000 yesterday. Time money eased to 7½ per cent for all maturities.

Oversubscription of the $35,000,000 bond offering of Alleghany Corporation—holding company for the Van Sweringen brothers' railway securities—reflected the easier money conditions and growing demand for bonds with speculative possibilities. The bonds, issued at 100, opened at 108½, shot up to 110½, later reacted, and closed at 107⅞. Trading in this issue accounted for approximately a sixth of the day's total sales.

Strength of coppers on the "big board" was mirrored in a 4½-point advance in Anaconda Copper 7s. Other convertibles to reach new peaks were International Telephone 4½s and Public Service of New Jersey 4½s. The latter, however, lost all of their gain on profit-taking and closed 2½ points net lower. Nassau Electric 4s and New Haven 3½s each gained a point.

First grade rails were firm, but the short lines again declined. Ulster and Delaware issues, however, ran up from 2⅜ to 9½ points. Two other lines involved in the New York Central's unification program, sold off—Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville and Peoria & Eastern. Wabash 4½s slumped 2 points and Seaboard all Florida 6s B 3½.

Utilities as a group were heavy, but trading was confined pricipally to issues with conversion privileges.

Trading was dull in the foreign list. Pirelly 7s dropped 2½ points.

U. S. Government obligations were firmer.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1929. 17

SHARKEY, HERE EN ROUTE, SUPREMELY CONFIDENT

School Games Today May End Race

Tech Plays Business; Western to Oppose Eastern Five.

Results of Both Contests Are Vital to Title Contenders.

A DEFEAT for Western at the hands of Eastern while Tech is winning over Business would give the Manual Trainers championship of the High School basket ball series in today's double header in the Tech gymnasium.

Tech will meet Business in the first game on the program, beginning at 3:15 o'clock, while Western and Eastern will clash in the second contest.

Should Western defeat Eastern, however, while Tech is losing to Business, something that is not impossible now on the showing of the Stenographers in the last few games, Western will go into the lead for the series title with a chance to gain the championship when it plays Business next Tuesday.

Triple Tie for Second Place One of Day's Possibilities.

The other situation can arise as the result of today's games.

A Business victory over Tech and an Eastern victory over Western would bring about a three-cornered tie for second place involving Western, Business and Eastern, with Tech sure to be tied for the title after Tuesday's games. Tech's game today will be its last of the series.

With so much at stake, today's games promise to be the most colorful of the series, and a record crowd is expected.

One thing that will hamper the Tech and Business teams somewhat will be the absences of two of the leading players of the series in Capt. Jake Goldblatt, of Tech, and Acting Capt. Jakie Lewis, of Business.

Goldblatt Unlikely to Play; Lewis Lost to Business.

Goldblatt will likely be out because of a twisted ankle sustained against Central on Tuesday, while Lewis will be idle because of scholastic difficulties. Business will be further handicapped by the absence of Lester Singman and Morris Denniberg, two players who have graduated.

However, these losses, important as they will be, will make the two teams fight all the harder. Fred Finley and Milton Singman will fill the places of Lewis and Lester Singman for Business, with Linwood Jones in Denniberg's "first in reserve" position. There is a possibility that Capt. Katie Goldblatt will be able to play for Tech in that the player's ankle has been taped and doctored since last Tuesday in an effort to get him into condition. Whether he will be able to stand the strain or not will not be known actually until game time.

Johnson, Injured in Western Game, Ready to Play.

Coach Artie Boyd will use him if there is the slightest chance, while, on the other hand, he will not use him if it

Dr. Peltzer to Invade U. S. Again in Spring

Dr. Otto Peltzer, tall Teuton track star, and conqueror of Nurmi and Wide, once again will take a vacation from his teaching of philosophy in dear old Wickersdorf, pack up his silks and spiked shoes, and hit the watery trail for the land of the free and the haven for touring athletes.

The blond German middle-distance luminary will arrive in America early in the spring, and he will inaugurate his training program on the cinder path at Georgetown University preparatory to his second fling in competition with the best talent of this country.

This was learned yesterday from Eric Kjellstrom, Georgetown University student, a native of Sweden and personal acquaintance of the learned German doctor who revealed his plans for the trip in a letter to Kjellstrom.

Almost the Naked Truth

—By JAMES S. COLLINS—

(Copyright, 1929.)
(New York World News Service.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The collective olfactory sense of the New York State Athletic Commission will be put to work tomorrow trying to sniff something more than a terrible exhibition of fisticuffing out of the Babe Herman-Sid Terris shindig at the St. Nicholas Arena last Monday night. The aged Babe, it will be recalled, was one of a hand-picked load of stepping stones upon which Sidney was to ascend to his former eminence in cauliflower circles.

The sure-thing gamblers would have offered you 3 to 1 on Terris that night, and if you were not dumb enough to take it, they would have given you 10 to 1 after the first couple of rounds had dragged into eternity. But it is safe to say that any one who would have bet 1 to 20 on Herman's chances at the end of the third of fourth round did not do so, for the reason that he would have been cooped up in a corral for the hopelessly incompetent at the time.

Finger of Suspicion Tilted Not at Authenticity of K. O.

So it is a cinch that very little, if any, money lost was by the sure-thing gentry on the unexpected twist the battle took, and the losses of the sure-thing gentry are usually behind nine out of ten investigations of alleged fakes. In all the hollering that went up over the sudden knockout of Terris there is not a whispered insinuation that Sidney was not actually knocked out, but took a dive by prearrangement. If Mr. Herman had split Mr. Terris' curly head with a meat cleaver he could not have done a more thorough job of it, as far as the ensuing ten seconds were concerned.

There is, however, widespread suspicion that the knockout punch was a bit of improvisation not called for in the script. Until the referee warned him that he was thinking seriously of heaving him out of the ring, Mr. Her-

Nurmi Winner In Two-Mile Handicap

Romps Home in Field of 12 in Third Successive Victory.

Kennedy, G. U., Trails Edwards by 40 Yds. in the 1,000.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Paavo Nurmi threaded his way through a field of 12 lesser runners tonight to win a special two-mile handicap run from scratch in the fair time of 9 minutes, 10 3-5 seconds. It was Nurmi's third start and third victory of his current American campaign.

Nurmi romped in a quarter of a lap or more than 40 yards ahead of F. C. Bayley, of the New York A. C. who had a handicap of 75 yards and finished second. Irving Totten, Millrose A. A. with 125 yards handicap was third, 10 yards behind Bayley, and Nat Lerner of New York University, 75 yards, was fourth.

Nurmi ran a clockwork race timed by a stop watch in his left hand in steadily running down the dozen other starters who were given handicap leads of from 75 to 170 yards. Those on the longest marks were only six yards short of a lap ahead, but Nurmi soon cut them down.

Negro Steps Out at Will to Lead Kennedy Home.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 31.—Phil Edwards scored a runaway victory in the Butler Memorial 1,000-yard race. He towroped a field of good middle-distance men to win in 2 minutes 16 3-5 seconds.

He finished fully 40 yards in front of Jim Kennedy, Georgetown University star, who scored an unexpected defeat over the negro two weeks ago. On that occasion Edwards experienced noticeable chagrin at being nipped at the finish by Kennedy. He made certain tonight that there would be no repetition of the event.

Edwards darted to the front with the agility of a Paddock and outsprinted the field that included besides Kennedy, Charles Sansome, Ralph Luttman, intercollegiate mile champion, Walter Gegan Murray Goldfish and Harry McArdle. They did nothing about Edwards' pace until Kennedy realized that the widening gap was on the level. The Georgetown runner then took the matter into his own hands and left the pack behind in pursuit of Edwards.

But the gap never lessened and Edwards won as he pleased with a great stride as powerful as it was at the start. It was the fastest 1,000-yard race of the season.

Johnny Gibson, Olympic hurdle point winner scored signal victory in the Waldron Memorial 600-yard feature and gained permanent possession of the big silver trophy as it was his third victory in the event in as many years. He conquered Fred Velt of N. Y. U., Oliver Proudlock of the Newark A. C. and Albert Briggs of Georgetown, in the order named. He breasted the tape in 1:14 3-5 which is also the fastest time of the season for the distance. Thus, Georgetown's two stars bumped into two races that were worthy of a place on a championship program.

Rockne, Here, Deplores Lack Of Recognition for Linemen

Notre Dame's talented football tutor was a visitor in Washington yesterday, and he flung a few fancy phrases in the direction of the toilers in the front-line defense and loosened some equally choice but disdainful adjectives at the hip-slinging half backs who "hogged the headlines" out of all proportion to their real value to the team.

An 80-yard run to a touchdown is a set-up for any half back with the perfect coordination of his ten helpmeets on the team, Rockne declared in emphasizing the value of team play and the feats of the linemen and interference which go unnoticed by public and press. Given the perfect blocking, interference and diversified aid by the line that he demands, Rockne opined that he himself was not unlikely to run for a touchdown, even at his advanced age and rheumatic state, as he put it.

Rockne was addressing the annual convention of Studebaker dealers of this section at the Mayflower Hotel, and he enlightened an attentive group on several points in connection with his success at Notre Dame, unrivaled by any college coach in the Nation. But team play was his pet subject yesterday, and he drove over his point with a forcefulness symbolic of the fashion in which his Notre Dame teams are wont to drive over touchdowns.

Linemen Immune From Grid Malady Contagious to Backs.

"Those men in the line get none of the glory, except for the coach. They can't pose as heroes after an 80-yard dash to a touchdown," Rockne declared. "They don't stand around wondering how they look from the grand stand. There is nothing to distinguish them except their numbers, and they are lost in the general scramble.

"They are immune from football's greatest malady, however," Rockne continued. "Inflation of the cerebellum, the great curse of backfield men, can't disrupt the line. They haven't the plaudits of the grandstand to get swell-headed about. They can play the greatest football and the grand stand won't be the wiser. It takes a 70-yard gallop by some 'Sophomore Flash' down a field cleared of tacklers by these same men in the line to awaken the fans to great deeds done."

Rockne went on record in a strange statement. He declared that his 1928 team which lost four games, more defeats than Notre Dame is accustomed to in five years, was as gratifying to him as any Notre Dame team he ever coached. "It wasn't the won and lost column that counted. It was the morale, temperament, courage and fight against odds that I liked. That team had a lot of physical handicaps but it gave me great service."

Rockne warmed to his subject quickly and the appeal of his voice was significant. His audience understood how he keyed his players to that mental pitch which sent them onto the field ready to score a dozen touchdowns for Notre Dame or die willingly in the effort. He talked that way.

The present rules of football satisfy Rockne, he said. He agreed that he recommended to the rules committee that fumbles recovered by the defense be dead at the spot of recovery but he was not ready to press the idea, feeling that the game was sufficiently crystallized on both offense and attack. He added that the rules committee was a sensible body, despite inferences of other coaches that that was to be doubted with great doubt.

Nurmi to Race at Mile In Millrose Meet, Feb. 9

New York, Jan. 31 (United Press).—Paavo Nurmi, cohoider with Joie Ray of the world's indoor 1-mile record of 4 minutes 12 seconds, will run the first mile of his present American invasion in the Millrose A. A. games in Madison Square Garden February 9, the Millrose A. A. game committee announced today. Nurmi holds the world's outdoor mile record of 4 minutes 10 2-5 seconds.

Hagen Sues for Divorce; Claims Wife Deserted

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Charging that his wife had deserted him nearly two years ago, Walter Hagen, noted golfer, filed suit for divorce here today.

The British open champion declared he had been "kind and indulgent and had always provided an excellent home * * * and used every care for her happiness and welfare," but that his wife, Edna C. Hagen, left him March 5, 1927, at St. Petersburg, Fla., and had refused to return.

Fuchs Denies Release Of Infielder Bell to Cubs

Boston, Mass., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A denial that Lester Bell, Boston Braves' third baseman, would be sold to the Chicago Cubs was made today by President-Manager Emil E. Fuchs.

"Bell received more chances than any third baseman in the league last season," Fuchs said, "and we have no intention of trading him. He is a mighty fine ball player and he'll stick with the Braves."

Elliott, Field to Play For American at Navy

Elerbie Elliott, forward, and Lee Field, center, will fill the places of Forrest Burgess and Dave Lichliter in the line-up for American University's quintet against Navy tomorrow at Annapolis. Both Burgess and Lichliter are in their first year at American and therefore come under the Navy rule which bars first-year players on academy teams or those of opponents.

Elliott will pair with Capt. Jack Le Favre, while the guards will be Bruce Kessler and Dutch Schloss. Field ordinarily plays guard, but was pressed into service at the pivot post last Monday when Lichliter was banished on personal fouls in the Catholic U. contest.

Phil Scott Wins on Foul From German Champion

London, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Phil Scott, English heavyweight, won from Ted Sandwina, of Germany, on a foul in the fifth round of their fight at Albert Hall tonight for the heavyweight championship of Europe. In addition to the regular purses, the battlers had put up side stakes amounting to £3,500. Although Sandwina was promptly disqualified, it was clear that the foul was accidental.

Sandwina had been warned twice in the first four rounds for his poor showing. In the second round he drew an admonition for holding, and again in the fourth the referee gave him a warning when he appeared to be hitting with an open glove. Scott had a wide advantage in each of the first four rounds, scoring nearly all of the effective blows.

Bout Feb. 27 Fixture at Miami

Previously Threatened to Transfer Bout to West.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Flamingo Park will be the scene of the Sharkey-Stribling fight on February 27, whether racing continues or not, Jack Dempsey, promoter of the bout for the Madison Square Garden Corporation, announced late today.

Dempsey previously had said that if racing was discontinued at Hialeah Park, the Miami Jockey Club's plant, the promoters might consider moving the fight to a California city that had offered a $250,000 guarantee.

"Whether or not there are races in Dade County, the fight will be held here," Dempsey said, in announcing that the offer from the unnamed California city would not be accepted. "We have laid all our plans for the fight at the Flamingo Park arena and, so far as I know, nothing will prevent us from holding it there."

Young Stribling, first of the principals in the bout to reach the scene, took a light workout today, and Jack Sharkey, the Boston sailor, was expected to arrive tomorrow.

Stribling Does His Stuff as Photographers Do Their.

For the benefit of the photographers and news cameramen, Stribling skipped the rope and performed other training duties at his headquarters at Hardie's Casino. An admiring throng watched the Georgia boy go through his one-hour workout and applauded him as he performed in an open-air arena.

"I feel fine," he said after his workout. "I am in pretty good shape now and will not do much work for a week to guard against going stale, but when I do get down to work it will be with the idea that I will finish with enough of an edge on Sharkey to beat him."

"Stribling is more interested in getting a good coat of tan this week than in any other feature of his training," he said.

The Georgia boy is planning to do his roadwork at night, he said, so that he can top off his day's work with a jaunt over the Miami Beach landscape and then take a shower and get under the covers.

3-Year Contract Given Price, California Coach

Berkeley, Calif., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Clarence M. "Nibs" Price, head football and basket ball coach at the University of California, was awarded two new three-year contracts to direct these sports at a meeting of the Associated Students executive committee last night. The new contracts take effect April 1, when Price's present contract expires. Salary terms were not made public.

Glendon, Sr., Hurls Defi To Son's Columbia Crew

New York, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—A challenge or a deep, dark threat couched in the language of checkers has been received by Hugh Glendon from his father, "Old Dick" Glendon, veteran rowing coach at the Naval Academy.

In a letter to Hugh, who has special charge of the 150-pound crews as assistant to his brother, "Young Dick," head coach at Columbia, the elder Glendon said: "I've got a pretty fine bunch of lightweights down here myself, and if you don't watch out I'm going to double-jump you right into the king row."

Although great rivals at checkers, Hugh and his dad never have matched crews before. The sons interprint the letter as meaning their father intends to make a real family affair of the regatta here April 27, in which the varsity crews of the two Dicks are scheduled to meet, or else to challenge Hugh's lightweight supremacy later in the Henley.

Stribling Bout Causes No Concern

Sailor Not Talkative But Asks Who Foe Ever Beat.

Appears in Perfect Condition; Weighs 193 Pounds.

JACK SHARKEY saw Washington from Union Station Plaza yesterday morning while changing trains en route to Miami, Fla., but he was a visitor to the city long enough to leave a few impressions concerning his ideas about his forthcoming heavyweight bout with Young Stribling.

He wasn't garrulous. He didn't threaten or demand to be heard but he wore that look and radiated that feeling of easy confidence that implied that Jack Sharkey was not going to suffer much in the bout and that if there was to be a winner it would be Jack Sharkey and not much trouble about it at that.

The man they call the garrulous gob, the loquacious Lithuanian, the talkative tar and sundry other alliterative appelations was accompanied by Mrs. Sharkey; his manager, Johnny Buckley, and Mrs. Buckley, and his advisor in things pugilistic, Jimmy Lacy. He was not unduly talkative but he was no shrinking violet. He may not be garrulous, loquacious or talkative but neither is he silent.

Sharkey Shows Fair Form as Ring's Chin Waggler.

Sharkey was in fair voice yesterday despite the earliness of his arrival and the uncomfortable chill in the air. "I'll beat this Stribling. He never battled anybody like me. Who did he ever beat?" Then the big Bostonian subsided in favor of Manager Buckley, who who began to expound the merits of his battler upon save that were attuned only to anything Sharkey himself might say.

The little group at the station scanned the big Bostonian closely. They saw what is called a perfect specimen. And good looking. Sharkey doesn't look like a "pug." He might be the rising young business man. He wore his fashionably-cut clothes well, and the big, loose alpaca overcoat that draped down from his massive shoulders set him off as a veritable giant. He admitted to 193 pounds. Not a mark on his face, despite the bruising battle with K. O. Christner last Friday night.

Leonard Foresees Knockout Of Risko by German Tonight

By BENNY LEONARD
(Retired Undefeated Lightweight Champion of the World).

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Max Schmeling the German heavyweight, takes the center of the ring again tomorrow in Madison Square Garden, this time against Johnny Risko, the erstwhile "india rubber" man of Cleveland, Ohio, for ten rounds or less. I say "less" advisedly, for it wouldn't surprise me a bit if the German should score a knockout. I know that Johnny is not at all easy to drop, nevertheless he has been on the toboggan for some time, in my opinion, and this Schmeling chap is a hard hitter and is coming along fast enough to turn the trick if he settles down to his work. It's a long chance, perhaps, nevertheless there is the chance.

Needs More Experience But He Will Develop Quickly.

There is no need for me to acclaim Max Schmeling again. Several weeks ago I went on record when I said that I believed him to be the coming heavyweight champion, provided he is properly handled. It's not telling the fans anything new by now, for all those who have seen Max in action have a pretty good line on him. I know that the fans who saw Schmeling beat Joe Sekyra in the Garden not very long ago saw for themselves that the German has the makings.

Now, while I think that Schmeling should beat Risko on Friday night, still he will not look as good against Johnny as he would look were the fight six months away. Schmeling needs plenty of fighting. He needs more experience. He has been fighting since August, 1924, more than four years, in fact, but he has not been fighting the type of men that he will be pitted against in this country. He is learning, and will learn more here in a year than he would learn abroad in all the time he has been fighting.

I noted when I wrote of Schmeling before that he lacks what we call viciousness in the ring. I call it that for lack of a better word. He has all the aggressiveness he needs, but he doesn't hit often enough to suit me. At least he didn't when I saw him fight Sekyra. It takes fights and experience in actual ring combat to develop this trait in a fighter. It's what Dempsey had—a sort of "killer instinct" which urged him in to fight as fast and as hard as he could till the other fellow dropped.

German Punches Hard and Fast But Halts Attack.

Schmeling will bore in, whaling away but when he gets in there he stops, because he doesn't know what to do. I understand that Joe Jacobs has been coaching him, and I expect to see a greatly improved battler against Risko over the one that I saw beat Sekyra.

Schmeling can punch hard and he can punch fast. He's like Dempsey in this, and the fact that he looks a bit like Dempsey has gained him the nickname of "second Dempsey." Maybe he will be a second Dempsey, but not till he develops the trait of fighting hard and hitting all the time that he is within reach of his adversary.

I believe the German can box if he is put to it. But I know he can fight, and he is young and strong enough to go in there and swap with his man. My advice to him would be to keep pumping the punches in to the body when he is in close.

GOVERNOR MOVES TO HALT MIAMI TRACK GAMBLING

Betting Is Oral Following Threat

Sheriff Investigating; Trouble Is Laid to Dog Tracks.

HIALEAH RACE TRACK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Betting was strictly oral at the Miami Jockey Club here this afternoon, following the message from Gov. Doyle E. Carlton to Sheriff M. P. Lehman of Dade County in which the track is located, that complaints had come to him that the antigambling laws of Florida were being violated. Sheriff Lehman was ordered to make an immediate and thorough investigation and report his findings to the governor.

As a result, the wagering activities in the ring under the grandstand were curtailed considerably. No prices were exhibited on programs and no money was passed. This was under strict orders from the management. After the first few days of the meeting money had been passed freely before and after each race until things were just about wide open.

Open Wagering at Dog Tracks Stirs Up the Trouble.

The real trouble has been stirred up by the dog tracks, the Miami Beach Kennel Club, which was built by Tex Rickard and at which Jack Dempsey is a conspicuous figure in the evenings, and the Biscayne Kennel Club opening up mutuel plants and selling what they called "stock certificates" on each race as openly as the machines are operated in Maryland and Kentucky.

Twice the authorities have protested and today the sheriff issued orders that neither the dog tracks nor the jai alai front would be allowed to open if certificates were sold. The Miami Beach Kennel club has been favored because of the part those interested in the plant have in promoting the Sharkey-Stribling fight but there is no doubt that there will be no mutuels sold at the dog tracks for some days at least.

The sheriff visited the track this afternoon and announced that he would see that the law was strictly enforced.

Meet to Be Curtailed a Week Is Announcement.

No matter what happens, the Miami Jockey Club's meeting will be curtailed a week and will end on March 9. The management was advised about this but Frank Keeney announced that he would get the extra dates for his Keeney Park. Keeney incidentally, is a considerable stockholder in the Miami Jockey Club.

REMSEN FIVE IN ACTION.

Remsen A. C. Tossers of Takoma Park will play the St. Martin's tonight in the St. Martin's gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock. Remsen players will meet at Richardson's Drug Store at 7 o'clock to make the trip.

Manager Loving is looking for more games for the Remsens. He can be reached at Georgia 4330 after 5 o'clock.

WEATHER, CLEAR; TRACK, GOOD.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 2:34. Off at 2:36. Winner, J. Catalano's ch. f. (4), by Golden Guinea—Sheila Ryve. Trained by P. B. Codd. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:25, 0:48 4-5, 1:14 2-5.

DOLLY VIRGINIA	104	8	7	6h	6h	9	9	Malley	60	20	10

GOLD DUST gradually improved her position on the inside and, closing gamely in final furlong under strong handling, wore M'INTOSH down in the closing strides. The latter went to the front with a rush rounding the turn and opened up a big gap, but then weakened when challenged. BRIGHT STEEL broke well, but lacked early speed and dropped far back the early stages, gained slowly last quarter mile, but could not overhaul the leaders. MEADOW LARK raced evenly. LA VESTALE showed a good burst of speed, but ran out leaving the back stretch. SPECIAL retired after going a half mile.

SECOND RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 3 p. m. Off at 3:01. Winner, W. J. Palmer's b. g (4), by Sir Martin—Resting Time. Trained by E. Lutz. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 1-5, 1:14, 1:41 2-5, 1:47.

LEISURE HOUR, taken back off the early pace, took command rounding far turn and drew clear, then carried the field wide entering stretch and had enough in reserve to withstand Buck's bid. The latter raced a steady pace under steadying restraint the early stages, responded gamely when called on for the final effort and would have won in a few more strides. GENIAL, a trailer for six furlongs, gained fast through the stretch, but raced into tight quarters last sixteenth. GAY HALLIE suffered interference. TALLADEGA made a bold bid at the stretch turn, but then weakened. MIKADO saved ground throughout, but never got up.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start poor. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:39. Winner, Mrs. Dorothy Hicks' ch. f. (3), by Rock Minster—Nell McChord. Trained by E. Lutz. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:15.

MAXIMUS	112	7	9	9	9	9	9	Walls	16-5	1-1	2-5

NELL, displaying good speed, raced LEO into defeat the early stages and, responding determinedly under pressure, held her opponents safe the final quarter mile. SEWING HOUR steadily improved her position between the leaders and outlasted VOLSEL. The latter roughly handled at the post, broke forwardly and raced prominently throughout. LEO weakened the last eighth. SUCROSE showed a flash of early speed. TESTER was bodied through the stretch. MAXIMUS dwelt at the start and was off poorly.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,000. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily. Place same. Went to post at 3:59. Off at 4:00. Winner, C. D. Pryor's b. f. (4), by Spanish Prince II—Winnie McGee. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 4-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:42, 1:47 2-5.

SPEEDWELL	98	5	4	5	5	5	5	5	Turk	15	5	2

ISABELLA drew clear at once, was rated in front all the way, held her opposition safe under mild pressure. ESSIE slipped through on the inside and, closing gamely in final furlong, was the winner. MISS LOU, racing evenly, easily disposed of ERIN GO BRAGH in final quarter. Latter tired after going six furlongs.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won cleverly. Place driving. Went to post at 4:31. Off at 4:34. Winner, Serenata Farm's b. h. (5), by Argos—Quick Stitch. Trained by J. C. McAtee. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:13 2-5.

ROBERT MANDELL	114	7	2	4h	6h	7h	8	Elston	30	12	6

MINERVUS, away fast, held his field safe for speed and was rated in front under slight restraint in the early running and had something left at the finish. FORTUNATE MANN, slow to get going, moved up fast between leaders in the final quarter mile and outlasted AGNES CALL. Latter came up throughout, held on stoutly in the final drive. SESQUI lacked early speed, gradually improved his position on the outside and would have been third in another stride. CAPTAIN DEVIL tired.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving. Place easily. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:57. Winner, J. Edwards' ch. c. (4), by Spanish Prince II—Katakan. Trained by W. Mitchell. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:25 2-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:15, 1:41 3-5, 1:48 4-5.

JUDGE CAVERLY	110	8	3	4h	5	5	5	Schaefer	7	5-2	1-1

RYDAL ROLLICKER, crowded back after straightening into back stretch, followed the leader after restraint until final quarter mile when he moved up with determination and outlasted CLARIFIER when the final test came. CLARIFIER held his field safe for speed and was rated in front but weakened after going six furlongs. TEA BALL, close to the pacemaker all the way, but could not keep pace with leaders when it came to a drive.

MARYLAND U. FIVE PLAYS VIRGINIA HERE TONIGHT

Shipley to Use 5 Veteran Players

Old Liners Favorites Over Inconsistent Cavaliers.

Maryland Cubs Play C. U. Freshmen in Preliminary.

COACH BURTON SHIPLEY, of the University of Maryland Basket Ball Team plans to start the same five men tonight against Virginia and tomorrow night against Washington and Lee who began the winning contest against St. John's the past week-end. Both contests will be staged at College Park starting at 8 o'clock.

Bob Gaylor, the tall and rangy sophomore, who is high scorer of the team, has returned to the squad after an illness of ten days, but has not been able to work his way to top form, and will have to be content to serve in a reserve role for the present at least.

All the basketers Shipley plans to start against the two Southern Conference rivals are letter men from last year, and the five played good basket ball against St. John's last Saturday.

Hetzel's Work at Center Position Encourages Coach.

Shipley's main worry since the outset of the season has been the center position and he was greatly encouraged by the way in which Hetzel held down the job in the game with St. John's. Hetzel had the edge on Smith, former Navy center, who resigned from the Academy to enter St. John's. He outjumped the taller Smith most of the time and fully held his own in general floor play.

Virginia has been having its ups and downs on the court and Maryland will be a favorite over the Cavaliers, whom they beat in the middle of January in Charlottesville. It will be different in the game with Washington and Lee as the Generals will be odds-on choices. They have won all their six contests, piling up 313 points, an average of nearly 53 to a game.

Williams, center, and Cox, forward, scintillating stars from the 1927-28 freshman teams, have "made" the Washington and Lee team. Veterans play the other positions, and there also are plenty of formidable reserves.

C. U., Maryland Frosh Fives Meet Tomorrow Night.

A preliminary game that doubtless will rival, if not overshadow, the main bout in keenness of competition and caliber of play will be staged tomorrow night in Brookland when the Maryland Freshmen and the Catholic University yearlin basketers clash in an appetizer to the Cardinal-Virginia contest.

Both the Old Line and Brookland c ns have taken the varsity teams "over the jumps" in practice sessions and are strong enough to give the best teams hereabouts a 'run for their money."

Jack Faber's Maryland yearlings have won all their five games in impressive fashion, scoring 226 points to their rivals' 101 in disposing of Baltimore Poly, Western High, Central High, Business High and Maryland State Normal. The C. U. Cubs have played many more games and have lost only to Tech, leader in the high school series, and then only by 1 point.

Four Former District Stars Likely To Start for Old Line Cubs.

Bat Rooney, formerly of Tech, and Ed Ronkin or George Chalmers, forwards; Bozey Berger, formerly of Tech, center, and Bob Wilson, formerly of Western, and Charlie May, formerly of Business, guards.

Ronkin was an all-New Jersey selection last season, while Chalmers starred for Tome Institute.

Faber also has seven good reserves, including Heine Hoffman and Dave Snell, former Eastern players.

PULLMANS LOSE PAIR.

Pullman Tossers were defeated in two games last night, 17 to 10, to the Nusbaums and, 17 to 14, to the Boys Club Celtics, in the Terminal Y Gymnasium.

COLUMBIA SEXTET WINS.

The Columbia A. C. Sextet won over St. Paul in a junior division game of the Washington Recreation League, 25 to 20, last night, in the St. Paul's gymnasium. The Columbias, with a superior passing attack, took the lead from the outset and held it thoughtout the game, although given fight. At half time the Columbias enjoyed a 16 to 9 advantage. O'Lowe scored 14 points and Boyd 11 to star.

P. G. A. Picks Official Ryder Cup Defenders

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the Professional Golf Association of America today announced the final selection of the ten players who will defend the Ryder International Golf Cup at Leeds, England, next April 26 and 27.

The players are Capt. Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, Ed Dudley, Al Espinosa, Johnny Farrell, John Golden, Gene Sarzen, Horton Smith, Joe Turnesea and Al Watrous.

No alternates were designated, the committee leaving the captain the right to place his players as he deems advisable at the time of play.

Original Eagle Five Beats St. Mary's Celtics

Alexandria, Va., Jan. 31.—The Original Anacostia Eagles maintained its winning stride here tonight by defeating the strong St. Mary's Celtics, 47 to 34, in a well-played game in the Alexandria Armory.

SHARKEY SAYS HE CAN BEAT THIS STRIBLING

Sharkey wasn't loath to talk. "I feel great. I'm in great shape. Just about the way I felt before my fight with Harry Wills. You know that was my best fight. This Stribling don't worry me.

Doubts That Stribling Will Hit as Hard as Christner.

"Stribling will never hit as hard as this Christner. That fellow can sock, but I'd have knocked him out if the fight had been longer. He didn't hurt me, though. Who did Stribling ever beat?" he repeated.

At his mention of Stribling he smiled, consciously or unconsciously. Nothing of the inferiority complex about Sharkey, talkative or not. He exuded confidence in every action, every mannerism. No doubt that he still believes in himself, despite the jarring that his faith received in the seventh round at Yankee Stadium in 1927 when Jack Dempsey brought a left hook up from the nether regions and planted it solidly against Sharkey's chin and the sailor groveled in the resin while the referee tolled the fateful ten.

CRESCENTS BEAT CELTIC JRS.

In a preliminary to the St. Mary's Celtics-Anacostia Eagles game at the Alexandria Armory last night, the Crescent A. C. defeated the Celtic Juniors, 37 to 13. The good pass work of the Crescents and the accurate caging of baskets by Russell and Streets featured the game.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS.

man was missing by such a margin that this observer would have wagered 20 to 1 that he would not hit the Hudson River if he fell off the Albany night boat in mid-stream. Nor did the referee's warning in itself seem the cause of Mr. Herman's sudden and vast improvement in marksmanship.

Severe Punishment in Order If He Forgot to "Lay Down."

Not until Mr. Terris, himself, upbraided by the referee for pirouetting instead of punching, let loose and sent Herman sprawling for a count of eight did the Babe start to get unclubby. He caught Terris one on the pumpkin toward the end of the fifth that hurt like a Park Row panhandler's plea, but Sidney only shook his surly head and smiled in a sickly way, as much as to say, "it's perfectly all right, old dear; I know you didn't mean it."

Maybe, in truth, Babe didn't mean it, and maybe he didn't mean that soporific smack in the sixth, but the more ardent of the Terris adherents seemed convinced that dirty work had been done and their Sidney had no hand, even if he did have a chin, in it. If the punch really was accidental and Babe honestly intended to throw the fight to Terris, the boxing authorities should exonerate him. But if it appears that the Babe, in a moment of pique, so far forgot himself as deliberately to slug Sidney after agreeing to lie down to him, no punishment is too severe for him. Chins like Terris' are too rarely delicate to be swept into the fistic ash heap by some outlander who can't call a single Tammany district leader by his first name.

Dazzy Vance in the Saddle On Salary Question.

The holdout season in baseball begins tomorrow. Under baseball law, contracts must be in the hands of the players before February 1, and when one is missing from the club files at this time it may indicate that the player to whom it was submitted hasn't the price of a stamp, but not usually. Practically all the Yanks are in line, but the Giants are yet to receive the signed papers of Messrs. Terry, Welsh and Leach. Doc Hart, the trainer, seems to be practically the Robin in line, but only the case of Dazzy Vance seems to cause anything only like concern among Flatbush fans. Some of Robin holdouts seem to be holding out because they are just plain ornery, but Vance seems to be in the position of a bridge player with a handful of spades.

A pitcher who can win 22 games with a team like the 1928 Robins behind him and strike out 200 enemy batters to boot, is entitled to an attentive hearing on the salary question. The fact that Petty is no longer with the club to help him out is a circumstance greatly in Vance's favor. Dazzy is said to have put a $22,500 price tag on his services. That's pretty high, but dirt cheap if, as reported, the club found it good business to pay Dave Bancroft something like $40,000 for performing at short last season.

COACH PICKS G. U. RELAY TEAM

Quartet, With Wildermuth, to Compete at Boston.

CAPT. Eddie O'Shea, Eddie Hoctor, Jerry Gorman and Ray Whalen yesterday won places on the Georgetown University mile relay team, which tomorrow night will compete against the crack New York U. Quartet in a special race at the Boston Athletic Association meet in the Hub. The four Hoya thin-clads turned in the fastest quarter-miles of a group of ten who contested for the positions in time trials, which were conducted on the outdoor board oval at the Hilltop despite the frigidity of the weather.

Coach John D. O'Reilly did not reveal the stop-watch figures of the place winners, but it was believed that all of the four made satisfactory speed under prevailing conditions of the weather and the track. The award to Whalen came in the nature of personal triumph, as it was his first nomination for varsity competition after a year's absence from athletics.

Whalen, Out of Competition Last Year, in Shape.

During the entire 1927-28 season Whalen was forced to idle on account of an operation. The year before he had shown promise in the 100, 220 and 440 yard dashes, but with a year's interruption in training a doubt was cast over his ability to return to old form. His time yesterday was said to be the fastest of the four, convincing that his comeback had been crowned with success.

Eric Kjellstrom, who competed on the Hilltop Team two weeks ago in Brooklyn, did not try out yesterday. He has given up flat racing for the hurdles. Erwin Coeh, another member of the quartet in the Brooklyn event, entered the trials but could not do his best owing to an injury sustained while pole vaulting last Monday.

STRAYER'S QUINTET SCORES.

The Strayers Five, strengthened by the return of Jack Dix to its line-up, scored decisively over the All-Nations Quintet last night, 37 to 21, in the St. Martin's Gymnasium. Dix celebrated his return to the line-up by crashing through with four baskets for 8 points to lead his team. The Strayers ousgage the Shepherdtown College Five next Thursday at Shepherdtown, W. Va.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

The Parent Counselor.

In Hope There Is Life.

BIRTH, life, death—the trinity for each of us.

At birth the business of living is capitalized by a long line of heritages of habits, instincts and potentialities.

At death a balance is struck. Worldly standards may write the figures in red or black. Long afterward, posterity changes the colors. Columbus, at his death, cut a small figure on the world's stage. Posterity sees in him a Colossus.

Each according to his light chooses things, contentment, dollars, fame, family, service to others in his pursuit of happiness as he conceives happiness. In the beginning everyone knew what he wanted. At the end few are satisfied.

Fortunate we are, in that we do not worry over life's assets, liabilities and balance sheets. Hopes, ambitions, dreams and desires are ever in our hearts. To get ahead, to make the most of ourselves, to be happy, to help others, to create, motivates our behavior.

Unfortunate we are when we do not consciously organize our business of living along business lines.

The Way of Life.

And herein lies the field of guidance. Merely to call this field "vocational" guidance is vastly to limit the business of living to material items.

Only to think of "educational" guidance may result in merely listing subjects and courses.

Far better to think of guidance as being the conscious attempt of an individual to make the most of himself.

On ancestors—who, alas, can not remedy their mistakes—rests a great responsibility. Because of their errors we must strive the harder. Because of their gifts we climb the easier.

Upon our environment of churches, homes, schools, libraries and social agencies rests the responsibility of giving every one of us a fair start in life.

On ourselves—our health, ideals, education, personality, efficiency and initiative—rests what we do with a business where heritage furnished the original stock and where environment—for better or for worse—houses the business of living.

Parents need guidance in child welfare and management that their children may have a fair start in life.

Schools, churches, homes, factories and stories need guidance that they may increase the store of human wealth in an environment of a better world.

Youth needs guidance that it may find its dreams of a better self in the realities of a better world.

Oldsters need guidance in changing their realities of failure into the dreams of success.

From birth to death, life is hope, and where there is hope there is life.

And guidance is to help us realize our hopes.

Long Puzzled.

We have been debating the following: Is it unchristian to join a labor union?

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB.

Answer—Surely it can not be unchristian to unite to improve working conditions, to raise the standard of living, to provide sick benefits, to work for better factory laws and better education of workers.

Unwise Correspondence.

Is it wise for young girls to correspond with unknown men?

WANDERING GIRL.

Answer—I think you meant to sign yourself "Wondering Girl," but you certainly will be a "Wandering Girl," and you will wander far afield, if you correspond with unknown men. It is about all one can do to correspond safely with those one does know.

Troublesome Age.

My boy of 15 smokes, is careless in his dress and chums with all the vags in town. He is a good boy, and I don't want him to be a snob. Should I let him have those chums and get his fill of them, and watch him closely, or make him stop going with them?

BROODING.

Answer—A part of this reflects his adolescence. How are his studies in school? Does he care for any heroes? Is he a member of the Boy Scout organization? Is he a leader at any sort of sports? What does he read at home? What has he in the line of tools? Is he earning any money on the outside? Is he earning an allowance? Or is he just sitting and standing around with those chums? If he were my son I should stop the smoking and lead him with more wholesome companionship.

What Today Means to You

FEBRUARY 1.

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 1 is your birthday the most propitious hours for you today are from 8:45 a. m. to 9:15 a. m., from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 1:15 p. m. to 2:15 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The invisible forces will affect your life today through the many inspirations which will flood your mind. Many of yesterday's unsolved problems will receive new light and spontaneous acts will sow the seed for a rich harvest of future good.

The child born today will have an abundance of enthusiasm, which will not be easily dampened by exterior forces. It will ride undaunted over many obstacles on the waves of its optimism. It will be assertive and will display considerable self-assurance.

You will have a busy and well-balanced life. Your feelings are very deep, but you are emotionally stable. Sorrow and fear or anger and desire may tear at your heart, but you will not be irrecoverably shaken or unbalanced. You are not vacillating and your decisions are usually final. You are able to say "yes" and "no" and mean it. You make no false pretenses to be flunked later—your word can be depended upon.

The motives which govern your life are not selfish ones. In your desire to accomplish an end you obey the laws of fair play and listen to the promptings of your conscience. You would rather lose a prize than your self-respect. To you there are no moral trifles, no shades of truth, honesty or integrity. A more charitable attitude toward others is something for which you should strive as you are a little intolerant toward those who fall below your standards of living. Try to become less a judge and more a teacher.

Your prejudices are apt to falsely color and to distort the truth. The real goodness, kindness and bigness of your nature is rather over-shadowed by the austerity of your outward manner. Your affections are deep, but they are too well hidden and too little displayed to receive due credit.

Successful people born on February 1.

Fish Clog Hose at Fire; Old Homestead Burned

Livingston, N. J., Jan. 31 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—The firemen of this village had an alibi today for the destruction of the old Anthony Jacob homestead, with loss of $10,000. The only water in the neighborhood was in a frozen pond. They put the suction pump of their engine through a hole in the ice and started to fight the fire. Suddenly the flow of water stopped.

Investigation showed that the intake pipe was clogged with hundreds of small fishes, and while the minnows were cleaned out the house burned up.

Movie Stars to Demand Payment for Photographs

Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Movie fans no longer will get autographed photographs of their film favorites free of charge. The Association of Motion Picture Producers has ruled that hereafter the deluge of fan mail would be checked by answering requests for the coveted photographs with a card suggesting a nominal price be sent to pay for the picture.

The ever mounting cost to movie studios and their stars was given as the reason for the economy edict.

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES SHOW GAIN

TURNOVER RATIO HIGHER

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Sales of Washington department stores in December developed a 2.5 per cent increase over the same month in 1927, while trade for the year ended December 31 showed a gain of 3.3 per cent over the twelve months preceding, according to the statement on retail trade conditions released by the Federal Reserve Board today.

Increased December sales in this city were in contrast with a loss of 2.8 per cent in Richmond, a drop of 1.8 per cent in Baltimore, and a falling off of 6.5 per cent in other cities of the Fifth Federal Reserve District. Richmond showed a gain of 2.3 per cent for the year, but Baltimore reported a decline of 1.3 per cent, and other cities in the area, a loss of 6.2 per cent.

Washington also reported a higher rate of stock turnover in December, the .57 ratio shown in that month comparing with .53 in December, 1927. For the year ended December 31, the rate of stock turnover here was 3.89, an improvement over the 3.51 reported in 1927. The turnover for the entire Fifth District was at the rate of 3.35 last year, comparing with 3.33 the year before.

Stocks on hand in Washington department stores on December 31 were 4.2 per cent smaller than the supply a year ago, and were 19.6 per cent below the level on November 30, 1928. In the entire Fifth District, there was a decrease of 2.4 per cent in stocks on December 31, compared with the same date in 1927, and a decline of 19.2 per cent when compared with November 30, 1928.

For the country as a whole, department store trade showed greater activity in December than in any other month for the year, except September, even when allowance is made for the usual seasonal expansion of trade and for number of business days. The total volume of sales during the month was the largest on record, exceeding that of December, 1927, which had one more business day. For the entire year 1928 the volume of sales increased about 1 per cent over the preceding year.

Sales of mail order houses and reporting chain stores in all lines except cigars were larger during December than a year ago, the largest increases being reported by drug and apparel and dry-goods chains. For the year as a whole, sales of chain stores in all lines of trade except cigars increased in comparison with 1927, and sales of mail order houses were 17 per cent larger. These increases reflect in part the establishment during the year of additional retail outlets.

Increased sales for the month, as compared with December, 1927, were reported by department stores in Richmond, New York and Chicago Federal Reserve districts, while large decreases occurred in the Atlanta and Minneapolis districts.

Bank Clearings Gain.

Clearings from Washington banks for the month ended yesterday reached the high total of $129,438,291.81, a gain of $15,029,458.39 over clearings for January 1928, according to figures compiled yesterday by Charles E. Bright, of the National Metropolitan Bank, manager of the Washington Clearing House Association.

The total compares with $114,408,832.92 reported in the same month last year, and $117,074,963.02 recorded in January, 1927. The January figure is not far below the $129,981,412.41 total for December, an unusual circumstance, in as much as the holiday trade usually swells the December figure to comparatively much higher proportions. The aggregate reached in January was only surpassed by one other month ast year. That month was October, w n local bank clearings amounted to $137,660,693.74, a record for all time.

	1927.	1928.

Brokers' Loans Set Record.

Loans to brokers and dealers for the week ended January 30, reported to the Federal Reserve Board yesterday by the New York banks, reached $5,559,000,000, an increase of $116,000,000 over the $5,443,000,000 reported for the week preceding. This is a new high record for all time.

Loans "for own account" were reported at $1,091,000,000, a gain of $81,000,000 over the total reported in this class for the week prior. Loans "for account of out-of-town banks" were $1,853,000,000, being identical with the aggregate recorded for this item the week preceding. Loans "for account of others" amounted to $2,615,000,000, a gain of $36,000,000 over the previous week.

Capital Prices Firm.

Prices were firm, and trading in moderate volume, on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday. Washington Gas Light again was in demand at 125. Forty-nine shares of the stock changed hands at that figure.

Lanston Monotype achieved a new high level, opening at 122, a half point above the last price brought. It closed at 121½ in a 20-share lot transaction. Washington Railway & Electric, preferred, moved fractionally to 99¾, and Columbia Sand & Gravel, preferred, to 94½.

A single share of Mergenthaler Linotype came out at 104, fractionally up. Holding at former levels, Capital Traction again sold at 106½, Potomac Electric 5½% preferred, at 108½ and 108¾, and Federal-American Co., common, at 55.

Washington Gas 5s led the trading in the bond division, $3,500 changing hands at 101½, while $2,000 Washington Railway & Electric 4s traded at 89¾, and $1,000 Potomac Electric Consolidated 5s, at 102.

Banking Position Strained

"Figures may well indicate that our banking position at the present time is somewhat more strained than it has been during any peace time year since the establishment of the Federal-Reserve System, with the exception of the immediate postwar period," states the Fortnightly review of G. M.—P. Murphy & Co., which maintains Washington offices at 1808 H street northwest and 1000 Connecticut avenue.

"Upon the system will fall the responsibility for the amount of correction deemed necessary and the mode of operation chosen to bring it into effect. For the investor, the period immediately ahead promises to be one which will present new problems, and he should therefore give careful attention to the pronouncements made from time to time by high banking authorities."

Federal Reserve Statement

The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve banks on January 30, made public yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board, shows an increase for the week of $38,500,000 in holdings of discounted bills; the decrease of $18,600,000 in bills bought in the open market, and of $300,000 in Government securities. Member bank reserve deposits increased $32,100,000; Government deposits, $5,900,000, and cash reserves, $21,700,000; while Federal Reserve note circulation declined $15,500,000. Total bills and securities were $19,600,000 above the amount held on January 23.

MASS MEETING TODAY ON AVENUE PROPOSAL

MERGING OF EFFORTS AIM

Representatives of leading civic organizations of the suburban area of Prince Georges County, Md., will hold a mass meeting today at the Maryland Park High School. Civic leaders of Hyattsville, Mount Rainier, Bladensburg, Benning and other communities bordering on the District of Columbia will meet to discuss plans for obtaining the extension of Central avenue to the Crain Highway.

It is hoped at the meeting to consolidate the efforts of the various groups which are working for this and other important improvements for this section of the county. The meeting is Chamber of Commerce of the Eighth Chamber of Comerce of the Eighth Election District.

$2,000 Bandits' Taxi Late; Policeman Catches Him

Newark, N. J., Jan. 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—"Sorry, you'll have to take the first cab in line," impatient Edwin Gottlieb was told when he grabbed a taxi here today. This delay gave Traffic Patrolman Henry Hummell time to catch up and jump on the running board as Gottlieb drove away.

Gottlieb snapped a .38 caliber pistol three times in Hummel's face, without explosion. Hummell knocked Gottlieb out with one blow on the jaw. Gottlieb had $2,000 cash and $1,000 checks which he had just taken from an assistant cashier of the National Biscuit Co.

Later it was found that Gottlieb had escaped from the Essex County Penitentiary last August.

Georgetown's Medical School to Be Started

Construction of the new million dollar medical and dental school building for Georgetown University will start immediately at the Reservoir road site, Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of the university, announced yesterday after signing the contract with the Charles H. Tompkins Co., of this city.

Excavation work for the foundation, begun early in January, has reached the point where the building construction can proceed without delay. The contract calls for completion by September 15. Owing to changes in the plans for the laboratories, the directors of Georgetown had to call a second time for bids. The Charles H. Tompkins Co. was awarded the contract over a score of bidders.

Income Tax Unit Heads End Parley With Dinner

A two-week conference in Washington with the internal revenue agents and other field officials ended with a banquet given by officials of the income tax unit, Bureau of Internal Revenue, at the Raleigh Hotel last night.

Among the guests, numbering more than 300, were Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Henry Herrick Bond, Assistant Secretary Carl Schuneman, Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman, Commissioner David M. Blair and assistant to the commissioner, H. F. Mires. C. B. Allen, deputy commissioner in charge of the income tax unit, acted as toastmaster.

Sale of Ship Lines Expected Next Week

(Associated Press.)

Chairman O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, said after a conference with President Coolidge yesterday that he expects a decision next week on the disposition of the United States Lines and the American Merchant Lines, for which bids have been received.

Asked if he considered the bid of more than $16,000,000 by P. W Chapman & Co., New York bankers, a good price, he replied that it was within $25,000 of the book value of the lines. His conference with President Coolidge, he said, had to do with transoceanic mail contracts, but he declined to reveal the details of the discussion.

Raymond E. Cox Marries Miss Margaret Berwind

Philadelphia, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Miss Margaret Berwind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Augustus Berwind, Philadelphia, and Raymond E. Cox, second secretary of the American Embassy, London, were married in St. James Protestant Episcopal Church here late today. A large assemblage of guests from New York, Washington Baltimore and this city was present.

The marriage was performed by the Rev. Dr. John Mockridge, rector of the church, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, rector of the Memorial Church of St. Paul, Overbrook.

THE BIG DICTIONARY

Distribution Starts Today

Our readers are urged to present their coupons promptly. The Dictionary coupon is printed daily in this newspaper. Three coupons clipped on consecutive days qualifies you to obtain the New World Dictionary Based on the Original Webster. Entirely New.

Millions of good Dictionaries have heretofore been distributed to newspaper readers, but this volume is far in advance of any similar Dictionary ever presented. It contains thousands of new words, many never heretofore published in a Dictionary, more words to the page. It is larger in size, printed on fine clear white paper and more handsomely bound. You must see and examine this high-class Dictionary. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if not satisfied.

ON TRIAL IN "THRILL" SLAYING

Jury Debates Fate Of Slayer's Friend

Judge's Instructions Give Option of Three Verdicts in Holdup Case.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—The case of Richard Gray Gallogly, charged with the murder of Willard Smith, a clerk, during the hold-up of a drug store on the night of October 16, went to the jury in superior court at 6:27 o'clock tonight.

In his charge, Judge V. B. Moore gave the jury the option of returning three verdicts—guilty, which would carry a penalty of death; guilty, with a recommendation of mercy, which would mean life imprisonment, and acquittal.

The jury, immediately after hearing the charge, was taken to dinner, after which it was to begin its deliberation. After deliberating two hours and a half, the jury reported it had been unable so far to arrive at a verdict and Judge Moore ordered it locked up for the night at 10:30 o'clock with instructions to resume its deliberations at 9 a. m. tomorrow. There was no indication as to how the jury stood.

George Harsh, collegian and scion of a Milwaukee family, was convicted January 19 and sentenced to death March 15 as the actual killer of the 24-year-old drug clerk.

For Virginia—Generally fair and slightly colder Friday; Saturday fair with slowly rising temperature; fresh, possibly strong, north or northwest winds, diminishing by Friday night.

The North Atlantic storm is now central some distance east of Newfoundland, Cape Race, 29.52 inches, and pressure is low and falling over Greenland and Iceland, Godhavn, Greenland, 29.56 inches. The disturbance that was central over Texas Wednesday night has dissipated over the western Gulf of Mexico, and another disturbance that developed over the Ohio Valley during Wednesday night has moved southeastward to the North Carolina coast, Hatteras 29.86 inches. Another disturbance is approaching the Washington and Oregon coasts, Northhead, 29.80 inches, and still another is central west of the Aleutian Islands, Dutch Harbor, 29.42 inches. These disturbances have been attended by precipitation, mostly light and in the form of snow, from the North Pacific coast eastward to western Montana, and from the upper Mississippi Valley eastward to the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic coast. Pressure is quite high from the Arctic Ocean southeastward over western Canada, the northern Rocky Mountain region, the Plains States, and the Mississippi Valley, Fort Simpson, B. C., N. T., 30.80, and Miles City, Mont., 30.66 inches. The temperature has fallen in the upper Lake region, the great central valleys, the southern Plains States, the southern Rocky Mountain region, and the West Gulf States, and the weather is now abnormally cold in the North Pacific States, and from the Rocky Mountains eastward to the Appalachian region.

Mostly fair weather will prevail Friday and Saturday in the Washington forecast district, preceded by snow flurries Friday morning in portions of the Northeastern States. The temperature will be lower Friday and in the Atlantic States Friday night, followed by slowly rising temperature Saturday, except in the North Atlantic States, Florida and the southern portions of Georgia and South Carolina.

Adm. F. H. Delano Dies at Annapolis

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 31.—Rear Admiral Francis H. Delano, United States Navy, retired, died in the Naval Hospital here early today following an illness brought on by a general breakdown due to encroachments of age. He was nearly 81. He is survived by his widow and a son, Maj. Frederick Delano, United States Marine Corps, retired, both of whom live in Annapolis.

The funeral will be from the Naval Academy Chapel at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, followed by interment in the Naval Academy Cemetery. Capt. Sydney K. Evans, chaplain of the academy, will conduct the services.

Admiral Delano was among the oldest graduates of the Naval Academy. A native of Mount Carmel, Ohio, he was appointed from Massachusetts. He entered the academy in 1863 and was graduated in the class of 1867. He served through the various grades until, in 1905, after more than 44 years of service, he was transferred to the retired list upon his own request, with the rank of rear admiral. He was executive officer of the cruiser Minneapolis, a commerce destroyer during the Spanish-American War and later commanded the Swanee, Alliance, Topeka, Buffalo and Lancaster. Until a few months prior to the war with Spain he was executive officer of the cruiser Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship at Manila Bay.

Capital Seismograph Records Earth Tremors

(Associated Press.)

Earth tremors lasting for an hour and a half, and believed to have occurred 2,400 miles southwest of Washington, were recorded yesterday on the seismograph of Georgetown University.

The tremors started at 1:12 p. m., and their maximum was recorded at 1:25 p. m. Father F. A. Tondorf, director of the observatory, described them as "sharp."

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Crop scare buying made wheat values jump today, but predictions of comparative warmth tomorrow west forced profit-taking that more than wiped price gains out. Earlier the chief factor was fear that extensive damage to winter wheat would result from severe low temperatures and unprotected fields, especially in Nebraska.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at the same as yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¾ cent to ⅞ cent and rye 1 cent off, oats ¼ cent to ⅜ cent down, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to an equal advance.

Highest prices of the day in wheat came right at the outset, and the lowest were just at the close. Nebraska advices received during the opening transactions told of 15 degrees below zero temperatures and of entire absence of snow in numerous places. All over the State the crop outlook was described as very unpromising, as there was word also of frigid conditions in Kansas and Missouri, with a new cold wave looked for tonight throughout Illinois and Indiana.

Uncertainty, however, whether actual damage to wheat would prove to be severe, and the fact that this uncertainty is bound to prevail to a greater or less extent for more than a month yet was an incentive to selling as the day wore on, especially as rising temperatures appeared probable tomorrow this side of the Rockies. On the other hand, export call for wheat from North America was better, and purchases today for shipment to Europe were estimated at 600,000 bushels. Meanwhile, too, a good deal of talk was current that the general run of crop comments from rural sources indicated much belief among farmers the crop injury this season has been more extensive than is usual.

Argentina advices of widespread rain had a weakening effect on the corn market, although direct damage to part of the Argentina corn crop was reported as beyond repair. Current estimates today put the Argentina exportable corn surplus this season at 100,000,000 bushels less than that of last season. Oats today were unsettled, but averaged lower with corn and wheat.

Packers' selling and downturns in hog values tended to ease down the provision market.

Sinclair's Appeal Opposed in Brief

Appellate Court to Hear Argument in Contempt Cases Monday.

A brief in opposition to appeals of Harry F. Sinclair, Henry Mason Day, William J. Burns and W. Sherman Burns, who were held in contempt of court by Justice Frederick L. Siddons in the District Supreme Court last February on charges of jury tampering, was filed in the District Court of Appeals yesterday by District Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw.

The jury-tampering accusations resulted in a mistrial declaration during trial of conspiracy charges against Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, and Sinclair in connection with the leasing of the Teapot Dome oil reserves. Sinclair was sentenced to six months in jail, Day to four months, William J. Burns to fifteen days and W. Sherman Burns to a fine of $1,000.

Arguments on the cases are scheduled before the appellate court on Monday, and three hours have been allotted to each side. Burkinshaw will argue for the Government. In the brief filed yesterday, the Government contended that jury shadowing alone is a matter of court contempt, but the case was aggravated by a visit of a private detective to the home of one of the jurors, who is alleged to have stated that he expected to receive an automobile a "block long" after acquitting Sinclair.

Policemen to Discuss Inequitable Allowances

"Inequitable reductions in the compensation of certain members of the Metropolitan Police Force" will come in for discussion at a meeting Tuesday of the Policemen's Association of the District of Columbia in the Odd Fellows Temple.

A circular sent out by the association points out that the mounted police are allowed $360 a year with which to buy and maintain their horse and to replace their horse if killed, whereas, police detailed to bicycle patrol are given only $50 a year with which they must buy their own bicycle and repair it whenever necessary. Police inspectors, the circular states, are allowed $1 a day for automobile expenses. Representative Robert G. Simmons will speak.

Mailman's Slayers Get Life Sentences

Conviction of Two Accounts for All Accept One of Gang of Seven.

Elizabeth, N. J., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Canice Neary and William Fanning, New York gunmen, were convicted of murder in the first degree today for the slaying of John P. Enz, mail truck driver, in a $151,700 robbery here on October 14, 1926. The jury brought in a recommendation for mercy and both men were immediately sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Alfred A. Stein.

The conviction of Neary and Fanning and the confessions of Frank Kiekart and Benjamin Haas, who were the State's chief witnesses against the defendants, account for all but one member of the gang of seven involved in the slaying and robbery. James Cunniffe and William Crowley, reputed leaders of the gang, died in a fight over the stolen money and a woman in Detroit. Crowley killed Cunniffe and police killed Crowley.

A man named Degross, who was said by Keikart and Haas to have been the man who actually killed Enz, has not been apprehended.

Grafting Admitted By Customs Officer

Gregory H. Fredericks, Assistant United States District Attorney, dismissed a fifth indictment.

Judge Simons deferred sentence until the other defendants have appeared in court.

The indictments to which Tompkins pleaded guilty were that he accepted money from alleged bootleggers, two of whom have been indicted and are at liberty on bonds of $25,000 each.

Murder Is Revealed By Parrot's Silence

Portland, Me., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Silence of the woman's parrot led today to the discovery of the body of Mrs. Pauline Zimmerman, 45, in a room in Liverpool Tavern, where she had been strangled with a rope. Police found evidences of a struggle in the room.

Mrs. Zimmerman was proprietor of the tavern, a waterfront building, on the ground floor of which she operated a store.

As Policeman Thomas Conley stepped into the store this afternoon he was struck by the absence of the shrill whistle with which he usually has been greeted by the parrot. The bird simply bowed its head.

Suspicious, the policeman summoned a nearby insurance man and began a search of the upstairs rooms. They found Mrs. Zimmerman's body, fully clothed, on a bed. A pillow had been pushed down on her face and a rope had been tied around her neck. No motive for the crime has been found.

ACTION ON MERGER PROMISED FOR NEXT WEEK BY SENATORS

District Committee Expected to Favor Resolution Without Blaine Amendment.

GLASS URGES MALTBIE'S PROPOSAL BE INDORSED

Dr. Ryan Opposes Authorizing Traction Combine as Urged by Expert.

The Senate District committee devoted nearly four hours yesterday listening to proponents and opponents of the resolution authorizing a street car merger here, and then decided to meet early next week and take definite action on the matter.

The prospect is that the committee will make a favorable report on the resolution in its present form, and recommend that the controversial Blaine amendment be taken up by the Senate as separate legislation.

As yesterday's hearing, the Senators discovered there is a wide divergence of opinion here with regard to the Blaine amendment, which provides that the utilities companies shall be evaluated according to the prudent investment theory.

Glass Favors Expert's View

Senator Glass (Democrat) of Virginia, probably expressed the thoughts of most of his colleagues when he said:

"These lawyers are involved in so many insuperable difficulties that we newspaper men and doctors on the committee may as well go ahead and settle the question by following the committee's expert."

The expert is Dr. Milo R. Maltbie, of New York, who, acting for the committee, wrung a number of important concessions from the traction leaders, and finally drew up the resolution which is pending.

Among those who yesterday advocated adoption of the resolution without the Blaine amendment were Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations; Jesse C. Adkins, of the Board of Trade; Harry King, of the Chamber of Commerce; John R. Newman, of the Central Labor Union, and Oscar W. Hammond, of the District Federation of Federal Employes.

Blaine Proposal Favored.

Newman and Hammond said that while they favored the Blaine amendment in principle, they thought it ought to be taken up as seperate legislation. They also suggested it be changed to prevent the utilities companies from obtaining authority to fix wages of employes.

W. A. Roberts, of the Federation of Citizens Associations, suggested changes in the resolution, but added, "I do not say that if any of these suggestions were left out I would not favor the merger."

Dr. John A. Ryan, of Catholic University, indorsed the Blaine amendment, saying it would keep down fares. He said he would rather see the merger go over than have the resolution adopted without the amendment. However, he agreed with Senator Vandenberg that the resolution with the amendment could not get through Congress at this session.

Fare Rise Expected.

In reply to a question by Vandenberg, Dr. Ryan said it was probably true that fares are going up anyway if the merger fails.

Marcer Johnston, of the People's Legislative Service, said the omission of a depreciation fund in the structure of the new company "looks like the embezzlement of funds taken out of the pockets of straphangers over a period of years."

William McK. Clayton, chairman of the utilities committee of the federation, advocated four amendments in the resolution, so as to provide for a Congressional charter, universal free transfers between cars and buses, reduced fares for school children, and the carrying forward into the new company of depreciation reserves.

John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., said it would be difficult to draft a new charter before the end of the short session, and said the question of universal transfers and reduced fares for children should be left to the Public Utilities Commission.

Ambassador to Honor Fried at Board's Frolic

As a compliment to Capt. George Fried, heroic commander of the America, which rescued the crew of the Italian steamer Florida last week, Giacomo de Martino, Italian Ambassador, will attend the banquet of the Washington Board of Trade tomorrow night at the Willard. Announcement that Capt. Fried would be a guest of honor was made Tuesday.

Elaborate preparations for the banquet, which will represent a "cruise around the world," have been completed, according to Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the organization. The main ballroom of the hotel has been decorated to represent a ship and acts will be offered representing the various countries touched on the "voyage."

Woman Held as Maryland Fugitive Sued for Divorce

Mrs. Patricia R. Bennett, 19 years old, of 1120 Twenty-fourth street northwest, against whom a charge of being a fugitive from justice of Prince Georges County, Md., as the result of an alleged attack on her mother-in-law with a knife is pending, was sued for absolute divorce yesterday in the District Supreme Court by her husband, Baxter Bennett, of the Colorado Building.

Mrs. Bennett, the mother of two children, was arraigned in Police Court on the fugitive charge Wednesday and declared her intention of fighting extradition. She was held in $500 bond by Judge Gus A. Schuldt for a hearing on February 26. The parties were married May 3, 1924, when the wife was but 14 years of age. The divorce action was filed through Attorneys Burkart and Quinn.

Girl, Struck by Auto, Given $7,000 Verdict

An agreed verdict of $7,000 damages was awarded Isabella Jelly, 7 years old, by a jury before Justice William Hitz in circuit division of the District Supreme Court yesterday against Bessie L. Beattie, of Clarendon, Va., and Robert W. Wood, of Vienna, Va.

The suit, filed through Norman Jelly, father of the girl, charged that she was injured when struck by an automobile, driven by Wood and owned by the co-defendant, while returning from school on Bingham road northwest, January 26, 1928. Attorneys Vandoren, Rafferty and Rogers appeared for the plaintiff while the defendants were represented by Attorneys Swingle & Swingle.

MACMILLAN DEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR CAPITAL BROUGHT UP TO DATE

The MacMillan plan of 1901 for the development of Washington, brought up to date and showing the two triangles north and south of the Mall filled with prospective Federal and semipublic structures. The drawing, now on file in the office of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, shows such modifications as have been approved by or covered by bills now before Congress. Such features as the Washington Monument grounds and grounds south of it remain as recommended by the MacMillan commission.

Teachers Protest Appointment Rider

Passage Will Handicap Normal School Graduates Here, Union Contends.

The Teachers Union, Local No. 27, has sent a letter to the various civic organizations in the District of Columbia protesting against the rider attached to the District appropriation bill which affects the priority clause governing the appointment of District Normal School graduates.

The protest points out that if the rider is passed only one-fourth of the graduates of the Miner Normal and Wilson Normal schools can be placed. The letter also stresses that twenty States have four-year normal schools, that they give preference to State graduates and that even if the local schools are opened to the States that the District will not get the best graduates.

Mrs. M. M. Jones is president of the union and Mrs. M. H. Addision is secretary.

Nine in Oyster School's First Graduating Class

The first class to be graduated from the George M. Oyster School in its new building was given diplomas at commencement exercises held in the school auditorium yesterday morning. There were nine pupils in the graduating class.

William Tyler Page, clerk in the House of Representatives, gave a short talk on "American Opportunity," and H. W. Draper, section superintendent of public schools, presented the diplomas and made an address. Members of the class were: Elizabeth Robbins, Elizabeth Hall, Margaret Hall, Ruth Johnston, Betty Johnston, Irving Lipchman, Marshall Guthrie, Reginald Fennel, and Hyman Kossow.

Capital Tailor Shop Looted of $400 Goods

Thieves entered the tailor shop of Jack Stein, 715 North Capitol street, Wednesday night and stole goods valued at $400, Stein informed police yesterday.

They entered through a rear window and stole seven overcoats, eight shirts, five suitcases, six caps, 54 shirts, 36 neckties and several boxes of soap.

23 Girls Graduate At Wilson Normal

Dr. W. A. Wilbur Speaker at the Exercises Held in School Auditorium.

Twenty-three young women received diplomas at the graduation exercises of the James Ormond Wilson Normal School last night in the auditorium of the institution.

Dr. William Allen Wilbur, provost of George Washington University, delivered the address. The diplomas were presented by S. E. Kramer, first assistant superintendent of schools. Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent, presided. The Rev. S. Carroll Coale pronounced the invocation. A musical program was given.

Police Arrest "Spook" Of Methodist Building

Convicted of being the "spook" who caused elevators to stop, lights to go out and strange noises to echo through the Methodist Building, First and A streets northeast, last Sunday night, Clifford Weideman, discharged employe of the building, was ordered by Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court to pay a fine of $25 on an assault charge.

The strange happenings in the building so frightened Joseph Bolden, colored elevator boy, that he would not investigate the freakish noises without the assistance of police. Later in the morning, Weideman and Clarence Daw, another employe, indulged in an argument over whether or not Bolden was superstitious, and the source of the strange noises. Weideman was convicted of assaulting Daw during the argument.

50 DUNBAR PUPILS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN

Graduation exercises were held last night at Dunbar High School for the largest midyear class in the history of the school. Fifty boys and girls received diplomas from Mrs. Mary A. McNeill, member of the Board of Education.

"CARRY ON" IS SUBJECT

The wartime order "Carry On" was made the theme of Francis A. Woodward's address to the 59 graduating students of McKinley High School at the exercises held in the school auditorium last evening and presided over by Isaac Gans.

"Let the phrase 'carry on' be a part of your creed," said Dr. Woodward, who is principal of the Gordon Junior High School. "Remember that no matter what happens, you always have a duty to perform for your fellow man. Do your part and do it to the best of your ability. And remember that it is teamwork that wins."

The Rev. R. Y. Nicholson, pastor of the Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Church, gave the invocation.

The valedictory address was made by Charles M. Wolfe, who maintained the highest scholastic average in his class over the four-year course. Four students had averages of 90 or more—Miss Vera Irene Colt, Miss Marion R. Odell, Bernard Hemelt and Charles M. Wolfe.

A scholarship to the Y. M. C. A. School of Accountancy was awarded to Howard Elmer Florence, while a scholarship to Strayer's Business College was awarded to Thomas F. Stretton.

Yacht Mayflower Leads For Efficiency Record

If the presidential yacht, Mayflower, keeps up until July 1, the efficiency record it has maintained for the first five months of the present fiscal year, it will win the engineering trophy and permission to display the prize "E" on its smokestack.

The Mayflower is now leading the gunboat class for engineering efficiency, and its runner-up is the gunboat, Tulsa, followed by the Sacramento, Eagle Boat No. 58 recently at Bellevue, D. C., is sixth on the list.

Contract for the construction of stands to seat 16,000 persons was awarded yesterday by the inaugural grandstand committee of which Charles H. Tompkins is chairman. The P. A. McHugh Seating Co., of Cleveland, was the successful bidder. These stands will be constructed on Pennsylvania avenue between Thirteenth street and the White House.

Bids for the 5,000 covered stands in Lafayette Square have been asked of twelve local contractors and will be awarded about Monday.

Sixteen governors have already signified their intention of appearing in the parade from the following States: Kentucky, Tennessee, Delaware, Illinois, Vermont, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Wyoming, New Mexico, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Virginia. They will be supplied automobiles by the transportation committee.

The official reception to the governors will be held at the Willard Hotel the night of March 3. Admittance will be by invitation and 3,000 are expected.

Further units allotted positions in the parade by Gen. Anton Stephan are Richmond Light Infantry Blues and band, Richmond Howitzers and band, Richmond Greys, Monticello Guards, Petersburg Fife and Drum Corps, Georgetown Band and one company of cadets; John Marshall High School, Richmond, Va., one company and band; 25 cowboys from North Dakota; Veterans of Foreign Wars; Ladies Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Women's Overseas League; Military Order of World War; Military Order of Foreign Wars; National Sojourners; Disabled American Veterans.

The transportation committee announced that the fare and one-half for round trip now prevails on all railroads.

PRESIDENT OF D.A.R. IS CHOICE TO LEAD PATRIOTIC WOMEN

Mrs. A. J. Brosseau Is Elected New Chairman as Fourth Conference Ends.

LEADING RESOLUTION FAVORED CRUISER BILL

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the D. A. R., was elected chairman of the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense at its closing session in Memorial Continental Hall yesterday afternoon. The other officers elected were first vice president, Mrs. Boyce Ficklen, jr., president American Legion auxiliary; second vice president, Mrs. Thomas Spence, president American War Mothers; secretary, Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, Washington, D. C., Daughters of 1812, and treasurer, Mrs. Albert Mang, National Society of the Loyal Legion.

Resolutions occupied the last few minutes of the fourth Woman's Patriotic Conference on National Defense at its closing session in Memorial Continental Hall. Among the outstanding resolutions presented and passed was one demanding immediate passage of the cruiser bill, with the three-year time limitation clause intact.

Within a half hour after the passage of this resolution a committee called upon Senator Frederick Hale, of the naval affairs committee, and presented the resolution.

A spirited attack was made by Senator Daniel F. Steck, of Iowa, the principal speaker of the morning session on organized professional pacifists whom he charged were spending $3,000,000 annually bombarding Congress with protests against "everything American."

Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, who followed Senator Steck as a speaker, also paid his respects to the "professional pacifists."

The resolutions passed at the session included those urging Congress not to repeal nor postpone the passage of the national origins provision of the present immigration law, enforcement of the undesirable deportation clause and the adoption of a law compelling the registration of aliens.
